Poetry.

A HINT TO FARMERS.
Dry the plough, and dry the harrow—
Put the implements away;
For the harvesting is ended,
And the barns are filled with hay.
House the horse, and house the cattle,
Give them bedding nice and warm,
Shield them from the cold of winter,
From the keen and biting storm.

Give the sheep and lambs a shelter,
For the nights are getting cold,
And the fleece in early summer,
Will repay you many fold.

Look with care at all the windows,
Mend each crack and broken pane,
See the winter days are coming,
And the "Ice King" soon will reign.

Rake the dead grass slowly over,
Gather up the fallen leaves,
They will make a nice warm bedding!
Stow them up beneath the eaves.

Many a room is gently groaning
"Nath the weight of golden corn;
Nature has been truly bounteous,
Filling up your plentiful horn.

Give God praise this glorious autumn,
Now the harvesting is o'er!
Barns are filled to overflowing,
As they ne'er were filled before.

Give God praise for all his bounties,
Through the length and breadth of land,
For the "seed time and the harvest,"
He has given with lavish hand.

Interesting Selections.

GRAPE-JELLY. Take cultivated grapes hardly ripe, or green. If light-colored jelly is desired, take them quite green.— Boil gently until the juice is flowing and the pulp half dissolved. Cool them and press them through a strong but thin bag, which will allow most of the dissolved pulp to pass through. Weigh the pulp, and allow one pound two ounces of sugar to one pound of fruit; boil the jelly until considerably reduced, and then add the sugar; boil with the sugar fifteen minutes, when it will be ready to put into moulds.

TOMATO CATSUP. Take one peck of tomatoes, cut them in thin slices, put them in an earthen pot, boil them until they are quite soft. Then put them through a sieve, until nothing remains but the skins and seed. Put the pulp in the pot and let it boil until quite thick. Then take as follows, one tablespoonful of red pepper, one of black, one of cloves, one of allspice,
one of mustard, one of mace, one of nutmeg, four of salt. Boil well, then put in to bottles, cork and seal.

SUPERIOR COUGH MIXTURE. Half ounce of senna, half an ounce of stiff liquorice, half an ounce of curraway seed, half an ounce of aniseed. Boil in a quart of water until reduced to a pint; add of water until reduced to a pint; then strain it, and add half a pint of molasses, and boil it a few minutes longer. When cold, add a good generous half pint of best gin, or whiskey, and bottle tight. Take half a wine glass four times a day, until relieved.

INTELLIGENCE OF BEES. Bees have a sort of language among themselves whereby they know each other's wants, as in building their combs, unloading the laborers, feeding each other, &c. They also foreknow the approach of a storm, and will sound an alarm when anything injurious disturbs their habitation. Such sounds will be instantly understood, and answered by the whole hive.

Let a man live as long as he will,
The first thirty years of his life will always seem the longest, and the daily routine of after years pass like the sounds of a clock, while the hands on the outside and the movements within mark the passage of time to others till the weights have run down and the pendulum stands still.

The race of mankind would soon perish did they cease to aid each other.
From the time the mother pillows the child's head upon her loving bosom till the time some kind assistant wipes the death damp from the brow of the dying, we cannot exist without mutual help.
All, therefore, that need aid have a right to ask it from their fellow mortals; no one who has the power of granting can refuse without guilt.

Kisses like the faces of philosophers, vary. Some are as hot as a coal of fire, some as sweet as honey, some as milk, some as tasteless as long drawn soda. Stolen kisses are said to have more nutmeg and cream than any other sort.

We all of us have two educations—one of which we receive from others; another, and the most valuable, which we give ourselves. It is this last which fixes our grade in society, and eventually our actual value in this life, and perhaps the color of our fate hereafter.

As two lawyers were taking their gin at one of the "respectable" grogeries, a person observed that they were members of the bar. "Yes," said the landlord, "practising members."

There exist in human nature a disposition to murmur at the disappointments and calamities incident to it, rather than to acknowledge with gratitude the blessing by which they are more than counterbalanced.

Miscellany.

THE SPINSTER'S SECRET.
Summer boarders at the Brownson's ch?" said Miss Barbara Rookbury—giving a spiteful twist to the bow of blue ribbon she was fastening on the front of a jockey hat—"well I knew all that paintin', and paperin', and fixin' up meant something! Hand me the scissors, Stella, and who are they?"

Stella Rookbury was yet peering with the haste with which she had sped home from the "millinery and dressmaking" establishment to report the precious bit of gossip she had picked up.

"There was a gentleman, and a lady, and three little children, and a nurse and baby. Mrs. Brownson called 'em Severn.
I guess from the marks on their trunk, they're New York folks."

Miss Barbara embraced the first excuse that presented itself for a walk to the village, selecting the road that led past the Brownson farm house, to get a peep, if possible, to the "city boarders."

"Do come in and rest, Miss Barb—you look main tired," said motherly Mrs.
Brownson, who was hulling strawberries
by the kitchen window.

"Well, I don't care if I do," said the spinster, secretly overjoyed.

For, through the wide-open hall doors,
she caught a glimpse of the "city boarders," reclining on the velvet grass of the back meadow, where a wide-spreading butter nut tree cast a moving canopy of shadow across the rippling tides of sunshine.

"So them's your boarders, hey?" said Miss Barb, abstractedly helping herself to a handful of strawberries.

"Them's 'em," said Mrs. Brownson, with more attention to perspicuity than to grammar.

"And where's Mr. Severn?"
"Coming up from the city in the afternoon train. Let me get you a little cream to eat with your berries, Miss Barb, with a sprinkling of sugar."

"I think it's dreadful unbecoming for a married lady to wear curls and white dresses like Mrs. Severn," said Barb, with her mouth full of strawberries and cream, "don't you?"

"Well—no—not when they are young and pretty, like her. It wouldn't do for you nor me, who have seen our best days, Miss Barb," answered Mrs. Brownson, all unconscious of the spinster's wince.

"I guess I'd better be movin'," said Barbara, with acerbity, as she rose.

"Have a few more berries?"
"No, I thank you—they ain't ripe enough to suit my taste, and the cream's a little turned—I s'pose it's the warm weather. I guess I'll go down through the back lot—it's a kind of short cut."

"Do," said Mrs. Brownson, a little discomfited, "and maybe you'll meet Lucy comin' from the village. I sent her down for half a dozen yards of shirting muslin."

Barbara took occasion to indulge her best in a good long stare, as she passed the group upon the lawn. Mrs. Severn glanced up innocently, but turned the next instant to her rosy little girls.

"Keep your hat on, Sylvia; what will papa say to a sun-burnt little girl?"
"Mamma, it is lonely without papa," exclaimed the second child, a chubbycheeked lassie of six years old. "When is he coming?"

But Miss Barbara lost the answer in the crackle of a dead log underneath her feet, and she sped on, wondering how much Mrs. Severn's carbuncle ear-rings cost. Miss Barb liked to reduce her little world to dollars and cents as much as possible.

As she emerged out of Farmer Brown-son's clover meadow into the road that led directly to the village, under the overhanging shadow of maple trees and bending elms, she came across a couple walking along. One was Lucy Brownson, and an attendant cavalier walking by her side, all gallantry and devotion.

"How do you do, Lucy Brownson?" said Miss Barbara, planting herself in front of the young girl with a resolute air, that said: "Here I'll stand until you introduce me."

"I'm pretty well, Miss Barb," answered Lucy, hesitatingly, while her wis-tled eyes drooped beneath their white lids. And then, perceiving the exigencies of the case, she asked, rather unwillingly: "Miss Rookbury, let me present to you Mr. Severn, a gentleman who boards at our house."

Mr. Severn lifted his hat somewhat haughtily and passed on with Lucy, for Miss Barb had stepped aside by this time, fully satisfied. But she heard him say when he fancied himself out of hearing:
"How ever came you to be acquainted with such an old maid, ma belle Lucille?"

And Lucy laughed, a soft little vocal murmur, like the rippling of a brook over mossy stones.

Miss Barbara never forgot that laugh.
"Ma belle Lucille, indeed!" she sophisticated. "I wonder what my fine gentleman's wife would say to this promising flirtation. I wonder if Lucy Brownson isn't ashamed of herself. If she was my daughter—my sister I mean—I'd shut her up for a week on bread and water, the bold faced little minx, with her curls and her red cheeks. I wonder what Severn's Brownson and her husband are thinking about. I guess their city board-ers'll bring 'em to grief yet. Any way, I mean to keep an eye on Mrs. Severn's husband and Lucy Brownson!"

And Miss Barbara Rookbury's "eye" was fully equal to any detective in the service.

The summer wore away, the sultry gorgeness of the August sunsets faded, and the light September frosts began,
here and there, to touch the upland woods with wands of flame and gold—and still Barbara kept her eye on Lucy. And by this time she had accumulated evidence enough to convict at least half-a-dozen damels of the high crime and misdemeanor of flirtation.

It was a still balmy evening in the early autumn, with a full moon just rising, like a translucent globe of pearl above
the purple glens, when Miss Barbara, coming home from the village with a band-box full of artificial flowers, heard familiar footsteps on the mossy path, and secreted herself behind a tremulous screen of wild grape vines that swung from the boughs of an oak.

"It's Lucy, and that scamp Severn again," thought Miss Barbara, "and now's my chance. I do think his poor wife ought to know."

It was Lucy, her sweet face all flushed, smiling in the moonlight, and one hand resting lightly on Mr. Severn's arm. Miss Barbara listened, holding her breath as she did so.

"I tell you, Lucy," said the gentleman, stopping abruptly—so near that Lucy's dress brushed against Miss Barb's bandbox of artificial flowers—"I cannot live upon uncertainty any longer. You are no coquette, dearest, surely?"

"No coquette!" thought the horrid spinster. "If she is not that, I'd just like to know what she is! dearest, indeed!"

"Yes; but, Charles, I am only a poor little country girl, and you are so far above me, and such a thing."

"That's true enough," mentally commented Miss Barbara. "And she calling him Charles!"

"A truce to this trifling, Lucy," he said, with tender impatience. "I only ask you one thing—one question—do you love me?"

"You know I love you, Charles."
"Mercy upon us!" thought Miss Barbara, with eyes rolled up and uplifted hands, what is the world coming to?"

Lucy stole her arm gently through his,
and they passed on, across the chequered play of the moonlight on moss and leaf and forest path, leaving Miss Barbara in a state more easily imagined than described.

"My duty's plain as a pike-staff now, if I couldn't fairly see it afore," croaked
the old maid to herself, as she crept away through the fragrant silence of the woods, utterly insensible of Nature's grand illuminations around her. "I'll tell that poor injured wife to-morrow—how she can be blinded so long I can't see—and if there ain't a divorce case in the papers afore long, my name's not Barbara Rookbury."

Miss Barbara was as good as her word.
The dew-drops on the meadow-grass had scarcely dried away the next morning before she was tapping resolutely at Mrs.
Severn's door.

The young wife opened it, in a very becoming disabille of blue chambray and rosseted slippers.

"Miss Rookbury!"
"Yes, it's me, Mrs. Severn. I've got something very particular to tell you."

Barbara edged herself into the sitting-room, and looked around with an aspect of triumphant gloom.

"You'd better send the children and the 'bunny' out of the room," she said,
"and have the camphor bottle handy—that's right."

Mrs. Severn turned a startled face toward her visitor, as she closed the door behind the little girls and the French nurse.

"What can have happened, Miss Rookbury?"
"Ah, what indeed!" sighed the spinster, with one hand on her breast. "But you'd ought to have expected it when you got married. There ain't no woman safe, except she's single! I s'pose you think, now, your husband loves you."

"I do not think anything about it—I am sure of it!" calmly answered Mrs.
Severn.

"Then what's he gallantin' about the woods, makin' love to Lucy Brownson for?" demanded Miss Rookbury. And without preliminaries, she plunged headlong into her tale of treachery and misplaced confidence.

Mrs. Severn listened quietly, without any of the burst of horror and indignation jealousy for which Miss Barbara had confidently looked.

"All this is quite impossible," she said, calmly, when at length the spinster came to a breathless pause.

"Didn't I see it with my own eyes?"
shrieked Miss Barbara.

"My husband, walking with Miss Brownson!"
"Yes, your husband."
"My husband happens to be in Switzerland," said Mrs. Severn, serenely, "and there is no reason that I know of why my brother-in-law should not walk with any young lady he happens to fancy—aye, and make love to her, too, if she chooses to allow it."

Miss Barbara sat silent and crest-fallen.
Mrs. Severn opened the door into an adjoining apartment.

Lucy's blushes made all necessary ad-

Severn's arm around her.

"I'm sure I am very sorry," meekly

NECESSARY RULES OF SLEEP.

There is no fact more clearly established in the physiology of man than this:
that the brain expends its energies and itself during the hours of wakefulness, and that these are recuperated, during sleep. If the recuperation does not equal the expenditure, the brain withers —this is insanity. Thus it is that, in early English history, persons who were condemned to death by being prevented from sleeping, always died raving maniacs;
thus it is also that those who are starved to death become insane—the brain is not nourished, and they cannot sleep.
The practical inferences are three:—
1st. Those who think most, who do most brain work, require most sleep. 2d.
That time "saved" from necessary sleep is infinitely destructive to mind, body, and estate. Give yourself, your children, your servants—give all that are under you, the fullest amount of sleep they will take, by compelling them to go to bed at some regular hour, and to rise in the morning the moment they awake; and within a fortnight, Nature, with almost the regularity of the rising sun, will un-loose the bonds of sleep the moment enough repose has been secured for the wants of the system. This is the only safe and sufficient rule; and as to the question how much sleep any one requires, each must be a rule for himself—great Nature will never fail to write it out to the observer under the regulations just given.
—Dr. Forbes Winslow.

VISITING SCHOOLS.

Now that "the teacher" has taken his place in the school-room, it is the duty of parents to manifest some further interest in his work than merely to send their children thither. He wants their cooperation. If they talk with him freely about his scholars, at their homes, it is well; if they visit the school-room occasionally, and seem interested with him in making a pleasant time of learning, it is much better. The presence of father or mother at the child's recitation, once a week, or once a month, will have a salutary influence on both teacher and child. Even the parent will be benefitted. His or her attention will be awakened to questions which might otherwise go unthought of for years, and which have practical bearings on the mind.

The Philosophy of a Hearty Laugh.

No other exercise is equal to laughter.
Nothing acts so directly and happily upon the organs within both chest and abdomen. Ten hearty laughs, real shouts, will do more to advance the general health and vitality than an hour spent in the best attitudes and motions, if done in a sober, solemn spirit. Of course, I know you cannot laugh at will, so you must play with the dog, play with your children, introduce a hundred games which involve competition and fun—Open the folding doors, move back the centre table, and go it. Play with the bags, run for the pins, play any of the games which you can recall from your early experience.

SETTLE WHILE YOU ARE YOUNG.
Think of this, my good friend, and as you have kind affections to make some good girl happy, settle yourself in life while you are young, and lay up, by so doing, a stock of domestic happiness, against age or bodily decay. There are many good things in life, whatever satisfactions and misanthropies may say to the contrary; but probably the best of all next to a consistent void of offense (but without which, by the by, they can hardly exist) are the quiet exercise and enjoyment of the social feelings, in which we are at once happy in ourselves, and the cause of happiness to those who are dearest to us.—Scott.

YOUNG AMERICA. The Oct. No., which closes the volume for the second year, of this popular little periodical, comes to us bright and gay as ever, flourishing a grand toy residence called a "villa," rich in stories, poetry, pictures, and puzzles, closing the interesting juvenile adaptation of the famous story of Robinson Crusoe, and promising a brilliant attraction in the shape of a new story of out-door life, for boys, by Geo. J. Varney, who not a few persons think superior as a writer for boys to Oliver Optic. Hurry up with your pennies, children! You will all want Young America this year—for, with the November No., it is to be enlarged, and,
according to the publishers, "otherwise improved." Address W. JENNINGS DE-MOREST, 473 Broadway, N. Y. $1.50 per year, with a Premium.

BULLETIN OF FASHIONS. The Fall and Winter issue of Mme. Demore's BULLETIN OF FASHIONS, now ready for sale, is a most useful and beautiful plate, representing fifty-five full-sized figures, and accompanied by a book of descriptions and ideas relating to dress and cloak-making, which has been compiled with exceeding care. The low price of the BULLETIN places it within general reach, and makes the fact very evident, that so large an amount of information, invaluable to dressmakers, has never before been offered at such a reasonable mark. The plate represents the latest and most reliable styles appropriate for home, visiting and evening toilet.

SUBLIME VIRTUES.

It would seem as if God intended to disarm the most terrible events of their power to disturb our faith by making them the occasions of the sublimest virtues. In shipwrecks we are furnished with some of the most remarkable examples that history affords of trust in God,
of unconquerable energy, and of tender,
self-sacrificing love, making the devouring ocean the most glorious spot on earth.
A friend rescued from a wreck, told me that a company of pious Christians who had been left in the sinking ship, could be heard from the boat in which he had found safety, lifting up their voices not in shrieks or moans, but in a joint prayer to God, thus awaiting in a serene act of faith the last swift approaching hour. How much grander was the hymn than the ocean's roar! And what becomes of suffering, when thus awakening into an energy otherwise unknown to the highest sentiments of the soul! I can shed tears over human griefs; but thus viewed they do not discourage me; they strengthen my faith in God.—Dr. Channing.

A PIGGISH ILLUSTRATION.

A country girl, several of whose sisters had married badly, was herself about to take the dose. "How dare you get married," asked a cousin of her, "after having before you the unfortunate example of your sisters?" "A fudge for the example of my sisters," exclaimed the girl with spirit; "I choose to make a trial for myself. Did you ever see a parcel of pigs running to a trough of hot swill?
The first one sticks in his nose, gets it scalded, and he draws back and squeals.
The second burns his nose, and stands squealing in the same manner. The third follows suit, and he squeals too. But still it makes no difference with those behind; but all in turn thrust in their noses just as if the first hadn't got burned or squealed at all. So it is with girls in regard to matrimony—and now with this I hope you are satisfied."

AN ITEM FOR THE HOME CIRCLE.

Somebody says, and truly too, that there are few families, anywhere, in which love is not abused as furnishing the license for impoliteness. A husband, father, or brother, will speak harsh words to those he loves best, simply because the secrecy of love and family pride keep him from getting his head broken. It is a shame that a man will speak more impolitely, at times, to his wife or sister than he would to any other female, except a low, vicious one. It is thus that the honest affections of a man's nature prove to be a weaker protection to a woman in a family circle than the restraints of society and that a woman is usually indebted for the kindest politeness of life to those not belonging to her own household. These things ought not to be so. The man who because it will not be resented, inflicts his spleen and bad temper upon those of his hearthstone, is a small coward and a very mean man. Kind words are circulating mediums between true gentlemen and ladies at home, and no polish exhibited in society can atone for the harsh language and disrespectful treatment too often indulged in between those bound together by God's own ties of blood, and the most sacred bonds of conjugal love.

RICH WITHOUT MONEY.

Many a man is rich without money.
Thousands of men with nothing in their pocket, and thousands without even a pocket, are rich. A man born with a good head piece, is rich. Good bones are better than gold, tough muscles than silver, and nerves that flash fire and carry energy to every function, are better than houses and land. It is better than landed estate to have had the right kind of father and mother. Good breeds and bad breeds exist among men as really as among herds and horses. Education may do much to check evil tendencies, or to develop good ones, but it is a good thing to inherit the right proportion of faculties to start with. That man is rich who has a flavor of wit and fun in his composition.
The hardest thing to get along with in this life is a man's own self. A cross, selfish fellow, a desponding and complaining fellow, a timid, care-burdened man—these are all born deformed on the inside.
Their feet may not limp, but their thoughts do. A man of fortune, on the brink of the grave, would gladly part with every dollar; to obtain a longer lease of life.

Why is a lady walking in front of a gentleman like the latest news? because she's in advance of the male!

Miscellany.

JACKSON'S DUEL WITH DICKINSON.

From Parton's life of Andrew Jackson, we extract the following account of his duel with Dickinson. Dickinson was quite a young man, of acknowledged courage, in good pecuniary circumstances, and left a loving and highly educated wife and several children. Jackson's second in the duel was General Overton, who was then and had always been a strong personal and political friend. Mr. Parton says: Dickinson's second was the choice of position, and Jackson's the office of giving the word. The astute Overton considered this giving the word a matter of great importance, and he had already determined how he should give it if the lot fell to him. The slight pauses were measured off and the men placed. All the politeness of such occasions was very strictly and elegantly performed. Jackson was dressed in a loose frock coat, buttoned carelessly over his chest, and concealing in some degree the extreme slenderness of his figure. Dickinson was the younger and the handsomer of the two. But Jackson's tall erect figure and still intensity of his demeanor, it is said, gave him a most superior and commanding air, as he stood under the poplars on this bright May morning, silently waiting the moment of doom.
"Are you ready?" asked Overton.
"I am ready," replied Dickinson.
"I am," said Jackson.
These words were no sooner pronounced,
than Overton, with a sudden shout, cried, using his old country pronunciation:
"Fire."
Dickinson raised his pistol and fired.
Overton was looking with anxiety and dread at Jackson, saw a puff of dust fly from the breast of his coat, and saw him raise his left arm and place it tightly across his chest. He is surely hit, thought Overton, and in a bad place too—but no, he does not fall. Erect and grim as fate he stood, his teeth clenched, raising his pistol. Overton glanced at Dickinson.
Amazed at that unwonted failure of his aim, and apparently appalled at the awful
unconsciously recoiled a pace or two.
"Great God?" he faltered, "have I missed him?"
"Back to the mark, sir!" shrieked Overton with his hand upon his pistol.
Dickinson recovered his composure, stepped forward to the peg, and stood with his eyes averted from his antagonist.
All this was the work of a moment,
though it requires many words to tell it.
General Jackson took deliberate aim, and pulled the trigger. The pistol neither snapped nor went off. He drew it back to its place, and took aim, a second time.
He fired. Dickinson's face blanched,—he recoiled,—his friends rushed toward him, caught him in their arms and gently seated him on the ground, leaning him against a bush. His trousers reddened. They stripped off his clothes. The blood was gushing from his side in a torrent. And alas! here is a ball, not near the wound, but above the opposite hip, just under the skin. The ball had passed through the loose folds of the ribs. Such a wound could not be fatal.
Overton went forward and learned the condition of the wounded man. Rejoicing in his principal:
"He won't want anything more of you, General," and conducted him from the ground.
They had gone a hundred yards, Overton walked on one side of Jackson, the surgeon on the other, and neither speaking a word, when the surgeon observed that one of Jackson's shoes was full of blood.
"My God! General Jackson, are you hit!" he exclaimed, pointing to the blood.
"Oh, I believe," replied Jackson, "that he has picked me a little. Let's look at it. But say nothing about it there!" pointing to the house.
He opened his coat. Dickinson's aim had been perfect. He had sent his ball precisely where he supposed Jackson's heart was lying, but the thinness of his body and that of his coat combined to deceive Dickinson.
The ball had only broken a rib or two, and raked down the breast bone.
It was a somewhat painful, but looking wound, but neither severe or dangerous, and he was able to ride to the tavern without much inconvenience. Upon approaching the house, he went up to one of the negro women who was churning, and asked her if the butter had come?
She said that it was just coming.
He asked her for some buttermilk.
While she was getting it for him, she observed him furtively open his coat and look within it. She saw that his shirt was soaked in blood, and she stood gazing in blank horror at the sight, dipper in hand. He caught her eye, and hastily buttoned his coat again.
She dipped up a quart measure full of buttermilk and gave it to him. He drank it off at a draught, then went in, took his coat off and had his wound examined and dressed. That done he dispatched one of his retinue to Dr. Cartlett, to enquire respecting the condition of Dickinson, and to say that the surgeon attending him would be glad to contribute his aid toward Dickinson's relief. A polite reply was returned that Dickinson's case was past surgery. In the course of the day General Jackson sent a bottle of wine to Dr.
Cartlett for the use of his patient.
But there was one gratification which

HOPE.

Oh! blest is the anchor of hope as it holds us—
Our barks are but frail as they rest on the tide;
And if we were blind to the anchor that binds us,
Each vision would darken where waters are wide.
Says the maid to her lover when dark skies are o'er them;
Says the wife to her husband when cold is the blast;
Look up and be happy our anchor holds firmly,
And soon will the night of our anguish be past.
When hands feel their weakness as days bring their burdens,
When we tremblingly shrink from the duties before;
Tis our hope which embraces our questionings ever,
And answers—you'll conquer as those have of yore.
Then let us remember when duties are calling,
When hearts in us trouble and hands to be weak,
We may hope for the better, tho' in faintness
we're faltering.
Sweet Hope will revive when her presence we seek.
Hope, in your weakness, oh friends to be stronger,
And hope in your mercy to yet shield a foe;
Oh! hope to grow better as days grow the longer;
Constant in friendship to high and to low.
Let us hope for a day, that with sunlight revealing,
May find us all one in the earth of our God,
Where blossoms ever, the flower of feeling,
And men are the angels which press on his sod.

CAUTION TO NURSES. Don't ride the children backwards. An exchange narrows mothers and nurses against the too prevalent practice of drawing little children around the street, backward. It has been known to produce insanity. If you value

DRIED APPLE FRUIT CAKE. One and one-half cup of molasses; one-half cup brown sugar; three eggs of flour; one cup sour milk; one teaspoonful of saleratus;
one egg; one-half cup of butter; one and one-half cups of sweet apple, soaked and chopped, put into the molasses and boiled;
spice to suit the taste.

SPICED PEACHES. Take nine pounds of good ripe peaches, rub them with a coarse towel, and halve them. Put four pounds of sugar and a pint of good vinegar in a preserving kettle with cloves, cinnamon and mace; when the syrup is formed throw in the peaches a few at a time, so as to keep them as whole as possible. When clean take them out and put in more. Boil the syrup until quite rich, and then pour over the peaches. Cherries may be spiced in the same manner.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

RIOTOUS CONDUCT. On Sunday morning last, between 12 and 1 o'clock, an altercation occurred in the south part of this town, between Eugene Crathelle (Frenchman) and Alexander Gavin, resulting in the death of the latter by being stabbed in the left leg, severing the femoral artery, causing death in about 15 minutes. The assailant was immediately arrested by Sheriff French and locked up for examination. An inquest was held before Lewis Bass, coroner, Sunday, and a verdict returned that said Gavin came to his death by a stab at the hand of said Crathelle, to the best of their knowledge and belief. There is considerable sympathy in behalf of the prisoner, as it is thought that he committed the deed in self-defense. An examination was held on Monday, by William S. Morton, Esq., and the accused was held in $3000 for trial at the November term of the Superior Court to be held at Dedham. The Justice said it was not a case of willful murder, either in the first or second degree, but was a case in which he had no jurisdiction. It was a case evidently of aggravated assault or self-defense, as he was overpowered by five or six assailants. Rum was probably the cause of the tragedy, as the parties were strangers and no previous cause for trouble existed. The accused is a Frenchman and does not appear like a ruffian.

GUNNING AND FISHING. A party of seven young gentlemen, left this place on Monday last, for a gunning and fishing excursion to the extreme northerly coast of New Brunswick. The party consists of Messrs. N. B. Farnald, Charles F. Pierce, Joseph M. Glover, Benjamin F. Curtis, Charles P. Derby, William Faxon, and George Odime. They left Boston for St. John in a steamer, at which point they take the cars, and then the stage, and after about one week's travel they intend finding their desired stopping place, on Shippen Island, at the residence of a lovely widow with five charming daughters. They are in pursuit of game and intend to be absent four or five weeks. We should judge that the birds and fish must be very plenty, at this favorite spot, to attract so many of our gentlemen so far from their homes. And what will the young widows do during those nights when they think where their dear "hubs" are?

At a meeting of the Republicans of Quincy, on Tuesday last, the following named gentlemen were chosen delegates to the several Republican Conventions as follows, viz:

To the Congressional Convention to be held at Taunton, Oct. 15, Charles Marsh, William S. Morton, Ebenezer Adams, George Vezie, 2d, Washington M. French, Henry H. Faxon and George L. Gill.

The same delegation was chosen to attend the Councilor Convention at the same place, and on the same day.

William Dison, George L. Gill, James Baxter, Jr., Noah A. Glover, John Glover, Edward Brackett and G. S. Coffin, were chosen Delegates to the Senatorial Convention, and E. E. Williamson, Washington M. French, Charles A. Howard, William Dison, E. Granville Pratt, George L. Gill, William S. Morton, to the County Convention; both to be held at Dedham, next Tuesday, October 13th.

Notwithstanding the rain, the great meeting at the Point on Thursday evening, was quite successful.

The "Tanners," under command of Captain C. H. Porter, turned out about forty strong, and made a good appearance.

The citizens on the line of march quite generally illuminated their houses in honor of the occasion.

A new flag dedicated to Grant and Colfax was thrown to the breeze.

Addresses were made by E. E. Williamson, Esq., and by the President of the Club, a favorable report of which will be heard on election day.

A CITIZEN OF DORCHESTER SHOT BY AN INSANE MAN. As Mr. J. H. Silsby, of Dorchester, was walking down East street, about 8 1/2 o'clock on Wednesday morning last, he was met by Clarence Davenport, an insane man, and had not almost past him, when Davenport turned and fired at him with a pistol, the ball lodging in Mr. Silsby's left breast.

Silsby fell to the earth, and Davenport coming up raised him and took him to the front door of the residence of Mr. William R. Clark, stating to the inmates that the man had been shot, was dying, at the same time leaving in a hurry as if going for medical assistance.

Instead of doing this, however, Davenport went to his home, in Bowdoin street, where he was subsequently arrested. He admitted the shooting, and said the Devil had told him to shoot Silsby, as well as another man in town whom he named.

The wounded man was removed from Mr. Clark's to his residence, and Dr. Cushing, Fitch and Steadman called. After examining the wound they gave no hope of Mr. Silsby's recovery.

The ceremonies at the funeral of the late Alexander Gavin, were of a very impressive character. The McCallan Guard, (of which he was a member) headed by the Quincy Brass Band, and the Niagara Engine Company, to which he also belonged, led the procession, after the hearse, followed the relatives and friends in carriages, and a long line of matrons and maidens, and gentlemen on foot. In this order the procession moved from the residence of his father on Edward's Hill, through Washington street, the Square, to the Cemetery, at West District.

For the Patriot.

POLITICAL. The Republicans of this town are a wide-awake crowd, when well started, and the steady, untiring vigor of former political campaigns seems to be well sustained in the present. The great issues now before the people, are nowhere more earnestly pressed, or more fairly represented than here. Last Monday evening our citizens were edified, gratified, and electrified by the very excellent and convincing speech of Josiah P. Quincy, Esq., our townsman, and the unanimous opinion seems to prevail, that it would be well for the Republican cause, if his voice could be more frequently heard in advocacy of the great political truths, in which he so thoroughly believes. He was followed by Hon. Albert J. Wright of Boston, whose pungent criticisms of the present position of the so-called "Democracy," and its candidates, and eloquent appeals, were highly appreciated and enjoyed by the whole audience. Col. Wright is no stranger in Quincy, and no speaker is more cordially welcomed. Mr. E. E. Williamson closed the speaking with a brief and pertinent address, which held the respectful attention of the audience, to the end.

The meeting was enlivened by singing of a superior order by the Grant Glee Club, under the lead of Mr. H. B. Brown. No better auxiliary can be arranged for such meetings than patriotic songs, and the applause of the company showed their appreciation, not only of the execution of the music, but of the sentiments of the words. The "Tanners" in uniform made their first parade, adding much to the enthusiasm of the occasion. They were understood, and enjoyed the fatherly counsel of Col. Wright, and will govern themselves accordingly. We believe another meeting is in process of arrangement for either Thursday or Friday of next week.

ARRESTED. Edgar A. Whitaker, the fellow who robbed Mrs. Wright, of a number of valuable articles in Braintree, a few weeks ago, was arrested in Boston, on Monday afternoon. He was committed for examination.

LECTURE. There will be a lecture at Quincy Point, to-morrow evening, by Mr. George Newcomb, a former resident of this town. For particulars see notice in another column.

CONNECTICUT ELECTIONS. Full returns of the town elections have been received of 163 towns that voted on Monday last, of which 86 are clearly Republican, 69 Democratic and 7 divided.

The Republicans gain the entire Registration Boards in 11 towns that were Democratic last year and gain a portion of the Boards in 5 towns that were wholly Democratic last year. The Democrats gain the Registration Boards in 5 towns that were Republican last year, and in 2 towns that were partially so and a portion of the Boards in two towns that were wholly Republican last year. The above is official and can be relied on.—Post.

HOUSE ROBBERIES. Burglaries have become frequent in Dedham. On Saturday night a quantity of silver ware was taken from the house of Mr. Willis, and the house of Mr. Munroe was entered, but the burglars were frightened off before they secured any plunder. On Sunday night the dwelling of Mr. Hiram Paul, at Mill Village, was entered and ransacked. The burglars stole $70 from two trunks, and conveyed two more trunks to the door to take them away, but left them, as they were frightened by some noise.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE. There will be a meeting of the State Teachers' Institute at Hingham, commencing on the 19th instant, and continuing to the 23d. The meeting will no doubt be largely attended, and it is hoped that many from this vicinity, teachers especially, will make it an object to be present. For particulars see advertisement.

CONGRESS. The subject of another meeting of Congress on the 16th of this month, in accordance with the resolution adopted in September, is beginning to engage attention in Washington. The general opinion seems to be that no session will be had this month, but that a session will be held in the 10th prothon, and general legislative business transacted. Should this prove correct there is every probability that Congress will remain together until the regular meeting in December.

KEROSENE OIL. Donner's best, at 40 cents a gallon! As the season of short days, and short visits from the sun has arrived, the means art has devised to relieve the tediousness and gloom of his absence are being brought into requisition, but among them all, public opinion seems, by its general use, to have given the preference to the Kerosene Burner and its unrivalled fluid, for a rich, pleasant light for the parlor, or a strong, brilliant one, for the counting-house and workshop, over all others. Mr. N. B. Farnald, corner of Washington and Coddington streets, has reduced his price to forty cents. Let those in want of good oil, improve this opportunity.

The apple crop throughout Maine is much larger than was expected the first of the season.

James Beaumont, of Canton, the first manufacturer of cotton and woolen goods in America, died on the 19th ult., at the advanced age of 90 years.

The cranberry raisers in Taunton, Berkeley, Raynham, Norton, and Easton, suffered from the late frosts from two to six hundred dollars.

Democratic Convention.

The Democrats and Conservatives of the Second Congressional District held a Delegate Convention at the Town Hall in this town, on Tuesday last, for the purpose of nominating a candidate to be supported by the party at the coming election.

The Convention was called to order shortly after 11 o'clock, by Dr. William S. Pattee, Chairman of the District Committee, who read the call.

On motion of Mr. Linfield, of Randolph, S. B. Thaxter of Abington was chosen permanent President of the Convention, and on motion of Mr. Pratt of Braintree, Messrs. Lord of Weymouth, Albion of Taunton and Smith of Abington, were appointed a committee to nominate other officers of the Convention.

On motion of Mr. Cahill, he and Messrs. Ellis of Stoughton and Jackson of North Bridgewater were appointed a committee on credentials, and they reported that sixteen towns were represented by ninety delegates.

On motion of Mr. Wilson of Cohasset, the president appointed that gentleman, Dr. W. S. Pattee, and Mr. Coffin of Weymouth, as a committee to nominate a District Committee.

The Committee to complete the permanent organization reported as follows:

Vice Presidents—John Wilson of Cohasset, A. Raymond Jr. of Weymouth, Moses Bates of East Bridgewater, R. W. Robinson of Dorchester, Charles Albion of Taunton, E. S. Fellows of the town, Henry Brown of Abington, Charles Siders of Hingham.

Secretaries—Robert Vose Jr. of Dorchester, Dr. Pattee of this place, and S. N. Linfield of Randolph.

The list was unanimously adopted. Mr. Wadsworth of Milton moved that a committee of three be appointed to collect, sort and count votes for a candidate as Representative to Congress.

Mr. Bates of East Bridgewater announced that he was authorized to state that Mr. Ide of Taunton declined to have his name used as a candidate, and he closed his brief remarks by moving that Hon. Edward Avery of Braintree be declared the nominee by acclamation, and the motion was carried with loud applause—and Messrs. Lord of Weymouth, Bates of Bridgewater, and Wadsworth of Milton were appointed a committee to inform that gentleman of the action of the Convention, and they soon afterwards returned, accompanied by the nominee.

He made quite a lengthy address and accepted the nomination.

The following were then reported as a District Committee:

S. B. Thaxter of Abington, C. Albion of Taunton, J. Q. Pierce of Somerset, E. J. C. Stevenson of Hingham, Henry Hobart of East Bridgewater, Abner Holbrook of Weymouth, W. Brooks of Canton, and A. Raymond Jr. of Weymouth.

On motion of Mr. Wilson of Cohasset, S. B. Thaxter of Abington, was nominated as Presidential Elector by acclamation, and he accepted the nomination.

After a brief address by Mr. Edward G. Russell of Cambridge, the Convention dissolved.

LARGE POTATOES. We are about to relate a potato story (no fish yarn this) which is literally true. Mr. Morris Langers, residing in this township, last spring received from his friends in N. Y. a barrel of potatoes which he planted. This fall he harvested fourteen bushels. From one hill—the best—he got a half bushel; the largest potato weighed two pounds. If any one can beat this, they have permission to speak out.—Worcester (Mass.) News.

ASSASSINATION OF GEN. HINDMAN. Gen. J. T. Hindman, late of the rebel army, was assassinated at his residence in Helena, Arkansas, on the night of the 25th ult. A man named Robbins was arrested for the murder, but he was sitting in the midst of his family, and the shot was fired from without. Hindman's friends are striving to implicate certain political opponents of the General in his murder, but the effort does not seem to be based on any tangible ground.

Three distinct shocks of earthquake were felt at Silver Mountain, California, on the 6th inst., and the atmosphere was almost immediately filled with smoke.

A regular train lately went through from Baltimore to Washington at the rate of a mile a minute.

MATRIMONIAL. Secretary Seward was born on the 16th of May, 1801. It is reported from Washington that he is to be married again next week to Miss Olivia Risley, daughter of H. A. Risley, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. She is a highly accomplished lady, of about 28 years of age, and the warmest friendship has existed for years between the Risleys and the family of Mr. Seward.

Otis H. Horton, of Easton, lately sold his house and putting the proceeds in his pocket, eloped with a girl who had been in his employ, leaving a wife and three children homeless.

The latest accounts from the scenes of the earthquakes in South America show that the total loss of life could not have been much short of 60,000.

A flurry of snow occurred in Brooklyn morning of Oct. 2. The first rain of the season fell in San Francisco, Wednesday night, Sept. 30.

A collection of fourteen silver bricks from the Montana mines, averaging in value about a thousand dollars each, have been exhibited at St. Louis.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.

GOLDENROD. N. C., Oct. 8.—Hon. John Quincy Adams passed through this place yesterday, on his way South. He was not at all dejected by the citizens of the both races en masse. He was introduced to the people by Col. J. T. Seales, and made a speech. After returning thanks for the demonstration, he said he came to speak words of kindness, conciliation and fraternal affection. He was no politician, but a firm supporter of the Constitution, and as such should vote for Seymour and Blair. He branded as an atrocious lie the charge that the Democratic party intended to re-enslave the negro; the North would never permit it. [Unanimous cries of "No Surrender!"] He expressed his surprise at the condition of the Southern people, and his pleasure at finding that no animosity existed between the whites and blacks. He closed with expressions of his strong conviction that the constitutional party, headed by Seymour and Blair, would triumph, and retired amid shouts of applause.—Boston Post.

Published by request.

THE "POST" ON GEN. GRANT. Here is what the Post said of Gen. Grant before he was nominated for President. It is a "true bill" every word of it: "Military events have sealed the reputation of Gen. Grant as the first officer and one of the purest patriots of the country. He has won a renown as brilliant and enduring as that of the immortal Father of his Country; and if any man can merit the proud title of Second Washington; it is the present commander of the armies of the United States. He has manifested patience and perseverance, sagacity and confidence, united with bravery and martial ability, equal to any general in ancient or modern times, and while his generous appreciation would place the laurels upon the brows of his companions his countrymen will hold his fame wreathed with the highest glory they can bestow."

THE KINGSTON MURDER.

We find the following in an exchange paper:—There is a rumor current in Kingston and its vicinity, which, if true, adds inconceivably to the horror and wickedness of the murder of Mr. Holmes by Andrews. It is to the effect that Andrews did not quite despatch his victim at night, but rising before day, and finding him still living, though insensible, completed his terrible work by crushing in the skull of Mr. Holmes with a stone. It is understood that the body of the murdered man was still warm when found, and Andrews confesses that the murder was done the night before. It is known also that Andrews rose before light that morning, on the pretext of doing some work which could not, by reason of the darkness, have been performed at that hour. It is supposed, therefore, that, not quite certain that his victim was past recovery, he sought him and made sure his fearful work.

A NEW COUNTERFEIT. A new and dangerous counterfeit ten dollar note on the National Bank of the State of New York, New York city, was in circulation in Boston last week. It may be detected by the word "In" between the words "State and New York, in place of the word "Of," as it is in the genuine notes.

Going barefoot will soon be in fashion. The latest style tending that way is flesh-colored gaiters so stitched as to give the appearance of naked pedal extremities. From this it is only a step or two, to the reality—in fact only a step out of shoes and stockings.

The continued wet weather and consequent increase of the potato rot, causes the farmers to push forward their potatoes to market at declining rates.

The 10,000 visitors at Congress Hall, Saratoga, during the season, averaged each three dozen eggs and four chickens, besides other feeding.

John Carr of Taunton has lost the sight of one eye by the bite of a spider.

Many valuable horses die from the effects of colic. The best thing to do in a case of this kind, is to pour a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Lincture into a long necked jug, bottle, and half a pint of molasses and water, then pour the whole down the horse's throat. In ten minutes the horse will begin to eat.

"Parsons' Purgative Pills" will greatly relieve, if not entirely cure, dyspepsia, when everything else fails. They have been tried in some desperate cases, and have given more relief than any other medicine.

NIAGARA ENGINE COMPANY.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Company, on the 5th inst., the following Resolutions in relation to the demise of one of our Members, Alexander Gavin, were passed.

Resolved, That in the sudden death of our most worthy brother, the late Alexander Gavin, the Company feels that they have sustained an irreparable loss and as a testimony of respect to the memory of the deceased—whose motto in life, as in death, was, "Always Ready," that on the day of the funeral, the flag be displayed at half-mast and the House be draped in mourning.

Resolved, That the sympathies of the Company be tendered to the sorrowing family, in their bereavement, tempered with the Divine assurance, that he, whose loss we are called upon to mourn, although removed from his earthly scene of labors, has entered upon a more glorious and exalted sphere of action.

Summary Intelligence.

The statement of the public debt for September, published in the Washington despatches, shows a decrease since the last exhibit of nearly one million dollars.

The propeller Perseverance was burned Tuesday morning, on Lake Ontario, and fourteen of the nineteen persons on board perished in the flames. This disaster is one of the most terrible that ever happened on the lake.

It is intended in Philadelphia to "inaugurate" the plan of having regular "opening days" of gentlemen's clothing as has heretofore been the custom with millinery goods.

It is reported that Mr. Seward will take advantage of the present change in the Spanish government to negotiate for the purchase of Cuba.

An unsuccessful attempt has been made to assassinate the Viceroy of Egypt. The perpetrator escaped undiscovered.

A new submarine cable has been laid between Malta and Alexandria, Egypt.

A money order system has been established between Germany and the United States.

A man in London lately submitted to be fined for refusing to allow his child to be vaccinated. He declared that he thought the system an inducer of disease.

Potatoes at Palmer, Mass. find a dull market at fifty cents per bushel.

The supply of gold in Europe and America is now about two hundred million dollars greater than that of silver.

A boy living in Rome, Ohio, recently picked up a small bright stone from the grade in the town, which proved to be valuable. A Cincinnati firm offered him $100, then $150 and finally $175 for it. He took it to another establishment, and they said it was either a ruby or diamond, and very valuable, probably worth $7000.

A maiden lady of New York has made a will in which she bequeaths all her property to a religious corporation to build a church. She furthermore directs her executors, in due process of time, to use her dust and entire remains to make mortar with which to lay the corner stone. Her name for the present is withheld.

The Germans are a people of strange customs. In New York on Monday last a company of seventy men of that race paraded, all with long beards—the shortest growth being not less than a foot in length. One man's extended to his knees. Eight open carriages followed, containing young ladies with long curls.

THE PALM OF SUPERIORITY is awarded to Mrs. S. A. ALLEN for her IMPROVED (new style) HAIR RESTORER OR DRESSING, (in one bottle), and a grateful public appreciates the very low price, ONE DOLLAR. Every Druggist sells it. Sept. 26. 4w

ENGLISH GRAMMAR.

The Comic Grammar says:
But remember, though boy,
In the plural makes boxes,
The plural of ox
Should be oxen, not oxe.
To which an exchange paper adds:
And remember, though fiece
In the plural makes floeces,
The plural of goose
Aren't geese nor geeses.
We may also be permitted to add:
And remember, though house
In the plural is houses,
The plural of mouse
Should be mice, and not mooses.
Philadelphia paper.
All of which goes to prove
That grammar a farce is;
For where is the plural
Of rum and molasses?

New York Gazette.

The Plural, Gazette,
Of rum don't be trouble;
Take one glass too much
And you're sure to see double Brooklyn Daily Advertiser.
A pair of blue eyes—
Just to vary the strain—
Says the plural of kiss,
Is—"to do it again?"
Howard County Journal.

OCTOBER WORK.

No month in the year affords more pleasant opportunities for out-door work than October. It is usually dry and cool, so that men and teams feel lustrous and strong. The days are not so long as to exhaust either, and with all things in order a great deal may be done towards permanent improvements on the farm, besides attending to the stock and the crops.

The early part of the month is generally an excellent time for draining, which is a work greatly needed on many farms. Needed, because there are acres of low, moist ground on them which produce but one ton of ordinary hay each year, worth perhaps, ten dollars a ton, while, with proper drainage, ploughing, manuring a little and seeding, they would produce a ton and a half, and sometimes two tons per acre for ten years in succession, and worth from $10 to $16 per ton. Every second year such land ought to receive a top dressing of well rotted manure, in order to keep up the fertility which we have assumed. In most cases no money need be expended to reclaim such lands excepting for grass seed, if the proprietor does not raise it himself. The reclamation of such lands will pay the farmer twice as much interest as the investment of his money in railroad, bank, or most other stocks. The investment of their money in various kinds of stocks where the income is small, at most, and where dividends are withheld, and ruinous losses frequently ensue, instead of investing in the soil about their doors, is an error which a great many New England farmers fall into. If they would make an experiment upon one acre, keeping an accurate account of the cost of reclamation, and the value of its products for five years, they would find that the products of the land would give an income three or four times as large as that derived from most stocks. This income would be liable to few fluctuations, and would be absolutely secure from any great loss.

Next to the middle of June, October is the best time for pruning apple and other trees. They are then in a comparatively quiet state, and will not bleed when they are cut.

If the month proves a particularly dry one, every available moment should be occupied to accumulate materials to increase the manure-heap throughout the winter. One of the best of all materials for this purpose is peat. Indeed, old, highly decomposed peat is an excellent manure in itself. In addition to this, it is one of the best absorbents in nature, and if added to the droppings of the stock once a week, will store up and preserve every pound of them for future use.

Cattle who are fattening for beef, and swine intended for slaughtering in December, will require special attention while mild weather lasts. They will grow much faster on the same food, than when the weather is cold.

Much cost of fuel, vexation and discomfort may be avoided by careful attention to the buildings before blustering weather sets in. From the stable boards to the underpinning every part ought to be examined, and a single put in place, a clapboard nailed down, a pane of glass set, or a door righted up wherever either are needed. If the house needs banking up, it may be done easier and better with hemlock or pine brush laid closely together against the bottom of the house. The first snow that falls will be likely to fill all the openings in the brush, and the frost will not penetrate half as quick as it would a mass of earth. When the brush is removed in the spring it may be burnt in the garden, where the ashes will afford a most valuable dressing.

October affords a good time to clear up under the walls—cut the bushes and tear up the roots, and if the loam has accumulated there, as it often does in the course of years, cart it out and spread on the grass lands. It will be as valuable as a light dressing of manure.

Many other things will call for the attention of the farmer during the month, which, if neglected, cannot be so well done at any other time. He must remember that thrift comes more frequently from systematic industry than from what is called "good luck."—New England Farmer.

TRUE TEST. One evening we are told, after a weary march through the desert, Mahomet was camping with his followers, and overheard one of them say, "I will leave my camel and commit it to God," on which Mahomet spoke: "Friend, tie thy camel and commit it to God!"

VOTING IN GREECE.

Voting in Greece is somewhat different from voting in America. The polling-places are churches. Thirty ballot-boxes are placed on the floor of the church of them bearing the name of a candidate. Upon one-half of the box, painted white, is written "Yes," and on the other half, painted black, is written "No." A clerk attends the voter with thirty ballots, and when opposite the box, pronounces the name of the candidate, and hands the voter a ballot. Passing his arm up a funnel about a foot in length, the voter's hand arrives unseen at a division in the box, and he drops the ball to the right or left, "yes" or "no," as the case might be, and so on throughout the whole thirty. The system is said to insure secrecy and perfect order.

THE DANGERS OF BENZINE.

Our lady readers should be informed that the liquid called benzine, which they use so freely for removing grease and stains from clothing, is a very dangerous article. It is one of the substances distilled from petroleum, and is highly volatile, inflammable, and, when the vapor is mixed with air, explosive. We have frequently been much alarmed, upon visiting neighbors and friends, upon seeing, to observe a phial of this fluid standing in close proximity with a lamp, or gas flame, and the odor pervading the room. A very small quantity is capable of doing irreparable mischief. The contents of a four ounce phial, if overturned and vaporized, would render the air of a moderate-sized room explosive; or, if ignited, a whole family might be seriously burned, or lose their lives from it. It should never be used in the vicinity of flame; and it is important to remember that through the medium of the escaping vapor, when the phial is uncorked, flame will leap to it through a space of several feet. Benzine is often sold under various fanciful names; and therefore any article procured from drug-gists for removing oil or grease from fabrics should be handled with the utmost care.—Journal of Chemistry.

THE OLD MAN.

How low the head—do reverence to the old man, once like you. The vicissitudes of life have silvered his hair and changed the round merry face in the worn visage before you. Once the heart beat with aspiration, crushed by disappointment as yours, perhaps, is destined to be. Once that form stalked promptly through the gay scenes of pleasure, the bean ideal of grace; now the hand of time that withers the flowers of yesterday, has wrapt that figure and destroyed that noble carriage. Once at your age, he possessed the thousand thoughts that pass through your brain, now wishing to accomplish deeds equal to a book in fame; anon imagining like a dream that the sooner he awoke from it the better. But he has lived the dream very near through: the time to awaken is very near at hand; his eye ever kindles at old deeds of daring, and the hand takes a firmer grasp of the staff. Bow low the head, boy, as you would in your old age be revered.

A CONVERT TO TEMPERANCE.

Captain C—, who had been around the world twelve times, formed the first temperance society in Madagascar. The natives are hard drinkers, and will imbibe anything which has alcohol in it. A chief boarded the vessel, one day, and was shown into the cabin, just as the Captain was taking a little "pain killer," a pint bottle of which stood on the table. Thinking it rum, the chief eagerly asked for some, and would not believe the Captain's assertion that it was medicine. Knowing his man, Captain C—, leaving the bottle, went to another part of the cabin. The temptation was not to be resisted by the Chief, and seizing the bottle, he drained a pint of "pain killer" at one draught. The Captain returning, resumed the conversation, pretending not to notice the Chief, who turned pale as his tawny complexion would admit, and kept up a rubbing of his abdominal regions. He twisted and turned in his seat a few minutes, and then giving a yell, rushed out of the cabin, and swam for the shore. Next year, when Captain C— revisited the harbor not a drop would the Chief touch. "Pain killer" had cured him. He was the first and only member of the Temperance Society in Madagascar.

PUNGENT.

"Did you ever hear the story of the Irishman and the horse-radish?"
"No; how was it?"
"Well, seeing a dish of grated horse-radish on the table where they had stopped for dinner, each helped himself largely to the sauce supposing it to be eaten as potato or squash; and the first, putting a knife into his mouth, jerked his handkerchief from his pocket, and commenced wiping his eyes.
"What troubles yer, Jemmy?" inquired his comrade.
"Sure, I was thinkin' of my poor old father's death when he was hung," he replied shrewdly.
Presently the other, taking as greedily of the pungent vegetable, had as sudden use for the handkerchief, whereat Jemmy, as coolly inquired:
"And what troubles yer, Pat?"
"Troth, he replied, "that you wasn't hung with yer father."

SIZE OF THE FEMALE WAIST.—Women ought to measure from twenty-seven to twenty-nine inches round the waist; but most females do not permit themselves to grow beyond twenty-four; thousands are laced to twenty-two; and some to less than twenty inches; and thus by means of wood, whalebone, and steel, the chest is often reduced to one half its proper size.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

THE REMEDY FOR CURING
Consumption, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Pain and Oppression of the Chest or Lungs, Difficult Breathing, and all diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.
ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERNATIVE, sedative, diaphoretic, and diuretic, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm which accumulates in them, and purifies the blood; it soothes the inflamed parts, gives strength to the digestive organs, and brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. It is warranted to give entire satisfaction even in the most confirmed cases of consumption, and not to produce costiveness or affect the head, as all active and powerful remedies for restoring the system. Sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

THE FALL ELECTIONS.

On Tuesday, elections for State Officers and Members of Congress were held in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Nebraska. In the three first named States the contest was spirited, as the result has been regarded as indicating the result of the election in November.

Indiana. The latest reports are that the vote is very close,—both parties claiming to have carried the State. Seven Republican and four Democratic have been elected to Congress. A gain of one for the latter.

Pennsylvania. The Republicans have carried the State by several thousands. The returns come in slow and it will be some days before anything very decisive can be given. There are sixteen Republicans and eight Democrats elected to Congress,—a gain of two for the latter. The Democrats have elected the Mayor and District Attorney in Philadelphia.

Ohio. The Republicans have carried the State from fifteen to eighteen thousand majority. Thirteen Republicans and six Democrats have been elected to Congress,—a gain of two for the Democrats.

Nebraska. But few returns have been received. The Democrats have a special despatch from Omaha, as follows:—

"Returns from twelve of the most populous counties show a Republican gain of over 800, while the Democrats have gained only about 40. The entire Republican majority in three counties is about 1500. Twenty-four interior counties are yet to be heard from, which will no doubt make the Republican majority in the State from 2000 to 2300. The Republicans have elected twelve State Senators and thirty-five members of the Assembly. The Democrats have elected one State Senator and four Assemblymen."

POLITICAL. The Democrats had a grand meeting at the Town Hall on Wednesday evening last. Addresses were made by Hon. Leverett Saltonstall, Hon. Edward Avery and others. Seymour and Blair Clubs from Braintree and this place turned out and made a fine display.

Col. Quincy, late of the famous "Fighting Ninth" Mass. Reg., speaks under the auspices of the Grant Club, on Tuesday evening—the only time he speaks in this campaign.

See advertisement.

The new depot about to be built in the centre of this town, was raised the present week. The laborers are driving the work forward as fast as possible, in hopes to get it finished before the winter sets in.

HIGH AND LOW PRICES. Coal is being sold at eleven dollars a ton in this place. The best of kerosene oil is now being sold at forty cents a gallon, at N. B. Farnall's. Who sees the reason for these prices?

SECOND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT. The Republicans of the Second Congressional District, held a Convention at Taunton on Thursday, and nominated Oakes Ames, for re-election, and William Mason, of Taunton, for Presidential Elector, by acclamation.

SECOND NORFOLK DISTRICT REPUBLICAN SENATORIAL CONVENTION. The Second Norfolk Senatorial District Convention was held at Memorial Hall, in Dedham, on Tuesday. Charles Marsh called the meeting to order, and Hon. Samuel Babcock of Milton was elected President, and Thomas F. Temple Secretary. On motion of H. J. Nazro of Dorchester, Charles Marsh of Quincy was nominated by acclamation as the candidate for Senator. The following named gentlemen were then selected for the District Committee: George L. Gill of Quincy, O. Chapman of Canton, E. Stone of Dedham, J. H. Carter of Dorchester, Theodore Dunn of Dover, C. C. Greenwood of Needham, David W. Tucker of Milton.

THANKSGIVING. Gov. Bullock has appointed Thursday, November 26, as a day of Thanksgiving. This is the day selected by President Johnson for the National Thanksgiving.

A GOOD THING. It gives us pleasure to call the attention of the citizens of this place, to the Clock Spring Curtain Fixture. It works easily and certainly, and has given us the most of satisfaction, and we would advise all persons thinking of purchasing any fixtures, to examine these, as we are confident that they are superior to all others in use. See notice for particulars in another column.

DEATH OF JOSIAH PERHAM. Mr. Josiah Perham, well known for his connection with the "Seven Mile Mirror," and cheap railroad excursions, died in Boston, on Monday last, aged 65 years. He was a genial man and had many friends.

RELIGIOUS. "A letter to a preacher of Universalism, by the late Rt. Rev. Geo. Burgess D. D. Bishop of Maine," has been sent me through the Post Office. From whom the pamphlet comes I do not know—from some zealous Episcopalian no doubt. It is well written, ingenious, plausible, direct, and to a great degree religious. But it does not convince me that I ought not to preach Universalism. I shall give the substance of this pamphlet, (together with my comments) in a series of Sunday afternoon sermons, commencing next Sunday Oct. 18th, at 2-1/2 P. M., and following every Sunday afternoon until the subject is disposed of. Citizens and strangers are invited.

HERMAN BISSEK,
Pastor Universalist Church.

OLD-FASHIONED HOUSE-WARMING.

The completion of the residence of Mr. Daniel Fish, of this town, was the occasion of the enjoyment by a party of his friends, a few evenings since, of one of those now nearly obsolete "good times," a genuine, old-fashioned house-warming. A delegation from Boston, in the Eureka excursion wagon, driven by the veteran whip, Charles Hollis, and accompanied by a quadrille band, arrived early in the evening, bringing with them a bountiful supply of edibles, fluids, etc., sufficient to prevent a famine in the neighborhood, for a week at least. Their number was soon augmented by his friends in the vicinity, and after an hour or more spent in introductions and social converse, the services of the band were called into requisition, and all were soon engaged in "tripping in the crazy dance." Some three hours devoted to Trip-tick, caused the claims of Epicurus to be recognized, and supper was announced. All, at once fell into line, and it required but very few minutes to seat them comfortably at two long tables, which, if they did not "literally groan"—the stereotyped phrase of the day—expressed a profusion of viands, which would have satisfied the most fastidious taste. Their gastronomical efforts having done justice to the entertainment, and the inner man (and woman) quiescent, order was called, a portion of the things cleared away, and a splendid marble-top table for the paternal head of the family, and a large, finely gilded, family bible for his better-half, produced from some hidden recess. These were formally presented in behalf of their friends, by Mr. Nathaniel Leavitt, of the Boston delegation. In a pertinent speech, which was responded to (after Auld Lang Syne by the band) by a brother of the host in his behalf, as the surprise occasioned by the unexpected donation, had completely unsettled him. His good lady, however, was enabled to return her thanks, which she did in a very neat and happy manner. The ceremony over, the services of the band were again called for, and played "Sweet Home," and all hands joined in the endeavor to make a night of it,—which they succeeded in accomplishing—dancing having continued until "five o'clock in the morning," when the party from the city, after the usual leave takings, started for home, which they reached about six o'clock, A. M., without accident, well pleased with the night's amusement, and with best wishes for the future happiness of the worthy couple, in their walk through life.

"SPLIT TICKET."

To the Publishers of the Patriot.

The Commonwealth thus disposes of a scheme to draw in Republican votes for the Democratic candidate for Governor, viz., by placing on a ticket with him, the names of the Republican candidates for Lieutenant Governor, Capt. Tucker, with some of the other Republican State nominations. Let Republicans look out for mixed tickets. There will be but one genuine Republican Ticket, which cannot be counterfeited or imitated, and when you see a ticket, with the name of John Quincy Adams for Governor, remember it is a Democratic ticket, by whatever name it may be called, and don't be deceived by it, even if it have the name of every Republican State or County nominee on it. The Commonwealth says:—

Capt. Tucker, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor in this State, authorizes the statement that the nomination of himself by the P. L. L. was unsought by him, that he did not know any such action by that organization was proposed, and that he will not accept any nomination from it. He is opposed to any and all secret political societies and stands squarely on the Republican platform, and will give no encouragement to any movement intended to decrease the vote of any of the Republican candidates. RAILROADS. The gross earnings of all the railroads of the United States the past year amounted to $240,000,000, or about twenty-one per cent. of their total costs. The ratio of expenses to earnings is about seventy per cent. The net earnings of the northern roads is six and a half per cent. of their cost. In 1840 there was one mile of railroad to every 7,463 people in the country; in 1850, one to 2,928; in 1860, one to 905; in 1870, it is calculated that there will be 45,000 miles of road opened, one to every 836 inhabitants.

Life Insurance on a Positive Basis.

There is a tendency among men of all classes, towards speculation in regard to matters in which money is any way concerned. If we invest, in the ordinary manner, one dollar, we of course expect at least one hundred and six cents in return, but if we have a chance of receiving, by some extraordinary method of investment, a dollar and a quarter at the end of the year, we are often willing to pay for the privilege of incurring that chance, such a sum as may deprive us of any profit whatever. Now, in some forms of business this system may be admissible, where in the constant fluctuations of prices and values it is necessary to sometimes meet future by present uncertainties. But there is one thing, and but one thing in the future, on which a man can certainly depend, and that is his death. Therefore, all the arrangements he makes concerning that important event should be as immutable as death itself. These remarks are prompted by a consideration of the different methods of life insurance now offered to the public. On one side we have the mutual companies, which, for positive high premiums, paid during a man's life will guarantee a certain sum to his heirs at his death; and also will possibly pay into his hands certain premiums with interest, in the event of his death, the time of payment and the amount of said premium to be determined by the profits which may accrue. On the other hand, we have the method proposed by the National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, (we give the name in full to show one of its distinctive features. It is not a State corporation but holds a charter granted by Congress). In this Company we find various new features of Life Insurance, but the point to which we wish to direct attention is, that every thing it promises is as fixed and certain as that which it asks. There is no possibility of profit to be paid for by positive cash. Everything is regulated on a sound business basis, according to the best known facts of the duration of Life and the value of Money. The first plan of the Company is to make the first plan of the mutual companies. There is an advantage to start with. Secondly, there is no possibility of the insured person being deceived or deceiving himself by incorrect calculations. So much premium secures so much money at death. Thirdly, The policies cannot be forfeited, for what one receives is a certain possession of the heirs at the death of the insured. It cannot be attached by creditors. Fifthly, According to one of the plans of the Company, not only is a man certain to leave to his heirs the amount of his policy, but, in addition, the sum total of all the premiums he has paid during his life—the Company will, in this case, contenting itself with the common interest of the said premiums. Sixthly, In accordance with the "Income-producing Plan," a man can receive, after a certain number of years, (according to the kind of policy taken), a fixed and regular income during his life, besides the amount paid to his heirs at his death. Seventhly, All these premiums are secured by a paid-up capital of one million dollars, thus making it possible for this Company to meet all liabilities, no matter what losses or disappointments may occur. When we add to these various advantages, the fact that men of the highest financial positions in the country are at the head of the Company, there is no possible reason for doubting the absolute security it guarantees to its policy-holders. The inducement thus offered to accept a positive benefit in case of a certain event, should, we think, be accepted by all who are intending to insure their lives, or to increase insurance already made.

DEATH OF JOSEPH WARREN REVERE. The venerable Joseph W. Revere died at his residence in Canton, (Mass.), Sunday, at the age of ninety-two years. He was the only surviving son of Paul Revere of Revolutionary fame, and the father of the late Col. Paul Revere and the late Dr. E. H. Revere, of the 20th Massachusetts, whose lives were sacrificed to their country during the rebellion. He was founder of the Revere Copper Company, and for many years served as its executive officer. He filled various places of public trust,—was often elected to the State Legislature from Boston, and served in the Board of Aldermen under Mayor Charles Wells in 1833.

WEYMOUTH STATISTICS. The population of Weymouth is estimated at about eight thousand. If this is correct, it has more than doubled within fifteen years. The valuation of taxable property exceeds five millions, and the rate of taxation is $14.30 per $1000. The town has thirteen religious societies and eleven church edifices. By vote of the town no one is licensed to sell intoxicating liquors to be drunk as a beverage. The manufacture of boots and shoes is the principal business of the town and is good. Thrift and property are to be seen in each of the four or five villages within the limits of the town.

ALASKA. Late advices from Alaska are very encouraging. Coal mines have been discovered near Sitka on the mainland. The quality is considered unequalled, and the seam is over twenty feet thick and traceable for some distance. The coal was tried on the United States steamer Sagoyaw and pronounced excellent. It has the appearance of pure anthracite, and is superior to any Lehigh coal. In addition to this discovery, Alaska is likely to become a place of fashionable resort in hot weather.

THE LARGEST POLITICAL FLAG EVER MADE in this country was raised in New York on Saturday. It is thirty by forty feet in size, has portraits of Grant and Colfax fifteen feet high, and the names of the candidates in gold letters two feet high.

Poetry.

COUNTING BABY'S TOES.

Dear little bare foot,
Dimpled and white,
In your long nightgown
Wrapped for the night,
Come let me count all
Your quiver little toes,
Pink as the heart,
Or a shell or a rose!

One is a lady
That sits in the sun;
Two is a baby,
And three is a nun;
Four is a boy
With innocent breast;
And five is a birdie
Asleep on her nest.

Farmers' Department.

UTILIZING WASTE.

In the operations of the farmer, the great secret of his success is the facility and cheapness of the manner in which is made out of the waste materials that accumulate or exist about him. This material is always accumulating, and where agriculture is badly carried on, there is usually a proportionate neglect of manures. A country is impoverished in its agriculture just in proportion as its crops are removed and the waste is unutilized to the soil now undergoing exhaustion. Hence a country that carries its products to the city, and where the waste of the city is allowed to run into the sea, is in greater danger of being run out.

Like nature herself, the farmer should allow nothing to run to waste. He must learn to utilize everything. The ancients when engaged in mining operations frequently performed their work very unskillfully, and it is said that the silver mines that were wrought in Greece in the days of Xerophon are now worked over again by making use of the waste materials of that day.

Poor farming only partially uses the waste materials of the farm; good farming saves the whole, just as the skillful miner saves out all the gold from the ore. It is hard finding a farmer at the present day who will allow a stream to run through his barn-yard and carry off his liquid manure, or who will set fire to his heaps of straw, or who will allow his chip-heap to accumulate load after load of refuse matter. These faults of the farmer are rarely to be seen at the present day, but the great question still arises in the minds of most farmers, how they shall treat their manures, and how they shall treat them.

An important rule is to make the manure heap a common receptacle of everything otherwise useless about the house and barn.

It is surprising how great an accumulation of manure attentive farmers can make by watching every opportunity to save it.—Maine Farmer.

KEEPING APPLES. Mr. Pell, of Ulster county, the celebrated exporter of apples to Europe, recommends that apples, after having been carefully hand-picked in baskets, should be laid on the floor by hand, without pouring them from the baskets, until they are twelve or eighteen inches deep, and be left to dry and season three weeks, when again equally carefully picked in clean dry barrels, they may be kept without rotting any reasonable length of time and safely sent to any part of Europe or the West Indies.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN says that a good way to clean cider barrels is to put lime, water and a common trace chain in to the barrel through the bung hole, first trying a strong twine to the chain to draw it out with. Shake the barrel about until the chain wears off the mould or pomace, then rinse with cold water.

TOMATOES FOR GARGET. A correspondent in Maine recommends tomatoes as a cure for garget in cows, and also says that he finds a peck of them fed to a healthy milk cow as beneficial as the same amount of potatoes. Have others had experience in this matter?—New England Farmer.

Anecdotes.

Some laborers employed by Mr. Vanderbilt applied to have their time reduced to the eight-hour system. The Commodore ordered their time reduced to seven hours, and paid them pro rata. One of the Irishmen, who did not like this turn of affairs, said to his neighbor:

"Well, Mike, I wish the Commodore was in —"

"Och," said Pat, "Bedad, and that wouldn't help you, for he'd have the control of the whole place inside of a week."

"A clerk in a New York mercantile establishment relates a colloquy from which a sprightly youth in the same store came out second best. A poor boy came along with his machine, inquiring, 'Any knives to grind?'"

"Don't think we have," replied the young gentleman, facetiously, "but can you sharpen yours?"

"Yes if you've got any," was the prompt response, leaving the interrogator rather at loss to produce the article.

A lady who has a great horror of tobacco got into the New Haven cars the other day, and inquired of a male neighbor:

"Do you chew tobacco, sir?"

"No, ma'am, I don't," was the reply; "but I can get you a chew if you want one."

"Did you know," said a cunning Gentle to a Jew, "that they hang Jews and jackasses together in Portland?"

"Indeed!" retorted Solomon, "den it ish well dat you and I ish not dere."

VENTILATION.

MAYOR'S OFFICE.

City of Providence, July 20, 1868.

LUTHER ROBINSON ESQ.,

Dear Sir: I have had satisfaction in saying that your system of ventilation is the best that has fallen under my observation. It has been successfully applied to our High School building, the Dexter Asylum, and the rooms of the Common Council and Aldermen. Yours truly,

THOS. A. DOYLE, Mayor.

CITY HALL, DOVER, N. H.

Hon. J. W. WALSH, Chairman of Building Committee, wrote April 11, 1868: "We opened our hall for the first time to the public last Monday evening, when it was filled to overflowing, 2000 persons being present, nearly all of whom remained quietly 2 1/2 hours, their faces beaming with delight, indicating that good fresh air was abundantly supplied. An interesting and profitable discussion followed from those in the galleries was 'How poor the air is!' How different from that in the hall!"

The Boston Herald comments say, on p. 27 of its issue, April 12, 1868: "The success of these Ventilators has been complete and entirely satisfactory, and can not be questioned."

FAIRBANKS SCALE MANUFACTURERS,

We are familiar with the results accomplished by the Ventilators sold by Mr. Robinson, and have no hesitation in recommending them to the use of Private Dwellings and Public Buildings. Three of these are in our High School House, one on the North Church and one on our office.

Poetry.
VACANT PLACES.

How much sorer in this life mutation;
We seek our shattered idols to replace,
Not one in all the myriads of the nations
Can ever fill another's vacant place.

Each has his own, the smallest and most humble,
As well as he reversed the wide world through;
With every death some loves and hopes must crumble

Which never strive to build themselves anew.
If the fair race of violets should perish
Before another spring-time has its birth,
Could all the costly blooms which florists cherish
Bring back its April beauty to the earth?

Not the most gorgeous flower that unfolds
Could give the golden grain to vale and plain:
Not even Persia's gardens full of roses
Could ever make the world so fair again.

And so, with souls we love: they pass and leave
us;
Time teaches patience at a bitter cost;
Yet all the new loves which the years may give
us
Fill not the heart-place aching for the lost.

New friends may come to us with spirits rarer,
And kindly once again the tear-drops fall;
But yet we sigh, "This love is stronger, fairer,
And better, it may be—but not the same!"

APPLE-PUDDING. Pare and stew three of ground cinnamon.

PRIDE OF BIRTH. It has been well said, that the thing most likely to make the angels wonder, is to see a proud man.
But pride of birth is the most ridiculous of all vanities; it is like the boasting of the root of the tree, instead of the fruit it bears.

A theoretically benevolent man, on being asked by a friend to loan him a dollar, answered briskly, "With pleasure";
but suddenly added "dear me how unfortunate! I've only one lending dollar, and that is out."

We once heard a witty woman, commenting upon Mormonism, exclaim:
"How absurd—four or five wives for one man; when the fact is, each woman in these times ought to have four or five husbands—it would take about that number to support her decently."

There is only one objection to people who "mean well," and that is, they never find time to carry out their meanings.

Goldsmith says: "True eloquence does not consist, as the rhetoricians assure us, in saying great things in a sublime style, for there is, properly speaking, no such thing as a sublime style—the sublimity lies only in the thing; and when that is not so, the language may be turgid, affected, metaphorical, but not affecting."

A misfortune, like a storm in traveling, gives zest for the sunshine, freshness to the prospect, and often introduces an agreeable companion for the remainder of our journey.

"What a pity it is," said a lady to Garrick, "that you are not taller." "I should be happy, indeed, madam," replied Garrick, "to be higher in your estimation."

To despise theory is to have the excessively vain pretension to do without knowing what one does, and to speak without knowing what one says.—*Pont-

There is no fortune so good but it may be reversed, and none so bad, but it may be bettered. The sun that rises in clouds may set in splendor, and that which rises in splendor may set in gloom.

It was an old bachelor who said
"If you meet a young lady who is not very shy, you better be a little shy yourself."

The difference between a miller and a sexton is, the one tolls for a living, and the other for the dead.

Dr. Chalmers was wont to say:—"A house-going minister makes a church-going people," as the people are sure to acknowledge the courtesy of returning the minister's week-day visits by their Sabbath-day attendance.

A bitterly ingenious epigram is that of an old Greek poet on marriage.
In translation it runs thus:

Two happy days in marriage are allowed—
A wife in wedding garb and in her shroud.
Sure, then, that state cannot be called acquired—
Where the last day's as happy as the first.

"My dear," said a rural wife to her husband, on his return from town,
"what was the sweetest thing you saw in bonnets in the city?" "The ladies faces, my love."

Miscellany.
THE BUNCH OF RAGS.

Everybody liked Tom Hall and everybody was sorry for him. It was said to see such a fine young man a victim to drunkenness, and Tom had fallen into the mockers power, unwittingly, it seems.

A new spirit shop had been opened close on the foundry at which he worked,
and he along with others was in the habit of going in for a glass of ale. When the cold weather set in, he took something stronger, and he imagined that spirits agreed with him. Time went on, and the liking for strong drink increased and grew stronger, until at all hours he might be seen staggering out of the "Rainbow," dizzy and stupefied with dregs of the in-toxiating cup.

Tom was a very sad case, for he belonged to a respectable family, and had been religiously trained, and until he was drawn into the snare, he was an affectionate son and brother; and friends counseled, and ministers preached, and every means was tried to reclaim him, but all effort seemed lost—Tom was bound hand and fast in the invisible chains of the mocker. His family mourned him as lost, and many a silent tear his sister let fall on his tattered garments as she sat darning and patching them.

Tom was infatuated, all agreed, but for all that, he was a favorite, from the mansion to the meanest hut in Airie, and some good people prayed for poor Tom Hall.

"Ah, these rents will not darn again!"
sighed Jennie, as she turned over Tom's ragged raiment.

In Tom's better days he had pride, and it was a sad change when he didn't care who saw him "out at the elbow."

But somehow Jennie could not find it in her heart to abandon her brother she still loved, and so Tom's tattered habitements were taken up again and made the most of.

"Kindness may win him back," said Jennie, and when he came home at the worst he was met in peace, if in sorrow.

Just when the trees were beginning to bud with the promise of spring, Tom came home looking thoughtful. He was sober after a long run.

In the last rays of the setting sun his sister was trying to cover some old darning.
Tom sat down beside her, and silently watched the patient fingers for some time.

"That's tiresome work, Jennie," he said.

His sister held up her seam before him. "Why, that is a bunch of rags?" laughed Tom.

"Yes, Tom, and a bunch of rags would be the best sign-board that a publican could hang across his door," said Jennie, sadly.

Tom made no reply; he looked at the rags in silence.

Next morning Tom went back to his work, and continued steady for two or three weeks. He looked in the "Rainbow," but didn't go.

"Hallo! what's up with Tom Hall?" wondered Sinclair, as he filled up a glass of Tom's favorite whiskey for another customer at the counter.

Sinclair was not the only one who was astonished at the change.

Every day Tom went to his work;
every night he came home sober, and after a time he appeared at church on the Sabbath. The people began to believe that Tom was in earnest, and really meant to reform.

Has Tom Hall really become a teetotaler? wondered Sinclair, when a whole month had passed without a visit to the "Rainbow."

Well, it seems so, for nothing stronger than water has passed his lips in the shape of drink since that night on which his sister had shown him the bunch of rags.

"I'll have a talk with Tom, and learn how he got off scent," thought Sinclair resolved.

An opportunity came sooner than he expected.

In the beginning of summer a terrific thunder storm passed over Airie, and amongst a general devastation, Sinclair's signboard was shivered to atoms.

Tom happened to be passing "The Rainbow," next morning, and stopped to glance up at the old mark.

"Fine work here," remarked Mr. Sinclair, who was standing in his door, "the storm's done for us, and I'll have to get a new signboard."

"Is it so bad as that?" said Tom.
"Yes. 'The Rainbow' is in shivers," said Mr. Sinclair.

"Then you'll want a new signboard," said Tom.

"Of course; isn't that what I'm telling you?"

"Is it to the 'Rainbow' again?" asked Tom.

"I suppose so," answered Mr. Sinclair, "unless you can give a new idea, Tom," continued he laughing.

"I think I can," returned Tom, "but I must go home first."

"Don't forget, though," said Mr. Sinclair,—"You're a stranger now-a-days, by-the-by, Tom."

"I won't be long," cried Tom, and with a brisk step he walked down the street.

"Hallo, Tom, what's your hurry?"
cried a friend, as Tom came slap against a corner.

"Oh, Sinclair's signboard was destroyed last night and I am going to him with a new one," answered Tom with a smile, which was diametrically opposed to his new principles.

"Ho, that's it, is it?" resumed his friend, "but perhaps it would be as well for Airie if the 'Rainbow' was never set up again."

Tom was out of hearing.

A better signboard than the "Rainbow" Mr. Sinclair did not expect to get; he was only joking with Tom Hall, and he raised his eyebrows when Tom made his appearance, with a bundle under his arm, and requested to look at the new sign-board.

"I didn't think you would catch me up,
but step in Tom, and let's see your idea."

Tom gravely untied his bundle, and held up a bunch of rags, before the publican's astonished eyes.

"What do you mean, Tom?" asked Mr. Sinclair, feeling confident Tom had lost his senses.

"You want a new signboard, don't you?" said Tom.

"Well, what has a bunch of rags got to do with that?" said Mr. Sinclair.

"Ask yourself, sir, if a Bunch of Rags is not the best signboard that can hang across the publican's door," said Tom,
and his lips quivered.

"Was it that bunch of rags that made you a teetotaler, Tom?" said Mr. Sinclair, more confused than he liked to own.

"It was God's means, I think, sir," answered Tom, "and perhaps, poor wretch seeing the end of drink may bless you for the signboard."

Tom walked away to his work, and
Mr. Sinclair went back to his counter, but all day, the bunch of rags troubled him.

He was a kind hearted man, and believed himself a Christian, and he did not like the idea of venience for washing. Stepping up to a glass to arrange his hair, he started back in horror, exclaiming, "Be jabbers, you've woken that dirty nigger and left me fifteen miles behind!"—Harper's Monthly.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1868.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We"

POLITICAL. The Republicans had a grand rally at the Town Hall, on Tuesday evening last. It was the largest demonstration that has taken place in this town this season. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. Addresses were made by Col. P. R. Quincy, of the Massachusetts Ninth, and Charles E. Wiggins, Esq., of Boston. The Quincy Tanners' Club and corps of Mounted Tanners were out with full ranks, and acted as escort to the Weymouth Tanners' Club No. 1, who were present as guests of the evening. The clubs marched through some of the principal streets, headed by the Quincy Brass Band, and made a very fine appearance. Col. Quincy, in a forcible and polished style of address, presented the points of difference between a true and false democracy, and by his suggestive contrast of the past records of Gen. Grant with that of Horatio Seymour, proved that Democrats who had fought under the former could not consistently vote for the latter. His address was received with much favor. Col. Quincy was followed by Mr. Charles E. Wiggins, who, by his earnest and humorous remarks, drew forth numerous applause. The music from the Quincy Band, and the Grant Glee Club of the town, contributed largely to the enthusiasm of the meeting.

ROBBERIES. The dwelling house of Mrs. E. Miller in this town was entered on Wednesday night, and carpets, bed-linen and other property stolen. The family are now absent in Europe and all their silver and many other valuable articles had been removed. The stable of Elijah Baxter was entered by thieves and two harnesses were stolen from it. The rascals effected an entrance through a window in the rear of the stable. The same night we learn that Mr. J. C. Randall's new house at North Quincy was also entered and paint and other articles stolen.

SINGING SCHOOL. We learn that Mr. H. B. Brown proposes to open a singing school in this place, soon after election, and from his success last year we predict a large school. Full particulars will be given next week.

DENTISTRY. We take pleasure in commending our friends who need new teeth, or the filling or extraction of old ones, to the skillful hands of Dr. French. His improved facilities for giving the pure and harmless Nitrous Oxide Gas, now divest dental operations of the terror with which nervous people are apt to view them. We speak from experience, in saying, pay him an early visit, before defective teeth become sensitive, and you will save both your masticators and your money, to say nothing of the pain avoided.

WE, with pleasure, call the attention of ladies, mechanics and all persons whose occupation requires a bright light, to the Halo Shade. It is something new, but it appears to be just what has been wanting for some time. It is indestructible, or nearly so. You can let it fall on to the floor, tread on it, turn it inside out, or do most anything else you please, and still it is just as good as new. For sale by Messrs. Pierce, next door to the Post Office.

GRANT DEMONSTRATION IN BOSTON. The Republicans are anticipating a great time in Boston on Wednesday next. A grand mass meeting of the soldiers and sailors will be held at Faneuil Hall at 2 o'clock, where addresses are expected from General Kilpatrick of New Jersey, General Burnside of Rhode Island, General Hawley of Connecticut, Governor Chamberlain of Maine, Governor Harrison of New Hampshire, General Banks and General Butler of Massachusetts, and several other distinguished soldiers. Gilmore's full band will be present. In the evening one of the largest demonstrations, is expected, ever seen in a political contest in this country, and will make an imposing display of men, transparencies and torches. At eight o'clock the column will move from the Common, and pass through the following streets:—Beacon, Berkeley, Commonwealth Avenue, Arlington, Boylston, Pleasant, Tremont, Worcester, Shawmut Avenue, Washington, Elliot Square, Bartlett, Shawmut Avenue, Washington, Dover, Harrison Avenue, Chaucery, Summer, Winter, Park, Beacon, Bowdoin, Cambridge, Bowdoin Square, Green, Leverett, Brighton, Allen, Blossom, Cambridge, Charles, to the point of starting.

SECOND NORFOLK DISTRICT DEMOCRATIC SENATORIAL CONVENTION.—The following nominations were made at this Convention in Dedham on Friday of last week.

For Councilor from the Second District—W. S. Pattee of Quincy.

For Senator from the Second Norfolk District—George Penniman of Milton.

For Norfolk County officers:—

County Commissioner—Jacob F. Eaton of Quincy.

Register of Probate and Insolvency—Jonathan H. Cobb of Dedham.

Special Commissioners—Samuel E. Pond of Dedham, and Robert Vose of Dorchester.

Sheriff—Captain J. F. Ellis of Stoughton.

District Attorney—Perez W. Simmons of Hanover.

Commissioners of Insolvency—C. J. Randall of Wrentham, Oliver Hall of Dorchester, and F. G. Craig of Walpole.

Letter of Hon. John Quincy Adams.

QUINCY, Oct. 21, 1868.

A. R. BROWN, Esq., President of Jackson Democratic Association of Lowell.

DEAR SIR: I am very much pleased to receive from you the intelligence of my election as an honorary member of your Club, and accept the compliment with great satisfaction. Pray assure your members of my sensibility of the honor and the kindness they have shown me, and assure them that no man more heartily appreciates the need we have in these days of a little good, stout, Jacksonian Democracy.

I have just come from a country where they feel the benefits and blessings of the reconstruction laws—the Radical Constitution; and if I ever needed anything to intensify my devotion to the supreme law of the Fathers, I found it there.

If our friends only knew what a curse it is to be "reconstructed," they would never slack their struggle until the Union was restored to every State, and the ineffable blessings of the old Constitution secured to every man, no matter if he is white or a "rebel."

Yours, truly, JOHN Q. ADAMS.

THREE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH. A calamity occurred in South Danvers, Tuesday afternoon. A small barn near Tapley's Brook was burned to the ground, and three children, a pair of twins, boy and girl five years old, and a little girl three years of age, children of Mr. Byron Goodale, of South Danvers, who occupied the property, were burned to death. It is supposed the children, who were very interesting and promising, after return from school went into the barn to play, and in some manner set it on fire. They had not been absent from the house but a few moments when their mother, hearing them scream, her attention was attracted to the barn, which she discovered to be on fire, and hastening to and opening it, she found the flames had gained such headway that she was unable to obtain admittance or the children to get out. The barn contained hay, bedding and storage. The father was absent in Lynn at the time of the fire.

THE KINGSTON MURDER. Deacon Samuel Andrews, charged with the murder of Cornelius Holmes at Kingston, Mass., on the 26th day of last May, was arraigned on Tuesday before the Supreme Judicial Court at Plymouth, on an indictment charging him with the crime. The appearance of the accused when he entered court was not in any manner abashed, but rather otherwise. Only that he was a little paler than he was wont to be when at large, there was no change in Andrews, who, in a subdued voice, pleaded "Not Guilty" to the indictment. Having stated in answer to a question by the Chief Justice, that he was unprepared with counsel, Messrs. G. A. Somerville of Boston and Charles G. Davis of Plymouth were assigned by the Court to take charge of the case of Andrews. After some discussion of an application by prisoner's counsel for access to certain articles alleged to be in possession of the government, to be used as proofs in the case against Andrews, the Court held the matter for future decision, and the trial will probably take place in the first week in December next, at which time it is stated the counsel for accused will be ready to proceed with the defence.

SALE OF BREED'S ISLAND. This Island has recently been sold to R. S. Stevens of Attica, New York, for $200,000 by the trustees of Richard Foster Breed, late of Douglas, in the Isle of Man. It being considered doubtful whether the trustees can give a good title to said Island without the decree of Court, the Supreme Judicial Court of Suffolk county has given notice to numerous persons, corporations and institutions interested in the matter to appear before it on the 5th of January next and show their claims and their objections, if any they have. Most of them belong in England, and among them are a school, a hospital, and an insane asylum in the Isle of Man, and the Bunker Hill Monument Association of Charlestown.

DEATH OF LINCOLN. This great work of Ritchie is a painting which, apart from artistic excellencies, commands the attention of every American. It is for a short time to be seen at the new Art Gallery of Howarth, Pierce & Co., 256 Washington street.

E. Kuhn has some exquisite enamel portraits on exhibition here.

Messrs. H. P. & Co. also are manufacturers of every kind of plain and ornamental frame, and of the new reflex mirrors which are to become immensely popular.

BREADSTUFFS TUMBLING. It is stated that the stock of flour in Chicago at this date is more than ten times as great as it was at the corresponding date last year—being now 95,000 barrels to 10,000 barrels last year. Of course, with such immense stocks on hand, holders are anxious to sell. A surplus of breadstuffs is all that is wanted to bring prices down. There is now about double the stock of wheat in store at Chicago that there was last year. Especial attention is being paid to spring flours, the quality of which is being improved. Corn week before last was "cornered" up to $1.14 per bushel, but last week tumbled to 84 cents, slaughtering the speculators without mercy. Spring flours have declined from $1 to $2 per barrel.

MAGAZINE'S MONTHLY. This favorite Magazine is fashionable without being frivolous, full of good, sensible suggestions, and of really valuable information in regard to dress, the household, and whatever pertains to woman's work. Send for it—the price is merely nominal, $3, with an honest premium. Published at 473 Broadway, New York.

PROCLAMATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

In the year which is now drawing to an end, the art, the skill, and the labor of the people of the United have been employed with greater diligence and vigor and on broader fields than ever before, and the fruits of the earth have been gathered into the granary and the storehouse in marvellous abundance. Our highways have been lengthened, and new and profitable regions have been occupied. We are permitted to hope that long protracted political and sectional discussions are, at no distant day, to give place to returning harmony and fraternal affection throughout the republic. Many foreign states have entered into liberal agreements with us, while nations which are far off, and which heretofore have been unsocial and exclusive, have become our friends. The annual period of rest which we have reached in health and tranquility, and which is crowned with so many blessings, is, by universal consent, a convenient and suitable one for cultivating personal piety and practising public devotion. I, therefore, recommend that Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of November next, be set apart and observed by all the people of the United States as a day for public praise, thanksgiving and prayer to Almighty Creator and Ruler of the universe, by whose ever watchful, merciful and gracious providence alone States and nations, no less than families and individual men, do live and move and have their being. ANDREW JOHNSON.

EARTHQUAKE AT SAN FRANCISCO. Twelve shocks were felt on Wednesday last, which created general alarm among the people.

The direction of the shock was from north to south, through some descriptions give it a rotary motion. The greatest damage extends in a belt several hundred feet wide, and running about northwest and southeast, commencing near the Custom House and ending at Folsome street, injuring and demolishing about twelve buildings in its course. At the corner of Market and First streets the ground opened several inches wide, and about forty or fifty feet long. In other places the ground opened and water was forced above the surface. The City Hall may be considered a perfect wreck. The Courts have all adjourned, and the prisoners have been taken from the station-houses to the County Jail. All the patients in the United States Marine Hospital have been removed, the building having been declared unsafe. The chimney of the United States Mint was so badly damaged that the establishment is closed for repairs. Hager's toy foundry suffered greatly. The Lincoln school house was badly damaged and a large statue in front of the building completely buried. All business has been suspended. The San Francisco gas works suffered severely, the tall chimneys having been thrown over all through the roof.

BOSTON MUSEUM. One of those grand scenic displays for which the Boston Museum is famous, will be produced at that favorite place of amusement on Monday night, October 26th. It is the play of "Surf," by Olive Logan, which created a great sensation in Philadelphia a short time ago. It is a story of American fashionable life at the seashore.

CONVALESCENT. We are happy to state that Miss Holbrook—of the Codding Intermediate School—is rapidly regaining her health and strength. She will resume her duties in a few weeks.

CLAM CHOWDER. Mr. Joseph T. French, having an eye to business as well as the wants of the community, is about to revive a good old custom, and will, during the season, serve up at his saloon, 84 Hancock street, every Wednesday and Saturday, one of his delicious chowders. Families may be supplied in season for the evening meal. This is a desideratum which everyone and the public generally will duly appreciate. Mr. French is already out with his card, which may be found in another column.

ANNUAL RECEIPTS AT PLACES OF AMUSEMENT. During the year ending with August, 1868, the receipts at the places of amusement in Boston, with the exception of Selwyn's Theatre, (whose receipts are reckoned from October 28, 1867, instead of August, 1867) were as follows:

Boston Theatre,.....	$220,561
Boston Museum,.....	165,474
Selwyn's Theatre,.....	156,691
Howard Athenaeum,.....	110,948
Opera House,.....	104,248
Theatre Comique,.....	67,018
Continental Theatre,.....	39,840
Total,.....	$864,780

PERSONAL. The New York Post asserts that President Johnson has in contemplation the appointment of himself, upon the morning of the 4th of March next, as Minister of the United States to England.

APPLETON'S ILLUSTRATED ALMANAC FOR 1869, just received from the publishers, is readable, ornamental, and valuable. The calendars are very complete, and the illustrations are truly elegant. These include twelve calendar heads, representing American game birds and their haunts, twelve full-page illustrations, depicting in a very agreeable manner some of the social incidents connected with the month, and twelve small landscapes, representing rural features of each of the twelve divisions. The cover, in colors, is excellently done. Published by Dr. Appleton & Co., New York. Price 30 cents.

THE COMPANY IN CINCINNATI which ran with the first steam fire engine ever used in the world is continually adding ornaments to its machine, which is now for it—the price is merely nominal, $3, with an honest premium. Published at 473 Broadway, New York.

Mr. Adams's Opinion on Current Topics.

The following is reported to be the substance of what was said by Mr. John Quincy Adams in a conversation in the cars on his return journey from the South:—

The southern people were as loyal as any people in the North. The two races were, he found, friendly disposed towards each other, and the negroes were peaceable in all cases except when they were incited or influenced by "carpet-baggers." Nothing was calculated to do greater harm than the disfranchisement of the whites, which was more extensive than he ever had any idea of, and if the people of the North could see the situation of the South as he had, reconstruction would soon go to the wall. The negro now ruled the South despotically, but that could not last, for when the people were properly appealed to on this question, the North would never submit that ten of our best States should be governed by an ignorant and semi-barbarous race.

On the subject of the presidency he said:—"It is now too late to change the candidate. The election of General Grant is inevitable, and such a movement would materially damage the interests of the democracy." He never believed that Mr. Chase could have carried the day against Grant, and certainly not now. Nor was there, he thought, an available man in the field, even if time were afforded. He condemned the platform of the democracy more than the candidates, and thought the only issue upon which they should have gone before the people was reconstruction. The finance and other matters should have been left for future settlement, when peace and the Union were restored.

In reply to a question whether Frank Blair's letters and speeches did not seriously injure the democratic party he said:—"He had not read his speeches, but his Brodhead letter was certainly indiscreet and had damaged the party." He considered it also very unfortunate that such men as Wade Hampton, Forrest and others like them ever participated in the campaign, though of Hampton he had the highest opinion as a gentleman and as a good citizen, who, against his own will, had been forced into politics.

From the administration of General Grant he had the best hopes that peace would be restored, and that this question of negro domination and consequent ruin of the South, would be speedily disposed of, and that ere long we would be again living under the Constitution as it was.

In regard to his own chances for the governorship of Massachusetts, he said his nomination was more of a compliment to him than anything else. He had not the slightest expectation of being elected.

Wm. S. Perry, Esq., of this town, who recently sailed for Europe, arrived at Liverpool on Monday last. The news that he receives from home will be the sad announcement of the sudden death of his brother, whose death will be found under the usual head.

CONGRESS. A few members of each branch of Congress were in attendance at Washington on Friday last, and the presiding officers of the two Houses declared them adjourned to the 10th of November.

CHINESE. "Carlton" writes to the Boston Journal from Shanghai about a drive into the country to obtain a glimpse of rural life among the Chinese, as follows:—

"We whirl past gardens, past graves unnumbered, past the 'Baby Tower'—the common mausoleum for all babies who die before they are old enough to have their heads shaved, and their hair long enough to be braided into a pigtail. It is a square brick structure, fifteen or twenty feet high, standing over a deep well. The tower is full now, the window bricked up, the whole structure white-washed, and all dim with decay. Ten thousand of thousands of children."

"The pigtail of the Chinaman has a wonderful influence on the life of the individual. The child who dies without having his head shaved, not being entitled to a coffin, is reckoned as a nobody—a nonentity; but if he lives to grow a tail he is entitled to respect after death. It is his badge of honor. He has the queue of life. No greater insult can be given to a Chinaman than to cut off his braided hair or to speak slightly of it. The Chinese waiter at the hotel coils up his queue while doing his chamber work, but when he enters the parlor or serves at the dinner table he unwinds the coil and is careful to have it hang down his back. It would be disrespectful to you were he to enter the parlor or dining room with a coiled queue. A common punishment for small offences in the courts against criminals is the tying of two offenders by their tails, and a punishment still more severe is the cutting off of the tail altogether. It is a mortifying humiliation."

THE LARGEST ADVERTISING CONTRACT given out in 1868, and probably the largest ever given to one advertising firm at one time, is that of the proprietors of Plantation Bitters to George P. Rowell & Co., Advertising Agents, No. 40 Park Row, New York, on the 18th of September, for $43,776 26.

Messrs. P. H. Drake & Co. have for years been among the largest, if not the largest, advertisers in America, and the contract mentioned above is but a small part of their expenditure in this way for the present year. It is only those who have tried printers' ink most extensively that are so firmly convinced of its efficacy. The Advertising Agency which is sending out this order is another example. It commenced business less than five years since, and the fact that it now controls a greater advertising patronage than any similar establishment, is without doubt to be attributed to their having expended more money in advertising themselves and their facilities within that time than all other advertising firms put together, since the establishment of the first agency a quarter of a century ago.

Summary Intelligence.

In 1824 the ground froze up the 20th of October and did not open again until the next spring. Many crops of potatoes were locked up in the ground and could not be dug except with a pickaxe or crowbar.

Immense cargoes of grain left New York Saturday for Europe.

Coal went up to $11 per ton on Saturday in Boston.

The highest peak of the Green Mountains is Mt. Mansfield, in Underhill, the summit of which is 4389 feet above the level of the sea.

Three instances are recorded of snow storms in the month of October, in Boston, during the past twenty-five years, namely: October 17th, 1868, October 27th, 1851, and October 29th, 1846.

No new sovereigns were coined in England in 1867; a circumstance which has not happened for years. No half crowns have been coined since 1851.

The fountain on the grounds of Seth B. Hunt, at Bennington, is the highest but one in the world. It is drawn from the hills through a six-inch pipe, throwing a stream 168 feet, presenting the appearance at a short distance of a single silver bar. Its cost was $25,000.

A gentleman at Livermore (Me.) has been presented with a pair of twin sons and has named them Grant and Colfax.

The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is constantly represented at the market days at Brighton. Three persons were arrested on Thursday last for cruelty and made to pay a fine.

According to the New York Mail, the expenses of a modern fashionable wedding average from one to five thousand dollars, and the groom pays all the expenses of the church, the marriage fee, organist, sexton, gas and cards.

A Philadelphia paper expects that the disaffected with their Presidential candidates will bring half a million voters over to the side of Grant and Colfax.

A type setting machine has been invented, which works by electricity, so that a reporter, by the use of connecting wires, may put his report in type even were he hundreds of miles off.

There are more than a hundred houses in Fifth Avenue, N. Y., that rent for $40,000 each a year.

The amount of government securities held by the savings banks of New York, Massachusetts, Maine and Connecticut is $100,000,000, represented by 1,092,032 depositors.

Our Maine exchanges speak of extra preparation having been made to prosecute the lumber business during the coming winter, and all say that the quantity cut down will be unusually large.

A new Catholic college, to cost $200,000, is in course of erection at Chicago. The St. Ignatius College will be located in the building.

Vice-President Colfax is to be married on Tuesday of next week.

A Broadway jeweler has on exhibition in his window a gold chain valued at $1000, which he intends presenting to the "next President."

It is calculated that thirty-five thousand hats were bet on the result of the late elections.

The snow storm on Saturday extended over the whole of New England, and northern New York, raging with nearly equal violence over the whole country visited by it.

The apple crop in Lee and its vicinity is immense this season. One orchard will gather 2000 barrels.

The number of professional thieves of all kinds in New York is estimated at 10,000.

A New York milliner has made a bonnet which is said to be a marvel of cheapness at $125.

The Grosshorn, in the Bernese Alps, has been climbed for the first time, two German students accomplishing the feat.

A man residing in Waterford, having occasion to make a few repairs on his house recently, discovered a bees' nest between the floors, and obtained therefrom ninety-eight pounds of pure honey.

Mrs. Andrew Weston of Middleborough recently sold a bundle of rags in her possession to a tin pedlar belonging in Norton. Next day Mr. Weston sought the pedlar, found the rags intact, and on their being opened took out an envelope containing $2500, which he had put away for safe keeping without his wife knowing of the deposit.

Abington, after having suffered from a dozen fires, purchased an engine recently. But even now it is a matter of private enterprise and not of municipal foresight.

For the Patriot.

DEATH OF MRS. KIMBALL.

In New York city, Oct. 12, Antoinette A., wife of Dr. Horace Kimball, and daughter of Mr. James Holbrook, of South Braintree, aged thirty-four years.

It is with sincere regret we announce the death of this most estimable woman.

For many years she was engaged as teacher in this town, and it was in this capacity we knew, and loved her.

She was faithful, energetic, and highly successful,—a thorough disciplinarian, and possessed, in addition to her many noble traits of character, a well cultivated mind, and a rich share of intelligence.

Two years ago, radiant with joy and happiness, she gave the fresh love of her young womanhood into the keeping of another, and it was in the varied scenes of her domestic life, that her ready judgment, and many virtues shone pre-eminent.

Her mildness of temper, and social characteristics have enshrined her name in undying memory upon the hearts of a large circle of friends.

Her Christian life was one of rich experience. Her hand was ever ready to do the work of her Master, and she labored with unwearied diligence and self-sacrificing devotion for the promotion of His cause.

A long cherished hope which had filled her heart with pride and joy, was a few days since realized; but the bliss of her sacred motherhood was scarce known to her, ere she was called to wear the robes of immortality.

It is here we part with her. Her joy is unspeakable and full of glory. Viewed thus, we feel there is no death.

"She is not lost—but gone before." A.

Indian Hill Cemetery at Middle-town, (Conn.) is the site of an aboriginal council grove, and rare specimens of Indian implements are sometimes found there in digging graves.

THE EARLY ROSE POTATO. Mr. George W. Best, of Utica, N. Y., offers premiums to the amount of $500 to parties who will raise the largest quantity of "Early Rose" Potatoes next season, from one peck of seed.

We call attention to the advertisement of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain bonds. They are pronounced to be among the very best secured and cheapest bonds offered.

NEW POSTAGE STAMPS. The contract for furnishing the Government with Postage Stamps for the next four years has been awarded to the National Bank Note Company of New York. New designs have been adopted for all the stamps, as follows:—

"The two cent Stamp represents a post boy on a horse running at full speed, illustrating the fact that this stamp is mostly used for dispatch letters."

"On the three cent Stamp there is a finely engraved locomotive. This is surrounded by lines of lightning, indicating the speed with which letters are carried on which this stamp is used."

"The five cent Stamp has an excellent portrait of Washington."

"The ten cent Stamp has an excellent microscopical copy of the painting of the Signing of the Declaration of Independence, hanging in the Rotunda at Washington."

"The twelve cent Stamp, mostly used for foreign postage, has a picture of a steamer, at sea."

"The thirty cent Stamp has a copy of a painting of the surrender of Burgoyne, hanging in the Rotunda of the National Capitol."

The ink to be used will prevent washing and using the stamps a second time. The flure in the centre of the stamp is broken completely, and they adhere better, while the ink of cancellation sinks into the paper.

ORGANIZED
By, and conducted under the direct supervision of well known New York and Boston practical business men, who have been for many years in the Importing and Wholesale Tea Trade. THE

ORIENTAL
TEA COMPANY
WILL HEREAFTER BREAK PACKAGES and sell the finest high grade teas, such as "Imperial," "Green" and "Souchong," Japan Tea direct from the best tea farms in China and Japan, cured under special contract for direct sale, in place of the usual tea sold to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION TO FINE Flavored Teas of full strength, which compete with the most important tea houses sold for "low price" lists.

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Tea is the cheapest, as the government duty, 25 cents in Gold or nearly 40 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as on the Finest.

TO FACILITATE customers in making out their orders, we offer the following "list," which embraces the FINEST Tea and Coffee ever offered in the American market.

Classified List of Teas.

LETTER FROM GEN. DIX.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. Gen. Dix, the American Minister to France, has sent the following letter to a friend in this city. It was not written for publication, but the gentleman to whom it was addressed has consented to give it to the public:

PARIS, SEPT. 4, 1868.

My Dear Sir: It was my hope that my distance from home would have saved me from all participation in the political excitement prevailing there, but I notice in one of the newspapers that I am heart and hand with Mr. Seymour. I am not aware of anything in the present or the past which could rightly subject me to such an imputation. I have been acquainted with Mr. Seymour more than a quarter of a century. He is an amiable gentleman, of unexceptionable private character and respectable talents; but you know as well as I that he has not a single qualification for the successful execution of the high official trust to which he has been nominated, and he is especially deficient in that firmness of purpose which, in critical emergencies, is the only safeguard against public disorder and calamity. He has been twice, at different times, Governor of the State of New York, and he has in neither case had the talent—or the tact—to keep the Democratic party of the State together more than two years.

I should regard his election at this juncture, when steadiness of purpose, decision and self-control are so much needed, as one of the greatest calamities that could befall the country.

Moreover, he has been put in nomination by a convention which has openly declared the purpose of those it represents to pay the greater part of the public debt, contracted to preserve the Union, in depreciated paper. Such a measure would in my judgment, be a palpable violation of the public faith, pledged under circumstances which should have been binding on all honorable men.

Mr. Seymour has made public speeches to show that it is our duty to pay the debt in specie. In accepting his nomination to the Presidency he adopts the declaration that it ought to be paid in paper. I know nothing so humiliating in the history of American politics as this tergiversation. It was, perhaps, not unfit that Mr. Seymour, after presiding, in 1864, over the Chicago Convention, which declared the war a failure, should preside over the convention of 1868, in which a proposition to discredit the debt contracted to carry on the war was received with tremendous cheering, and that he should be the chosen instrument to execute this act of turpitude.

I do not believe that the wishes or opinions of the great body of the Democratic party are fairly expressed in these proceedings. They have nothing in common with the statesmanlike views of policy and the high sense of national honor which guided the party when Martin Van Buren, William L. Marcy, Silas Wright, Lewis Cass and Stephen A. Douglass were among its most conspicuous members.

I see but one source of safety for the country under existing circumstances, and that is the election of Gen. Grant. On his decision of character, good sense, moderation and disinterested patriotism, I believe the South will have a far better hope of regaining the position in the Union to which it is entitled, than under a man whose political career has been in nothing more conspicuously marked than in an utter infirmity of purpose.

Independently of all these considerations I should be greatly surprised if the people of the United States were to elect as their Chief Magistrate a man who was making, at the Academy of Music, on the 4th of July, 1863, a speech deficient in the characteristics of an elevated love of country, at the very hour when General Grant was carrying the victorious arms of the Union into Vicksburg, and when thousands of our fallen countrymen were pouring out their blood on the plains of Gettysburg in defence of their homes and the Government which Mr. Seymour was doing all in his power to embarrass and discredit.

I am quite willing that you should show this letter to any friends who may take an interest in my opinion in regard to the coming election; and I am particularly desirous of removing the impression (if it exists) that I am in favor of Mr. Seymour or the repudiation of any portion of the public debt.

I am, dear sir, very truly yours, (Signed) JOHN A. DIX.

NATURAL PHILOSOPHY.

Freddy was mourning over the loss of his knife, and I attempted to console him by telling him that I thought it "must be somewhere."

"Course it is somewhere, every thing is somewhere, only 'loons when they're busted."

The same little philosopher, when he was three years old, was questioned by his elder brother in the following fashion:—

"Freddy, did God make you up in heaven?"

"Yes," was the unhesitating answer. "Has he got plenty more little babies up there?"

"Yes," said Freddy, again.

There was a moment of silence, and then the question—

"Well, how did He get you down here?"

"I don't 'member," said Freddy. "I guess I was asleep most of the way!"

The Corporal.

Ten friends are dearly purchased at the expense of a single enemy; for the latter will take ten times more pains to injure you than the former will take to do you a service.

Why is an almanac like good advice? Because it goes in at one year and out at the other.

Poetry.

OCTOBER.

The summer, slow retreating from the heavens,
Returns a space, earth's beauty to behold,
And through the mists of parting tears she sendeth
One last fond smile to haunt beloved of old.

Like the Egyptian queen in ancient story,
The year around her folds her robe of beauty,
And stands a queen beneath the pallid sky;
And round her regal form, like hushed attendants,
The forests stand in anguished moanings tossed,
For 'neath her splendid heaves to death her bosom,
Smote by the aspic of the untimely frost.

Like Caesar soon will come the chill December,
To gaze upon her form whence life is fled;
And the wild winds that swirl around her dying,
Will shriek in anguish o'er the bright year dead.

Interesting Selections.

DOUGHNUTS. One cup of sour milk, one egg, one cup of sugar, one teaspoon of soda, a little salt, half a nutmeg.

TO CLEAN TIN WARE. Get the finest whiting; mix a little of it powdered with the least drop of sweet oil, rub the covers well with it, and wipe them clean; then dust over them some dry whiting in a muslin bag, and rub bright with dry leather. This last is to prevent rust, which the cook must guard against by wiping them dry and putting them by the fire when they come from the dining room; for if but once hung up damp, the inside will rust.

GUARD AGAINST CONTAGION. Never
enter a sick room in a state of perspiration, as the moment you become cool your pores absorb. Do not approach contagious disease with an empty stomach, nor sit between the sick and the fire; because the heat attracts the vapor. Preventives are preferable to pills or powders.

If a seaman should turn back every time he encounters a head wind he would never make a voyage. So he who permits himself to be baffled by adverse circumstances will never make headway in the voyage of life.

Simplicity and purity are the two wings by which a man is lifted up above all earthly things. Simplicity is in the intention; purity to God, purity apprehends and tastes him.

A young man of great gallantry recently rescued a beautiful woman who was in danger of drowning. She stood in high-tide shoes, surrounded by forty springs under a watered silk, with a cataract in her eye, a waterfall on the back of her head, and a notion in her brain.

Stagnant or foul water is well known to be very injurious to all animals, and it may be this is sometimes the cause of abortion in cows: By it the blood is often poisoned, and febrile complaint engendered.

Gossip is one of the meanest as well as one of the most degrading crimes that society tolerates.

A man in the country announces that his golden wedding will come off just thirty years from now, and offers a liberal discount on any presents his friends then design to make him.

There are few people who have not been occasionally puzzled whether to write et or in in the words that so represent the sound of long e. A very simple rule, says a schoolmaster, removes all difficulty. When the diphthong follows e, it is always et—conceive, etc.; when it follows o, it is always in—grief, friend, niece, etc.

Wives who do not try to keep their husbands will lose them. A man does the "courting" before marriage, and the wife must do it after marriage, or some other woman will.

How is it possible to expect that mankind will take advice, when they will not so much as take warning.

A writer says that every created thing has a brain, has a memory, has a past, and applies its experience for the benefit of its future happiness. An old dog in a bear hunt is cautious of bruin's teeth as an old broker is of suspicious stocks, and both act on the same principle—the recollection of being "bitten" in a previous transaction.

The man who will abandon a friend for an error, knows but little of the human character, and shows that his heart is as cold as his judgment is weak.

"So use your own as not to injure your neighbors," is a maxim of law. The general observance of this rule would prevent many of the controversies and lawsuits which occur.

If we but rightly improve our time and faculties, we shall be happy.
There are springs of the most refined and elevated enjoyment ever open to those who seek wisdom.

Horace Greeley says that the darkest day in any man's earthly career is that wherein he first fancies that there is some easier way of gaining a dollar than by squarely earning it.

Miscellany.

HOW THE DOCTOR WAS DINED.

We know a story—an "ow're true tale"—about the way a friend had the toothache cured, and how the dentist got a good dinner, which is a little too rich to see the light. So we shall here attempt to tell it.

Well, then, our friend had a bad tooth that troubled him, (as most bad things in people's heads are apt to do;) and after several days and nights of suffering from it, he courageously resolved to have the "offending member" taken out—to make a vacuum in the row of his fine white ivories. The pain would, of course, be some; the loss of a "grinder" considerable. But out it must and should come.
"If I fine eye offend thee, pluck it out," saith the Book. And our friend, doubtless, esteeming one tooth out of thirty-two in number of less importance than one eye from two, both as to looks and convenience, and remembering the injunction in the above quotation, straightway he started for the office of Dr. S— to have his tooth extracted.

He walked boldly up to the door and rang the bell. There might have been something of nervousness in the pull of the knob, but we won't say there was. The bell jingled very distinctly, and in a moment our friend with the toothache was ushered into the presence of the dentist, who was busy in spreading out and arranging his implements of art. These presented a formidable array! Here and there lay saws, files, knives, forceps, and all sorts of instruments for cutting and pulling.

The sufferer gave them a hasty glance
before he and the dentist had even time for salutation. But hasty was that glance, it was enough! The toothache was no more.

"Good morning, Mr. H—, I'm glad to see you," said the doctor. "Take a seat, sir."

"Thank you—thank you, doctor," said the visitor, rather confusedly. But recovering himself with excellent grace, continued: "As I was passing doctor, it occurred to me that I have a fine turkey for dinner to-morrow, and with another friend or two with you, should like to have a glass of good old wine over it.
That's all, doctor. Shall I have the pleasure of your company to-morrow?"

"Certainly, my dear sir, and thanks.
I'll call without fail. You may rely upon me."

"Well, doctor, I'm in a hurry. Only stepped in to see you and make the invitation. Good day, doctor."

"Good day, Mr. H—, I'll not forget your fine turkey and good old wine—depend upon it. Good day, sir."

And the man who had the toothache quietly departed.

The dinner came off. It was indeed excellent, as we know, having been present on the occasion. The story, as we have related it, was told. The doctor's pain extractors were highly commended;
while his health, and that of the host,
went down with sundry bumpers of good old wine.

FORGOT HIS NAME.
A conceited fellow by the name of Head, in making New Year's calls in a certain city, made the acquaintance of a young lady upon whom he flattered himself he had effected a very decided impression. He felt that he was irresistible to the sex, any how, but in this particular instance he was confident that he had accomplished a complete conquest.

Not to let the cruel to the damsel whom he imagined to be languishing over his absence, he called upon her again after the new year was a week or so old. That he might feast upon the surprise and joy she would evince on discovering who her caller was, he refrained from giving his name to the servant who answered his ring, but instructed her to tell Miss—that a very particular friend desired an interview.

He was ushered into the parlor, and after a brief delay, the young lady whom he supposed to be rapidly approaching dissolution on his account, entered.

She paused on the threshold and looked embarrassed. He expected that, but contrary to his expectations, no blush of emotion or gleam of recognition, even, lighted her countenance.

"Don't you remember me?" said he,
putting on the smile which he had imagined had melted her young and susceptible heart upon their first meeting.
"You know I called here last New Year's with a party in a four-horse sleigh."

"Oh, yes," said the young lady, who didn't appear in the least crushed by the recollection. "I remember. Your face did look familiar, but your name?"

"Don't you remember my name?" inquired the heart-pulverizer, with an air of deep chagrin.

"I have almost got it," said the lady,
with a puzzled smile. "It isn't Brown?"

"No, indeed. But really, madam, this is not very flattering to me, your forgetting my name. I imagined that I had made a decided impression."

"So you did, so you did," the lady hesi-tated to reply. Strange that your name should have escaped me, though. I was thinking of it just before you rang. Don't tell me what it is. I shall think of it in a minute. Really, this is quite mortifying;

what has become of my memory?" and she trotted her pretty little foot impatiently on the carpet.

"But let me give you a hint," said
Mr. Head, whose mortification was rapidly increasing.

"Well, just a little hint. I should think of your name in a minute anyhow—just the least hint in the world will do."

"Now, then, what do I carry on my shoulders?" queried Head.

A moment's puzzled reflection, then her face brightened up, she advanced toward him with outstretched hand, and corroborated exclaims:

"Why, Mr. Squash, how do you do?"

MARRIED LADIES.
The influence which is peculiar to married ladies, results from their connexion and intercourse with their husbands and children. It is in vain for a man to say,
"My wife shall not rule me." Now and then, perhaps, when their wills come in direct contact, he may keep possession of the field, and flatter himself that he has won the victory. But even then his generosity, if he have any, will induce him to waive any advantage he might have derived from it. And nineteen times in twenty, when he thinks he is pursuing an independent course, and assumes all the credit of his success, the suggestions or persuasions of his companion are influencing his opinions and controlling his conduct. If in addition to the usual charms of her sex, she possesses gentleness of manners, sweetness of disposition, and a well cultivated mind, it must require a singular share of obstinacy to withstand her influence in a single instance.

As it regards the rising generation, the case is still more plain. Children, in the early period of life, are almost wholly under the care and direction of the mother.
Their minds are developed under her tender and constant cultivation. Their characters are usually formed at an early period, when their ideas being few, impressions are easily made, and when they naturally apply to their mother for advice and instruction. Besides, the greater freedom which is observable in their intercourse with her than with their father, and the fact that they are almost continually in her society, it constitutes a great part of her occupation to unfold their tender powers, and to impart to them the rudiments of their education.

A pious, intelligent, and faithful mother, is the greatest earthly blessing that a merciful Providence can bestow on a child. If she performs her duty, her offspring will rise up and call her blessed.
It is evident from the biographies of Washington and Dwight, that their intellectual and moral greatness was derived from the blessing of heaven on the instructions and advice of their mothers.
The same is no doubt true of many, if not all, the worthies of our land, and the benefactors of our race.

'GOD WILL BRING US SAFELY HOME.' A lady, with her husband and a sweet little girl of seven years old, were returning home from India, with hearts full of joy and expectation, to meet again the beloved friends from whom they had long been parted.

For some time the voyage was a very smooth and pleasant one. Suddenly the fine vessel in which they were sailing was becalmed, which in this instance meant, that sliding down on the breast of a wave, it was unable to rise to the top of the next, and lay like a log on the waters, in danger of sinking immediately.

The cargo was at once lightened, and every thing, of course, done to ease the struggling ship, which groaned and trembled like a living creature.

The captain, a gray-haired man, went down into the cabin, and told the passengers of the fearful danger in which they were placed.

All present bowed their heads in silent prayer, as they waited the terrible rush of waves to bury them in one deep and common grave—when the voice of the little girl rang out in clear and loud tones
—"O! don't be afraid! God is very good.
He will make the ship ride the waves—
He will bring us safe home." And on she sped, from one to another, like the dove with the olive-leaf, bearing the sweet messages in her mouth, "O, don't be afraid!—don't be afraid!"

Just then a tremendous noise above board, made all start to their feet, thinking the ship was going down. Suddenly there was a cry at the cabin door. "We are saved! The ship has righted herself!"

"Ah! yes," said the child, "I told you God was good. God has made the ship ride the waves; God will bring us safe home."

After the first outburst of thankfulness to their great Protector, all the passengers embraced the little girl, and the sailors declared that she was the angel of the voyage, and that while she was on board, nothing wrong happened.

The ship was sorely damaged; but she arrived safely at an English port.

This beautiful incident was told by the mother of the dear little girl.

To yield to the passions is to give up the struggle, and to acknowledge ourselves beaten; but to contend to the last is to earn the reward of the faithful.

MAKE A SCRAP-BOOK.

Every intelligent, progressive farmer, takes a paper. That is a fixed fact. It is to be hoped, too, that he has half-a-dozen journals, of one sort or another coming every month; but however that may be, when he reads them over he often says: "Now I wish I could remember that item; and put it in practice next season. I believe I will cut it out and save it somewhere. He does cut it out and put it in his vest pocket, or between the leaves of a book, or in some old out of the way place, where there is little chance of his ever seeing it again.

Now, when he cut it out, he took a step in the right direction. Why did he not go a little further, and paste it in a scrapbook? Then it would have been permanently saved, and very convenient for reference. Preserving papers in files would save all the articles, but few would take the trouble to look it through them for some point they wished to read over again. It would seem too much like looking for the proverbial "needle in the hay-stow."

The scrap book gives you the very cream of all your papers. There are usually only a few articles in each one which seems to have been written expressly for you; and you do not care to save those belonging to everybody else.
You do not care to read the columns on bee-keeping, when you never owned a bee in your life; but probably your neighbor takes more interest in that department than any other. It is the beauty of a good paper that it has something in it for every one.

The house mother can never buy as good a receipt book as she can make by carefully saving the useful recipes and suggestions she meets with in her weekly paper. The book should have a simple classification: the recipes for cooking should be placed by themselves, those for general housework may be placed in another part of the book—the same for directions on gardening, care of children, &c.

Such a book is a great means of economy in the course of a year. Just the right thing in the right place often saves dollars of money and dollars' worth of time and trouble. Just such hints and directions we meet with from week to week in every good paper, and it is the carrying them out into practice that makes the difference between the thrifty, successful farmer and his opposite.

Of course if they are forgotten they cannot be put in practice. The mind, unless it has been severely disciplined, is apt to hold knowledge much as a sieve does water. It needs many helps to make the memory useful.
The very act of cutting out the slip and pasting it in, is a great help towards recalling it; and if the details are forgotten, then is the article itself—you can turn to it readily. Thus you can benefit by the experience of hundreds of people you have never seen, but who have kindly noted down their own success or failure in the various departments in which you are most interested.

A LARGE ELEVATOR IN BOSTON.
The Scientific American, says: Boston is to have another big feature beside the great organ. The Boston and Albany Railroad Corporation are erecting a new and spacious grain elevator. The plan of the building is somewhat different from the large elevators at Albany, New York, Chicago, and other places. The building is making of brick and wood, and will be about seventy feet high. The upper or wooden story will contain eighty-two bins, some of which will contain 1,500 bushels of grain, and others twice that amount.
The total capacity of the edifice will be 250,000 bushels. The machinery will be worked by steam, and there will be millions to grind corn for patrons. On the lower floor, too, a track to accommodate three freight-cars at the side. The centre of this floor is occupied by a deep vat, into which the grain will be shoveled from the cars in a very few minutes, and the empty cars will then be run out and three full ones take their place, and so on. In the centre of the building will be a shaft running up to the roof. An endless belt runs over a wheel at the roof and another in the vat, the face of which is covered with cups, and as the belt will constantly move, those cups will ceaselessly go up full and come down empty.

At the top another form of propulsion will carry the grain into any particular bin desired. By this process a car load of grain can be brought direct from Chicago, emptied at the elevator, in the elevator, in ten minutes, and the car sent back the same day. The cost of elevating and storing the grain will be one cent per bushel for the first five days, and for a longer storage so much for every ten days. The grain

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We"

TO PATRONS. We have been under the necessity of issuing supplements the past two weeks, owing to the rush of favors from our advertising friends, and should have done so this week, but the press of job work has made it impossible. We hope our patrons will excuse us, for we are obliged to omit several columns of advertisements and much other interesting matter which were intended for this week's paper.

MORE AMUSEMENTS FOR THE PEOPLE. Our readers, we think, will be gratified to learn that Professor Walker, who ever intent to contribute to their pleasure and enjoyment—will give a course of SIX ASSEMBLIES, at the Town Hall, commencing on Friday evening, Nov. 13, and to close with a ball. It is a happy thought, for which the public may thank Mr. W., as it will furnish an attractive feature to the galaxy of amusements which are to come off the coming season. It will be a subscription affair, names therefore may be left with Mr. Abbott E. Willett, or Miss Florence Randall.

POLITICAL. The current of politics runs high just now. It is the all-absorbing question, nothing else is thought of, and of Republicans and Democrats are attempting to out-do each other. Public meetings and torchlight processions are of almost every evening's occurrence. Besides those which came off by the Republicans last week, the Democrats have had two this week—one on Thursday and the other last evening—which had able speakers, and were well attended.

WE call attention to the notice of this adjourned congratulatory meeting next Thursday. It will be an attractive occasion, when the Tanners and Bleachers, with their differing Clubs, each burning their last stick and lighting their last torch, shall march together to the "Music of the Union." The informal chat at the Hall, and the sociability of the feast, will doubtless be as pleasant as on the last year; and this fraternal way of closing up party strife, then inaugurated, should become an established institution.

ON Sunday next, Nov. 1st, at 7 1/2 P. M., Grand Vespers will be given at St. John's Catholic Church. The celebrated Basso Cantata, Dr. Guilmotte, with other eminent vocalists will be present.

On all Souls Day, Nov. 2d, at 8 o'clock, A. M., a Solemn Requiem Mass will be celebrated in both Catholic Churches for the repose of the departed souls of those whose remains are interred in the Cemetery at West Quincy.

REV. J. F. SULLIVAN, Pastor.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS THAT SEYMOUR AND BLAIR WILL BE ELECTED. Helmholtz, the celebrated New York druggist, announces that he is ready to wager one million dollars cash, on the result of the November elections, as follows:—

Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars—That Grant will not receive a majority of the electoral votes of the United States or a majority of the votes cast by the people.

Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars—That Indiana and Pennsylvania will, in November, go for Seymour and Blair.

Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars—That New York State will go for Seymour and Blair and Hoffman.

Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars—That Seymour and Blair will be elected President and Vice President of the United States.

WAR CLAIMS. Col. Gardner Tufts, the efficient Massachusetts State Agent, has just succeeded in effecting a special settlement of the Massachusetts war claims, which have realized for the State $261,000 in addition to the $670,000 allowed by the Department last spring. All of the items making these amounts had been once suspended and disallowed.

A SPLENDID BOOK. One of the most beautiful volumes ever gotten up in this country is that containing the resolution of thanks to George Peabody, adopted by Congress at the last session. The book is bound in blue morocco, tastefully paneled and gilt, with a beautiful raised monogram in solid gold and silver on one of the panels. The covers are lined on the inside with watered silk, and opposite the handsome title page is another neat monogram in colors. It will be forwarded to Mr. Peabody through the State department shortly.

FANATICAL PUNISHMENT OF A CHILD. Mary Swinger was on Saturday sentenced at Rochester, N. Y., to six months' imprisonment for having a few months' since cruelly burned the hands of her adopted daughter, seven years of age, by holding them over the stove. The Rochester Union says:—

It was alleged by the prisoner, when in the Police Court, that the little girl had stolen a piece of candy, and it was to deter her from committing further thefts that she punished her in the manner she did. By roasting the little one's hands over the stove she said she intended to give her an idea of what hell is, a place to which she would surely go if she stole any more.

CLAM CHOWDER. We were allowed, through the politeness of Mr. Joseph T. French, to participate with his numerous patrons in a pair of his delicious Chowder on Wednesday last. He has our thanks, and as a successful caterer to the most fastidious appetite, in this department, we cheerfully recommend him to public favor.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

The Democracy of this town held a crowded and enthusiastic meeting in the Town Hall, last Friday evening, over which Colonel John Quincy Adams presided, and speeches were made by A. E. Alger, Esq., of Lowell, and P. W. Cronin, Esq., of Weymouth. The assemblage, which included not only Democrats but also a large number of Republicans, was called to order at eight o'clock by Seth Dewing, Esq., the President of the Seymour and Blair Club, who submitted the name of Mr. Adams as President, and some fifty of the prominent Conservatives as Vice Presidents and Secretaries. They were chosen unanimously, and Mr. Adams on taking the chair greeted with overwhelming applause. He spoke as follows:—

"MY FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS:—My simple duty this evening will be, not to offer you any extended remarks, but merely to introduce in a few words the eloquent gentlemen who are about to discourse to you on the great questions of public duty which are at issue in this campaign. We have assembled to-night to debate the most momentous questions of public interest which have ever been submitted to this people for their consideration in any canvass since the foundation of the Government. You are called upon to take your choice in this election between two parties; you are asked by our Republican friends to vote their ticket; you are asked to continue in irresponsible and absolute power the party which for eight years has had control of the Government. That party you know, the effects of its policy you feel. That party, by its extravagance, has subjected you to a taxation which has become too burdensome for the laboring man to bear. You are asked to vote for a party which has subverted the Constitution which was handed down to you by your Fathers; you are asked to vote for a party which in its eight years of irresponsible power, which has placed under a military despotism, in a condition of profound peace, ten of the fairest States in the Union. You are asked to vote for a party which now, at the present time, holds seven of these States under the heel of a negro despotism backed by bayonets. That is the republican government, my friends,—that is the republican government which the Radical party has given to ten of the sovereign and independent States of the United States of America, and to this party you are requested to give a further lease of the power which they have used in this way. Now, my friends, these are very momentous questions, reaching to the very foundations, the very depths of the whole theory of republican government. This is none of the usual questions of policy, matters which, decided either way, are still not productive of absolute ruin to the fundamental principles of government; but the principles which you are requested in this campaign to endorse by the Republican party, are principles which are the absolute subversion of the very foundation upon which our whole fabric of civil liberty here in this country rests. So important, so vital is this matter which we are discussing in this election. Now, my friends, I shall not detain you longer but merely beg you to bear in mind that all other questions are utterly swamped in this one great overwhelming question which we are called upon to decide in this contest. Is the unrestrained will of any party in this country to be the supreme and sovereign law, or is the old Constitution of our Fathers, and the old Union, handed down to us by our ancestors, to still be over us and secure us the blessings of peace, prosperity and liberty?"

Mr. Adams on closing was loudly cheered. He then introduced Mr. Alger who was warmly greeted. Mr. Alger spoke for an hour and a half.

While Mr. Alger was speaking a battalion of the Seymour and Blair Club, bearing torches and accompanied by the Quincy Brass Band, entered the Hall and remained during the rest of the meeting. The Band enlivened the scene with its patriotic airs.

The meeting was brought to a close soon after 10 o'clock, with three cheers for Seymour and Blair, three more for Adams and Noble, and three more still for Hon. Edward Avery, the Democratic candidate for Congress from the District.

CREAT! The very best of Downer's Kerosene Oil is still being sold at the low price of forty cents, at N. B. Farnall's. Now is the time for the economist to save his pennies.

REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATION. The Republican torchlight procession on Wednesday evening, in Boston, was a most successful affair. The column was very long, the pageant very brilliant, and the enthusiasm very spirited. It is estimated that there were not less than ten thousand persons in the procession. The weather was very auspicious for an outdoor movement, though the streets were not very good for pedestrians. The procession was seventy-five minutes in passing one point, and exactly three hours in marching along their route.

THE PLACE TO BUY CHEAP. Where can you go to buy Goods cheap? This question is truthfully answered as follows:—You can get them at the old stand of C. T. Reed, now occupied by Joseph W. Lombard, corner of School and Hancock streets. He is selling his stock of goods very cheap, which consists of Hosiery, Gloves, Prints, Sontags, Shawls, Cambrics, All-wool Casimere, a lot of Belnap Flannel, &c. Also Straw and Oil Cloth Carpets, Mats, &c. He has also a small lot of Shoe Findings, which can be had at the lowest cash prices. Remember and give him a call.

BUTTER STILL UPWARD. The price of butter at St. Albans on Tuesday ranged from 44 to 48 cents, some choice lots bringing 50 to 52 cents.

The school children of the United States require yearly $18,750,000 of books.

JOTTINGS FROM BERKSHIRE HILLS.

PITTSFIELD, OCT. 26, 1868.

Beautiful for situation, Pittsfield has long been famed for her autumnal glories. A year ago this month, my eyes were feasted with them—but recently, a premature winter has changed to white her purple robes. It seemed Friday more like Switzerland in December, than Berkshire in October, as we spent two hours and a half crossing in snow and ice the Hoosac Mountain. The view was wild and picturesque, but the winter blast that chilled us, even under a bright sun, made the ride rather uncomfortable. The 'Great Bore' is not done yet, and perhaps Dr. Holmes is right in making its completion and the dawn of the millennium coeval. If not in natural beauty Pittsfield has improved in architectural attractiveness since my visit last autumn. The first object which arrested attention was the palatial red sandstone block, erected in elegant style for the Berkshire Life Insurance Company. It is called the finest model in the country of what is called the French renaissance, and stands a monument of the enterprise and success of this favorite Company. It cost $175,000. There are also several new blocks of stores and private residences which have been erected the past year. There is now building an extensive Railroad Station for the joint use of the three roads that centre here. It will be one of the finest structures of the kind in our State. The consolidation of the Worcester and Western roads has given new vigor to railroad enterprise, and Superintendent Russell is giving his large experience and indomitable energy to the making of the Boston and Albany Railroad, all that can be asked for as a central avenue from Boston to the West. I was pleased to find that the engine on which I was riding between Pittsfield and Springfield—Dececher isn't the only man that rides on a locomotive—to find that it was the "Addison Gilmore," which fact once carried me back nearly twenty years to the day when the "six-foot, nine drivers," arrested my boyish eyes, so big and so bright, right fresh from the shop, the first big engine that I had ever seen.

As I write, softer winds are blowing, and warmer skies seem coming back, and Berkshire meadows once more look green, and Berkshire Hills are donning their royal purple, getting ready for the dies placidi, which the Indian summer and the election of Grant, next week, bring to our happy land. TRAVELLER.

PERSONAL. We had the pleasure of seeing at our office a few days since, Wm. P. F. Meserve, of Chicago, Ill., formerly "mice host" of the Hancock Hotel, in this place. Mr. Meserve is not only proprietor of the Marlboro Hotel, in Boston, but is the popular landlord of the St. James, one of the largest and most attractive in Chicago. It has two hundred rooms and will accommodate several hundred visitors in the most agreeable manner. Let those of our friends visiting the West give Mr. M. a call, and our word for it, they will be well pleased with their visit.

CONTESTED CASES. Probably the Forty-first Congress will have a larger number of contested election cases than have called for a decision in a good many years. The seats of Messrs. Moffatt in the third Pennsylvania, Strader in the first Ohio, and Voorhees in the sixth Indiana, will certainly be contested, as will also be those of Messrs. Reading in the fifth Pennsylvania by Mr. Taylor, Foster in the twenty-first district of the same State by Mr. Covode, and Hong in the tenth Ohio district by Mr. Ashley, if these gentlemen receive certificates of election. There will then be six contested seats in three States.

TWO gentlemen of Lynn have made a wager on the result of the Presidential election, in which the loser is to wheel a barrel of apples from Quincy Market, Boston, to Lynn immediately after the election.

A WOMAN APPOINTED WARD COMMISSIONER. Mrs. Jane Boyd, a widow lady, has been appointed to the office of commissioner of the first ward, and she becomes the first female office-holder in Washington.

George Nolan, alias Joseph Brown, was arrested in Abington last week, for having escaped from Dedham jail some four years ago, where he was serving out a sentence for aggravated assault. He had been in East Abington about a year and a half, and during that time had married in that place under his assumed name.

INGENUOUS ROBBERY. A man in New York was arrested and held for trial for the larceny of $7000 worth of silks, ribbons, etc. It seems that the prisoner, with another man, name unknown, robbed the basement and opened a trunk store, and bored a hole through the ceiling and filled six trunks with the goods, which were being taken away in an express wagon when he was arrested.

THE TRIAL OF DAVIS. Gentlemen of standing, who have intimate relations at the Attorney-General's office, say there is no probability that Jefferson Davis will be tried next month, and assert that the President means to throw the case over into the next administration.

An Irishman called at a drug store to get a bottle of "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment" for the Rheumatism, the druggist asked him in what part of the body it troubled him most. "Be me sowl," said he, "I have it in every hole and corner of me."

For loss of Cud, Horn Ail, Red water in Cows; loss of appetite, rook, or murrain, in sheep; thick wind, broken wind, and roaring, and for all obstructions of the Kidneys in horses, use "Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders."

INSTALLATION.

MILTON LOWER MILLS, OCT. 23.

Rev. H. M. Tenney, a graduate of Amherst and Andover, was installed over the Village Church, at Milton Lower Mills, on Wednesday last.

The examination of the morning was conducted by the Moderator, and subsequently, participated in quite extensively by the Council—and was exceedingly well sustained; the ready and discriminating answers bearing evidence to a clear mind and thorough scholarship.

The Council and friends were furnished with a bountiful dinner by the hospitality of Mr. Pierce.

A large and intelligent congregation assembled at 2 o'clock for the Installation services. The main feature of the occasion was Professor Parks famous sermon upon the conscience. He held his hearers spell-bound for nearly an hour, and sat down, leaving them to regret that want of time had prevented him from giving them more than a fragment of that masterly discourse.

The charge to the Pastor was appropriately given, by Rev. J. H. Means, of Dorchester, who has, from the beginning, evinced an almost fraternal interest in and regard for Mr. Tenney.

The Address to the People was by Rev. P. P. Mangor,—a former pastor; and the Fellowship of the Churches by Rev. W. H. Savage, a former classmate of Mr. Tenney's.

The Opening Prayer, which all seemed to regard as singularly appropriate and impressive, was by Dr. Alden, of South Boston.

The new Pastor having been supplying the pulpit for nearly a year, is known to the people and they to him. He therefore enters upon his work under the most favorable circumstances and in the midst of a united people, who are daily becoming more and more attached to the qualities of his mind and heart.

"The Reason," 60 cents.
Many of the best Educators have recommended this last named book.—Rev. President Hopkins of Williams College says, "The Reason" is adapted to do great good, especially on a subject too much neglected." Wm.
D. Allen, M. D., LL.D., late president of Harvard College, says, "By the publication of this Book you have done a valuable service to the young, and deserve the thanks of the public."
Rev. Dr. Edgely says, "It should be read by all our young men."

THE SURE REFUGE.

"Trust in Him at all times."—PSALM lxxi, 5.
Oh! I know the hand that is guiding me
Through the shadow to the light;
And I know that all befitting me
Is meted out aright.
I know that the thorny path I tread
Is ruled with a golden line;
And I know that the darker life's tangled thread,
The brighter the rich design.

When faint and fails each wilderness hope,
And the lamp of faith burns dim,
Oh! I know where to find the honey-drop
On the bitter chalice brim;
For I see, though veiled from my mortal sight,
God's plan is all complete;
Though the darkness at present be not light,
And the bitter be not sweet.

I can wait till the day-spring shall overflow
The night of pain and care;
For I know there's a blessing for every woe,
A promise for every prayer.
Yes, I feel that the hand which is holding me
Will ever hold me fast;
And the strength of the arms that are folding me
Will keep me to the last.

Interesting Selections.

FILLET OF BEEF. Take a sirloin or second cut of the rib; take out the bones with a sharp knife; skewer it round in good shape; lay the bones into a large saucepan, with two onions, one carrot, a dozen cloves; then the meat, with beef stock or water enough just to cover it; let it cook slowly two hours; dish the meat; skim off all the fat from the gravy;
add some flour mixed with a little water,
two spoonfuls of walnut ketchup; give it one boil; turn the little gravy over the meat, and serve the rest in a gravy-tureen.

RYE FLAPPERS. A pint of corn meal and a teaspoon of salt in a large bowl.
Pour over boiling water from the kettle, and stir hard until it is smooth. Thin it with milk, and add gradually a pint of rye meal, beating it well. The batter should be as thin as it is possible to turn the cakes—put on the griddle by the tablespoonful. These are as light, rich and delicate as if made with eggs, and are much more wholesome and economical.

A clergyman was sent for the other day. The man was rather deaf to whom he was called. "What induced you to send for me?" he asked.
"What induced?" "To send for me?"
"What does he say?" said the man to his wife. "He says, what the deuce did you send for him for?"

The happiest life on earth, Luther used to say, is with a pious, good wife, in peace and quiet contented with a little,
and giving God thanks.

A friend writes to us about two brave little boys. A wicked boy tried to make them steal some apples from an orchard. He called them cowards because they would not do it. But they were too brave and manly to do wrong for fear of being called cowards. We like to hear of such courageous ones. They will make noble men.

To speak ill upon knowledge shows a want of charity. To speak ill upon suspicion, shows a want of honesty. To know evil of others, and not speak it, is sometimes discretion. To speak evil of others, and not know it, is always dishonesty.
He may be evil himself who speaks good of others upon knowledge; but he can never be good himself who speaks evil of others upon suspicion.—Warwick.

"GREAT REDUCTION IN TEAS." Exactly; and that's the mischief of it.
We don't want the teas reduced; they're poor enough already. If there is to be any reduction, let it be in the prices.

It is said that Julius Cæsar, when angry, would never speak a word before first having counted one hundred.

A corpulent city alderman said a few days ago, whilst riding in an omnibus, seated between two ladies, that he felt like a stave in a hoghead, surrounded by hoops.

A flirt is the dipper of the public pump, which all may drink at, but none carry away. But the dipper grows old at last, and nobody wants to carry it away.

Life is divided into three terms:
that which was, which is, and which is to be. Let us learn from the past to profit by the present, and from the present to live better for the future.

A worthy deacon, in a town somewhere in North America, gave notice at a prayer meeting of all the animals, she said Adam's naming all the animals, she said she didn't think he deserved any credit for naming the hog—anybody would know what to call him.

Be pure, but not stern; have moral excellences, but don't bristle with them.

Miscellany.

BORROWING TROUBLE.

It was a beautiful twilight; the western sky full of clouds, rosy and golden, piled and arched, with just the faintest sombre tinge crowning the whole, enhancing the beauty of the radiant hues.
The full moon glimmered through the eastern trees, and sent long waves and curves, tying up huge bouquets of pansies and lilies, and spreading out fan-like where the soft grass waved, and tossed, and bent down like a tiling of life, replete with joy at the flooding baptism.
All this was in sight of Mrs. Edwards' open window, where she sat rocking backward and forward, with one hand upon her baby's crib, swaying it to the same motion, yet unheeding it, or aught except her own gloomy forebodings. For the first time in her married life her husband had been absent from home a week. It had been a trial from the first to have him go; and only his cheerful words, and the promise of daily letters, had won her consent; and now day after day had dragged on, and she had received not one line.
Her imagination was very strong, and ruled her day and night; and the harrowing picture of seeing him sink helplessly before the buffeting waves, or lying stricken with fever among strangers, too delicious to give a glew to his home and friends

MILITARY AND CIVIC BALL. Don't forget the entertainment announced by the "Roger's Light Guards," to come off at the Town Hall, on Thursday evening next. Every thing is being done for a good time. The Committee of Arrangements—among whom we notice our fellow-townsmen, Lieut. D. F. French—are persevering in their endeavors, to make this opening ball of the season a grand affair.

HIGH SCHOOL. We desire to call the attention of all graduates and former members of the High School to the notice in our paper of to day. All remember the pleasant meeting of last year, and we learn that nothing will be left undone to render this a greater success. The executive committee will please take notice of this meeting.

Two colored men were caught in Baltimore Tuesday night while in the act of robbing a grave. They were dragging up the coffin when arrested.

BLAZE OF GLORY.

On Thursday evening there was a grand torchlight procession and general illumination in this town. The "Tanners' Clubs of this place and of Braintree, accompanied by the Quincy Brass Band and other music, marched through the following principal streets, according to previous announcement, as follows.

Hancock to Bridge Street, through Bridge, Adams and Hancock to Washington, and return to Union through Union, Edwards, and Washington to Elm; through Elm, School and Franklin to Penn's Hill, and return to Water; through Water, Pleasant, Quincy, and Marsh to School; through School, Hancock, Sea, Canal, Court, to Coddington; thence through Coddington to the town Hall. A route upward of seven miles long.

The weather in the evening was inviting, but the rain during the day made the streets awfully muddy, started at eight o'clock and was three hours passing over the route. The following are the names of the persons whose residences were so illuminated. The illuminations were so general, that possibly some names may have been omitted.

For the Patriot.

Dr. Dubois European Cataract Remedy is recommended by many of our prominent citizens as being infallible in curing Cataract. Sold by Veazie.

In a recent case in England a man was under trial for selling rotten fruit and maggoty melons. He defended himself by saying that the practice was universal—that bad fruit was selected by the confectioners to extract the flavoring. He said that all the fruit used by them was more or less maggoty, and that this did not at all detract from its value for manufacturing purposes.

Rev. Mr. Bisbee, Wm. H. Follett,*
Horace W. Wilson,* W. Abercrombie,
E. A. Taber, Wm. S. Morton,

The residences of those marked with asterisk (*) were finely illuminated, either with Chinese lanterns or other extra display. The residence of the Chief Marshal, Washington M. French, Esq., on Washington street, was very brilliant; in the hall near the front door resided the "Goddess of Liberty." The residences of Messrs. Wilson & Taber on Coddington street were very handsome, also Mr. J. O. Jones, on the same street. Also, that of Mr. James Baxter, Jr. on Adams street. The display of fireworks by Messrs. H. B. Brown, J. S. Holbrook, E. B. Pratt, S. Williams, H. F. Barker and others were unusually good.

The procession arrived at the hall about eleven o'clock, where a bountiful collation was in waiting for them. After the inner wants were supplied, H. Farnam Smith, Esq., was called to preside over the meeting. Mr. Smith made a short introductory speech in a pleasing manner and called for a few remarks from the defeated candidate, our distinguished townsman, John Q. Adams, Esq. Mr. Adams made a very humorous and pleasant speech which called forth numerous applause. Col. Chas. F. Adams, Jr., was next called for by the Chairman. He, in a neat speech spoke highly of Gen. Grant, and of what he had seen himself while in the army, &c., which was received with much favor. Charles Marsh, Esq., Senator elect for this district was the next speaker, and after a few words, was followed by Henry Barker, Esq., the Representative elect for this town, who was also very brief. It being late between twelve and one o'clock—only one more speaker was introduced, Mr. C. A. Foster, who spoke very highly of the manner in which Mr. Adams had conducted the campaign, although he could not agree with many of the political sentiments he had offered in his trip South or in his speech at Albany, N. Y. This finished the night's entertainment.

NARROW ESCAPE. A few days since, Francis Locke of Gloucester—formerly of this town—while at work rebuilding Fiske's wharf in Boston, was standing upon a section of wall superintending the placing of a stone weighing a ton and a half, which was being lowered, when the wall tipped and fell. To save himself he caught hold of the large stone, but it slipped out of the chain, and fell into the water, carrying him beneath it. Captain Locke, even in this awful situation, lying six feet under water with this stone upon his head, did not lose his presence of mind, but exerted himself to the full extent of his powers, and aided by the buoyancy of the water, was fortunate enough to throw himself from beneath the heavy weight and come to the surface, where he was immediately rescued and cared for.

CHOWDER. Mr. Joseph T. French will make one of his delicious chowders to-morrow. Any family desiring a treat for supper can be supplied.

General McClellan is to have a salary of ten thousand dollars a year from the executors of the will of the late Edwin A. Stevens, for superintending the completion of the famous Stevens's battery at Hoboken.

There are more than a thousand stands in Paris for the sale of roasted chestnuts. The nuts come from Northern Italy, and the vendors from Savoy. The receipts average about twenty dollars a month for each stand.

At Kingston, N. H. after the receipt of the news of the Pennsylvania election, an unfriendly democrat caused all his roosters to be killed, as he felt he should be greatly annoyed by their continual crowing over the result.

The season for coughs and colds is rapidly approaching, and every one should be prepared to check the first symptoms, as a cough contracted between now and Christmas frequently lasts all winter. There is no better remedy than "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment." For all diseases of the throat and lungs, it should be used internally and externally.

Lung fever, common cold, catarrhal fever, and nasal discharge of a brownish color in horses, may be checked at once by a liberal use of "Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders."

CARRIAGE COLLISION. As Mr. Thompson Baxter of Quincy was driving down Washington street, Friday evening, and when near the corner of School street, his buggy came in collision with an omnibus, breaking the wheel of his carriage so badly that he could not go home. Mr. Baxter absolves the driver of the omnibus from blame, as he was on the wrong side of the street.—Boston Herald.

THE NEW ATLANTIC CABLE. The London papers report that the manufacture of the new Atlantic telegraph, which is to be submerged between Brest and New York, is making satisfactory progress. The cable is almost identical in construction with those which were completed in 1866, the only difference being that the diameter of the conducting copper core, is slightly greater, and the outside wire are of homogeneous Bessemer steel, galvanized, having a breaking strain of about one thousand pounds, while the wires outside the existing Atlantic lines have a breaking strain of only about eight hundred pounds.

We call the attention of our readers to the notice of the Adams Literary Association in our columns. This is a most excellent institution and deserves the support of our townspeople. Many interesting debates will be had upon interesting subjects this winter.

QUINCY CHARITABLE SOCIETY. The annual meeting of the Society, was held Monday evening, Nov. 2d, when the following persons were elected officers for the ensuing year.

President: Rev. J. D. Wells.
Vice-President: Benjamin Curtis.
Secretary: Miss Sophia A. Marsh.
Treasurer: Mrs. Nathan Brickett.
Directors: Mr. Elbridge Clapp, Mr. George L. Gill, Mrs. Benjamin Curtis, Mrs. Eliza Hersey, Mrs. Edmund B. Taylor, Miss Ann Curtis, Miss Susanna B. Marsh, Miss Ellen F. Nightingale.

The Treasurer's report was read and accepted. Donations from Lemuel Brackett, Esq. $50, from Henry H. Faxon, Esq. $50. Amount of receipts from members $82.29. Disbursements past year, $256.60. Number of families assisted the past year, 22.

A PROHIBITORY LEGISLATURE. It is said estimates based upon the returns of names of State Representatives and Senators elect, made by the State Alliance show that there are thirty prohibition Senators, and that it is quite sure that two-thirds of the members of the House are on the same side.

NARROW ESCAPE. On Thursday of last week, the pupils in the three schools kept in the first district at North Weymouth had a very narrow escape from death, in consequence of the furnace getting out of order, which caused the gas to pass into all the rooms. Many of the children were taken with vomiting, the teachers began to grow sick, but not realizing fully the cause of the sickness, continued the school until noon, when the schools were let out. Some of the children, as soon as they came out to the air, fell to the ground, and were not able to go home alone. Three in one family were confined to their beds the rest of the day; some were quite sick for two days. The Committee should be very particular in looking after all such defects, and teachers, whenever they find their school rooms are being filled with gas, as in this instance, should dismiss their schools at once.—Weymouth Gazette.

A GRAND TIME. The first of the Social gatherings of the season by the Hook and Ladder Company, took place on Tuesday evening last. The Selectmen, Engineers, Representative elect, and other town officers were invited, and most of them were present and participated in the festivities of the evening. This Company stock stands very high in the market; there are many who would be pleased to become members, but owing to the limited number allowed, many are standing at the door knocking. The popularity of this Company no doubt, is owing in a great measure to their worthy Captain and other excellent officers.

Long may it continue in its present prosperity.

FARMING IN VERMONT. A citizen of Woodstock, (Vt.) bought a farm last year for $20,000, and has since sold it for $25,000, and raised this year two thousand bushels of potatoes—about sixteen hundred of which were merchantable at fifty cents per bushel. He also secured fifty tons of hay and wintered seventy-eight sheep, which also turned out well. He sold one hundred and ten dollars' worth of wool, besides what he reserved for his own use, sold one hundred dollars' worth of lambs and kept fifteen for the flock.

Teas! Teas!
From 25 to 30 cents per pound saved.
Our $1.00 Teas are very choice, and customers will find them as good, or better, than any 125 cent Teas sold in town. Try them.

WE ARE BOUND TO SELL TEAS LESS THAN ANY OTHER HOUSE.

Poetry.

GRANT, OUR CHIEFTAIN.

Tune—Hail to the Chief.

Hail to the Chief, who triumph'd in battle,
Bravely contending 'gainst slavery's tools;
Hail to his virtues who fed the poor chafel,
And taught the free'd bondman in Liberty's schools.

Widely his praise shall ring,
Forth his scar'd banner bring,
Wave it aloft o'er the homes of the free,
Wave it the noble leave,
Ever in triumph wave,
Shield of protection by land and by sea.

Let the loud cannon our Triumph proclaiming,
"Hail to our Chief, who triumph'd in battle,
Bravely contending 'gainst slavery's tools;
Hail to his virtues who fed the poor chafel,
And taught the free'd bondman in Liberty's schools.

Land of the favor'd to Freedom devoted,
Home for the Exiles from regions afar,
Land for brave men and true women well noted,
Glorious in peace and triumph in war.
Land of the great and wise,
Where merit wins the prize,
Safety and Justice awarded to all,
Still may your virtues shine,
Aided by light divine,
Till the last trumpet shall sound the last call.

F. M. ADELINGTON, Weymouth.

Farmers' Department.

GOOD VINEGAR FROM ROTTEN APPLES.

The idea prevails among many farmers that rotten apples are worthless, and hence suffered to go to waste. This is a mistake. If they are not dried up they are just as valuable for vinegar as sound ones. To test this, two years ago, after gathering my marketable apples and all that would possibly answer for cider, before they were frozen, I went through the orchard and picked up a large load of rotten apples—there was not among them a bushel that had anything sound upon them, and many of them had been rotten for weeks. These were made up as usual. The juice at first was quite bitter and unpleasant. It was put into the cellar, where it remained until spring, then removed to an out-house and left until fall, at which time the bitterness had all disappeared, and it was a pure, pleasant-tasted vinegar. We have used it in the family for a year past, and never had better. I have sold it to my neighbors, and they all pronounce it first rate.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

MULCHING STRAWBERRIES.

It is good management to mulch strawberry plants in the fall, as a winter protection, in all places where the ground is not sure to be covered with snow all winter. Poor hay or straw should be used. Salt hay is much used for this purpose near the ocean. In no case should plants be covered with a half rotted stable manure, as the plants will be smothered with such a mulch, unless it be mostly straw, or hay, and put on so thin as to allow the air to circulate under it. In the spring, after the plants have commenced to grow, a heavy mulch of half rotted manure, composed mostly of straw, is excellent to fertilize the plants, to keep the ground moist, to prevent weeds from growing, and to allow the fruit to ripen without being injured by dirt.

Cabbages are preserved very simply; they are cut out as late as they can be pulled up by the roots; in this section, about the end of November; they are then pulled up and turned upside down—the roots up, the heads packed close together, in beds six feet wide, with six feet alleys between, care being taken to have the ground levelled where the cabbages are placed, so that they pack nicely. They are left in this way for two or three weeks, or as long as the ground can be dug between the alleys, the soil from which is thrown in on the beds of cabbage, so that when furnished, they have a covering of four or six inches of soil. This is not enough to cover the root, however, which is left partly exposed, but this is in no way injurious.—Henderson.

Early rising does not agree with some farmers. We heard one remark that it would be jolly not to get up till the next day.

Anecdotes.

An Irish girl called at the post-office the other day, and inquired for her letter. After asking the name, the clerk proceeded to look for a letter, but not being successful in finding it, asked if the name was on the list of returned letters.

"No, in faith," answered she; "but I know it's here, for I put it in more than a week ago, and now I want to take it out to add something to it, sure."

"I'll bet a sheep," said old Meredith to his other half "that our boy Otho is going crazy. For he is grinning at the plough, and he is grinning to himself wherever he goes."

"Poh," replied the old woman, "don't you know he got a love letter this morning?"

Two young ladies holding converse over the virtues of a new dress. "And does it fit well?" asked one. "Fit? Yes; as if I'd been melted and poured in!"

A youth, who was being reprimanded for playing marbles on Sunday, was asked, "Do you know where those little boys go who play marbles on Sunday?" He had not been sufficiently taught in regard to a future state, and replied, quite innocently,

"Oh, yes. Some on 'em goes to the Common, and some on 'em goes down to the river."

ALLEN'S LUNG BALM,

THE REMEDY FOR CURING.

Consumption, Asthma, Croup, Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppressions of the Chest or Lungs, Difficult Breathing, and all diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERNATIVE, SOLUTIVE, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC, AND DIURETIC, rendering it one of the most valuable remedies known, for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the inflamed parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; and restores the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. It is warranted to give entire satisfaction even in the most confirmed cases of consumption, croup, or asthma in any form. It is perfectly HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. Sold by all druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

CATHOLIC FAIR. We would call attention to the advertisement in another column of the Quincy Catholic Fair, to be held at the Town Hall on Monday evening next, Nov. 16th.

The articles presented for lottery, comprise a large clock stove, ton of coal, barrel of flour, chamber set, china dinner and tea sets, a gold watch, meerschaum pipes, silver tea service, marble top tables, mirrors, bronze ornaments, china and glass vases, engravings, two beautiful oil paintings of the Saviour and Madonna, (copies from Raphael), &c., &c., together with some beautiful specimens of ladies' workmanship.

We would recommend that all visit the Fair during its progress, where they will be convinced that the articles exhibited have been judiciously and tastefully selected.

NEW DEPOTS. Yes, we are to have two depots, in the centre of our village, instead of one as was first announced. The one on the east side of the track, is to be the main depot; the other on the west side, although of a good size and good accommodations, is for those waiting for approaching trains. The outside work on the main depot is nearly completed, and it begins to look quite pretty. The other is progressing very satisfactorily considering the wet weather we have experienced this fall.

Those persons visiting the city in pursuit of things well do well to call at Bennett & Co's. one price clothing House, Nos. 14 and 15 Dock Square, Boston. This is an old and very reliable place to trade, and we always take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to it.

Surveys have been made for a wharf in that part of Weymouth known as Old Spain, with a view to opening steamboat connections between that place and Boston. The Gazette suggests that a slight additional expense in the way of widening a draw bridge, and removing a rock in the channel, would admit of the passage of the boat to the Landing.

Hon. Willis Smith, who represented the town of Holden in 1837, is the senior member elect of the Massachusetts Legislature.

THE FAIR. At the Catholic Fair in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening next, at 7 1/2 o'clock, Dr. Gaimette will give an exhibition of Landscapes, Insects, &c., &c., magnified ten feet square by magnifying lights. This lecture will be one of the most entertaining and instructive of the Dr.'s well known efforts.

Charles Francis Adams, absorbed in high serenity of thought, dropped a tradesman's bill instead of a ballot into the Quincy ballot box, Tuesday. He was allowed to correct the error—they say by a republican vote, but nobody knows.—North Bridgewater Gazette.

NEW YORK, NOV. 12. Cable specials says that the Pope, through his Nuncio at Madrid, still refuses to recognize the new Spanish Government.

At a meeting of French Bishops and Cardinals at Rome, several reformatory measures were introduced, which, to the surprise of the Conservatives, were favorably received by a majority. One of these was to revise the Council of Trent decision concerning the celibacy of the Catholic clergy and declaring that they could marry, and the other was to abolish the Latin liturgy and substitute for it the language of the nation in which the service is performed. These measures will be reported to the Ecumenical Council soon to be held.

WORTHY OF EMULATION. A public spirited citizen of Exeter, N. H., proposes to be one of five to build fifteen houses, at as low a rate as possible, not the same to be rented at six per cent. net on the cost of the house, giving the tenant the privilege of buying the same, paying for it as circumstances will allow. If, from any cause, after payment in part has been made, the party finds that he is unable to pay the balance, the money already paid is to be refunded, allowing the same rate per cent. for all money paid in. Such liberality is commendable, and will do much towards building up a place.

The Skowhegan (Me.) Reporter illustrates the value of advertising by stating that a business man in that town "lost his pocket book containing valuable papers. He sought high and low, but did not find the property until he advertised when he found it at home behind a trunk."

A fellow was detected at Ipswich, the other day, in weighing a load of hay that he was using with 400 pounds of iron, which of course he meant to smuggle out of the way before the hay was delivered.

Eighteen inches of snow now covers the summit of Mount Washington. While the workmen near the terminus of the railroad were engaged in removing some tools recently, a number had their ears frost bitten.

In the Surratt case the decision of Judge Wylie, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, discharging the prisoner, was sustained by the full bench, and John H. Surratt is practically free.

The monthly statement of the public debt shows a decrease of seven millions and a half in October.

ILLUMINATION IN BRAINTREE.

On Monday evening last the citizens of Braintree gave a grand illumination and torch-light procession in honor of their victories at the late Presidential election.

An early hour the Tanners of Braintree, joined by clubs from Weymouth and Quincy, and escorted by the Bridgewater Brass Band, formed in procession, and marched through the principal streets of the town.

The illuminations along the route were grand, and in many instances gorgeous. Among the most beautiful, was the residence of Asa French, Esq., which was brilliantly lighted, and handsomely decorated with flags, streamers, and Chinese lanterns. The effect from the street was particularly striking. The residence of J. E. Holbrook was tastefully adorned with appropriate mottoes, flags, &c. A beautiful representation of the Goddess of Liberty, elicited a round of cheers from the lookers on. The exhibition of fireworks from this point was very elaborate.

The musons of Hon. Alvah Morrison and Horace Abercrombie, Esq., from their commanding position, presented a lively and brilliant appearance. The cottage of J. A. Arnold deserves mention for the tasteful arrangements and general beauty of its decorations.

Among the prominent Democrats whose residences were extensively illuminated were the Hon. Edward Avery, Edward Potter, Daniel Potter, Charles Dow, and Samuel Thorndike. It is impossible to give the names of all those who took part in the grand display; but suffice it to say, that nearly every house along the route of the procession was more or less illuminated.

It was with a good degree of pleasure we noticed the excellent good feeling existing between the two parties. Policies were united, jealousies healed, and hearty co-operation seemed to characterize the movements of all.

A beautiful collation was spread in the Town Hall, for the tired pedestrians, which was partaken of at a late hour. The arrangements throughout were excellent, and successfully carried out. We earnestly hope that every election may terminate as pleasantly.

ONE REASON FOR THE HIGH PRICE OF COAL. It is said that more coal cars are broken on the Morris and Essex railroad than are constructed by all of the builders. This is one of the causes for the present high price of coal. The roads cannot bring coal fast enough to supply the demand, and the constant destruction of coal cars on the Morris and Essex and other roads has greatly interfered with the business. The inability to keep up with the demand has also enabled the companies to increase their rates of freight. The result is unfortunate for consumers.

Congress met on Tuesday pursuant to adjournment of October 16th, and after a five minutes' session both houses adjourned to December 7th.

Hiram Lindsey of Hubbardston, (Vt.) bought last spring one eye of the No. 4 potato of Mr. Breese, for propagating, paid twenty dollars for it, planted and raised from that eye this season $715 worth, and has three potatoes left, selling eight potatoes for $400 cash to Timothy Parsons.—Boston Cultivator.

A YOUNG BIGAMIST. Alfred E. Whitehead, a young man only twenty-one years of age, has been sentenced to three years imprisonment in the State Prison. The prisoner married his first wife in Buffalo four years ago; since that time up to his arrest has married two others, and was engaged to be married to a fourth.

SHARP FINANCIAL PRACTICE OF A JEALOUS WIFE. A Meriden, (Ct.) speculator, fearing a crisis some years ago turned his property over to his wife, and she being jealous of him, (and with good cause, 'tis said,) has ever since refused to give it up. Even now, after her death, by the provision of her will he can only have the income of the property, and that only so long as he remains a widower, the property in the case of his marriage to go to one of the churches of that place.

There will be a Clam Chowder served up this afternoon, at Mr. Joseph T. French's saloon. All orders will be promptly attended to.

Farms in Arkansas sell at from three to five cents an acre. A local paper says that land is so cheap that you have to look sharp or they will smuggle an extra forty acres or so on you in making out the deed. One of the finest plantations on the Arkansas river recently sold for five cents an acre.

Never were there so many herring taken in so short a time as there has been this season in Massachusetts bay, near Scituate harbor.

Gosnell, the smallest town in the State, which usually casts seven votes, awakened up and gave eighteen for the straight republican ticket on Tuesday. Not a democratic vote was ever cast in that town.

Snow-drifts from one to four feet deep, still remain from the storm of last week, on the hill tops of Windsor and Peru in the western part of the State, and will probably await the regular storm that foretells Thanksgiving.

The Fenian Congress which meets in Philadelphia on the 29th instant, will be inaugurated by a grand procession. It is estimated that about ten thousand men will be in line, and of these fifteen hundred will be uniformed and armed.

MASSACHUSETTS has just obtained from a gentleman in Vermont, through the influence of Mr. Hawley, of the Secretary of State's office at Boston, the original papers concerning the surveys and agreement for the boundaries between Massachusetts and New York and Connecticut. They are of great value for preservation in the State archives.

THE LINCOLN MONUMENT. The design of Mr. Larkin G. Meade for the Lincoln Monument at Springfield, Illinois, having been accepted by the managers, will be sent West this week. Mr. Meade will have charge of the construction of the Monument, which will occupy several years. The estimated cost will be $200,000 of which $135,000 have been collected. The site is seventy feet high, and the total height one hundred feet. The obelisk is to be surmounted by an eagle and globe. At the base a pedestal will support a colossal statue of Lincoln in the act of signing the Emancipation Proclamation. On a square plane below there will be four bronze groups, representing infantry, cavalry, artillery and marines. Encircling the pedestal are to be shields, bearing the names of the States linked together. Underneath the base there will be a vault, and on the opposite side a memorial hall, in which will be treasured valuable records connected with the administration of Lincoln. The design is simple, and yet it possesses an imposing grandeur that delights the spectator. The design will soon be returned to this city, when it will be placed on exhibition.—New York Evening Post.

WESTERN PORK TRADE. The Cincinnati Price Current of Wednesday says: "The pork season has commenced, and many packers have been cutting hogs, contracted for some time back, but the receipts have not been large enough to furnish all the houses to a sufficient extent to cut. For the past week the total receipts do not exceed 7000 head. The weather during the first three days of the week was too warm to cure with safety, but since Saturday the temperature has been low enough and the demand, for hogs has been sharp at about nine and a half to nine and three-quarter dollars net."

Persons wishing to economize in clothing their children, will do well to try metal-tipped shoes. Children invariably wear out their shoes at the toe first. Metal tips never wear out at the toe, and a pair of tipped shoes at an additional cost of a few cents, will more than outwear three pairs of the same quality without them.—Journal.

REMARKABLE INSTANCE OF PETRIFICATION. About six years ago, Mr. Amos Broughton, died in Wayne county, New York State and was buried there. After his death his widow and children moved to Baskirk's Bridge, Vt., where they now reside. A few days ago the family of the deceased resolved to bring the remains of the father from Wayne county and have them deposited in a cemetery near their present residence. In furtherance of this purpose the grave was opened and the coffin exposed, but all ordinary efforts to lift it from its position proved ineffectual. The coffin lid was therefore removed, when it was found that the body was in the most perfect state of petrification. It was covered with a dry mould, which, when removed, revealed a surface almost as white and pure as marble. The body showed not the least particle of decay. Every feature and lineament was perfectly preserved, and when stood upright it presented the appearance of a finely chiseled statue. When Mr. Broughton died he weighed about two hundred pounds, while the remains had increased in weight by petrification to eight hundred pounds.

ECONOMY OF KEROSENE. By a recent experiment, it was ascertained that one pint of coal oil, costing six cents, fed one lamp during six evenings, or for the space of twenty-eight hours averaging four hours and forty minutes each evening; two lamps of lard oil having been required for the same service. The cost of the lard oil was four cents per evening; that of the coal oil one cent. The advantage of coal oil over sperm oil is about the same.

A German paper in New York, on Monday morning last, contained an advertisement announcing that 50 men were wanted at 198 Broadway. At 8 o'clock, when the store was opened, there were not less than 500 men gathered about the door, and six policemen, club in hand, were wholly unequal to the task of keeping back the crowd, which increased every moment, until at 9 o'clock the advertiser announced that the quota was filled.

A SINGING CHICKEN. A lady in Bangor, has among her chickens one which sings a little song resembling the notes of a young canary. It sings mostly at night after going to roost, but sometimes during the day.

The island of Jersey is the great garden of England for early potatoes, and the crop is so profitable that an acre of early potatoes is worth eight hundred dollars.

THE LITTLE CORPORAL. This is a well conducted magazine for boys and girls, and it claims to have a larger circulation than any other juvenile magazine in the world. All new subscribers for 1869, whose names and money are sent in before the end of this month, will receive the November and December numbers free. Terms $1 a year. Address Alfred L. Sewall, Chicago.

Mrs. Polly Kent, aged eighty-one years, recently walked from her residence in Sturbridge to North Spencer, a distance of fifteen miles, in five hours and a half.

THE LEGISLATURE in 1869. Of the forty members of the Senate of 1868 thirty-nine are re-elected, and of the two hundred and forty members of the House of Representatives thirty-one are re-elected; Republicans thirty-one; Democrats six.—There are but two representative districts, represented by more than one member, that send back the same delegation, and these are Ward Six, of Boston, which returns Messrs. Jewell, Child and Smith, and the Seventh Bristol District, which re-elects Messrs. Hart, Osborn and Smith of Fall River. It is impossible as yet to designate the senior member of the House, but Hon. Francis W. Bird served in 1846, twenty-two years ago, and he probably enjoys that honor, but among so many new members there may be one or more who did the State some service prior to Mr. Bird. In the Senate Hon. Gershom B. Weston will be the senior Senator, having been a member of this branch in 1831. All but four members of the Senate have had legislative experience in one of the two branches of the Legislature, while two-thirds of the members of the House will appear for the first time as legislators.—Boston Jour.

IDENTIFYING BURNED BANK BILLS. A novel and interesting work is now going on in one of the rooms of the Treasury Department in Washington. It will be remembered that nearly two years ago the Adams Express Company lost a safe containing $204,000, by the burning of the steamer Jacob Carter on the Mississippi River. The wreckers removed the safe some months since, and received one-third of the par value of its contents for their services. The Express Company then forwarded it to the Treasury Department, and General Spinner arranged to have the contents examined, identified, and arranged for redemption, the Express Company paying all expenses. To this end three of the most accomplished and expert lady clerks of the Department have been detailed for the examination. It is a work requiring rare skill and wonderful patience. The contents were composed of legal tenders, fractional currency, and national bank notes, all more or less charred or burned, some to a perfect char, yet these ladies identify notes and pieces of notes which are devoid of any trace of their original imprint, save the indentation left upon the surface of the paper by the press, brought again into relief by the action of fire and water. The work of examination has been in progress about one month, and thirty thousand dollars have been identified. It will take nearly six months to complete it. The Government will redeem all the legal tenders and fractional currency, and the national banks all their notes that can be identified.

The true secret of advertising successfully, is to tell the story as matters really exist, so that those induced thereby to call, will be satisfied that they have not been deceived. On the strength of this preface, we would recommend our numerous readers, (and we speak from personal experience,) when in want of nice clothing, made to order, or ready made, to patronize Messrs. Jackman & Merrill, 12 and 13 Dock Square, corner of Elm Street, Boston; for we have every reason to believe they will obtain full satisfaction in goods and prices.

Summary Intelligence. The Astor House in New York pays $22,000 per year for butter, $8,000 for flour, $150,000 for meat, $12,000 for eggs, $14,000 for milk and cream, $500 for friction matches, $14,000 for gas and $14,000 for coal.

The largest profit realized by any newspaper in California is said to be only $18,000, and there are only four in the State that approach this figure.

A spinning wheel made in the year 1768, and in good preservation, was recently sold in Lancaster, Pa., for ten cents, we should think that a poor compliment to the old family friend.

Indiana farmers are selling their corn in the field at fifty cents a bushel, to be fed to hogs, which sell for eight cents a pound.

A man in Scotland who had been ordered leeches for an injury, took them boiled with his gruel.

Ole Bull has been for some time superintending the construction of a piano on an entirely new principle, by which he hopes to obtain greater sonority of sound without loss of quality. A select company of professional men examined the work last week and the opinions expressed were favorable.

A Worcester Yankee has raised four hundred pounds of squashes from four seeds.

Maine is almost the only New England State in which railroads are being constructed to any considerable extent. There are now under contract and in progress 313 miles of new line in Maine, estimated to cost $9,276,000.

A watch is on exhibition at Waterbury, (Conn.) that dates back to the year 1658. It is therefore one of the oldest watches ever made, and may readily be supposed to be of rude execution, having no pendulum spring and no minute hand, only an hour hand, and a catgut cord in place of a chain.

A case of chronic rheumatism of unusual severity, cured by Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, is noticed by one of our exchange. A large bubble came out upon the breast of the sufferer, and appeared like part of his breast bone.

The sweetest word in our language is health. At the first indication of disease, use well known and approved remedies. For dyspepsia or indigestion, use "Parson's Purgative Pills." For coughs, colds or lame stomach, use Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

The modus operandi of electing a President after the Presidential electors have been chosen, is as follows:

"The Constitution provides that the electors, chosen in such manner as the Legislature of each State may prescribe, shall meet in their respective States and vote by ballot for President and Vice President. At the meetings, known as 'Electoral Colleges,' the electors are required to make lists of the persons they vote for, and the number of votes cast for each, which lists they are required to sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the President of the U. S. Senate at the seat of Government. That officer is required to open these certificates in the presence of the Senate and the House of Representatives, and the votes are then to be counted, and the person having the greatest number of electoral votes for President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, is declared to be the President; and so of the Vice President.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY. We have received from the publisher, B. B. Russell, 55 Cornhill, Boston, a beautiful set engraving representing a family festival on that most joyous occasion, the birthday of our little Pat. It is neatly printed on fine paper, 18 by 24 inches, and is sold at $1.50 per copy. Agents are wanted to sell this handsome picture.

RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS.

Just wealth enough to keep away
Of want the direful scene;
Just health enough to gild the day,
And make life's course serene;
Virtue enough to set that part
Which is devoid of sin;
Courage enough to ask the heart,
"Art thou secure within?"

FALL PLOUGHING.

Without elaborating the many strong points in favor of fall ploughing, a few of the more prominent benefits may be briefly stated as follows:

1. August and September is a good time to turn over bound old sod land, and manure and re-seed it at once to grass, obtaining a crop of hay the following year.

2. October and November is an excellent time to break up sod land for planting the following spring.

3. The weather is then cool and bracing, and the team strong and hearty for their work; while the weather in spring is more relaxing and the team less able; and spring work being always hurrying, it saves time to despatch as much of the ploughing as possible during the previous autumn.

4. Sod land broken up late in autumn, will be quite free from roots of grass the following spring, the roots of the late overwintered being so generally killed by the immediately succeeding winter that not much grass will readily start in spring.

5. The frosts of the winter disintegrate the ploughed land, so that it readily crumbles in fine particles in spring, and a deep, mellow seed bed is easily made. The chemical changes and modifications resulting from atmospheric action during the winter, develop latent fertility in the up-turned furrows, which, with the mellowing influences, materially increase the crops.

6. Most kinds of insects are either wholly destroyed or their depredations materially checked by the late fall ploughing.

7. Corn stubble land may be ploughed late in the fall, and thus be all ready for very early sowing in the spring, thereby going far to insure a good crop of grass; the roots of the new seeding hold well, being well established before the droughts of the summer come on.

8. Most land needs deeper ploughing than has generally been practised. Where the subsoil is fine grained, unctuous and close, or where there is a hard pan of good quality, deep ploughing may be at once resorted to, with decided advantage. Where the subsoil is poorer, the ploughing may still be advantageously deepened by degrees, say an inch at each new breaking up. But in by far a majority of cases, deep ploughing may be practised at once—indeed, it may be the rule with safety, while shallow ploughing may be the exception. Plough say nine, ten, eleven, or twelve inches in November. The frosts and atmospheric influences of winter will mellow the soil; the inorganic elements, and all latent fertility, will be made more active for benefitting the crops. In spring, spread the manure and plough it in, or otherwise work it in or mingle it with the soil, to the depth of four inches, or a little more or less, and you have the very best attainable condition for realizing good crops. Deeper ploughing may thus be practised than would at all times be safe, or expedient, if the ploughing is delayed till spring—Mine Farmer.

Poetry.

"SOMEBODY."

There's a meddlesome "Somebody" going about,
And playing his pranks, but we can't find him out;
He's up stairs and down stairs from morning till night,
And always in mischief, but never in sight.

The rogues I have read of in song or in tale,
Are caught at the end, and conducted to jail;
But "Somebody's" tracks are all covered so well,
He never has seen the inside of a cell.

Our young folks at home, at all seasons and times,
Are rehearsing the roll of "Somebody's" crimes;
Or, fast as their feet and their tongues can well run,
Come to tell the last deed the sly scamp has done.

"Somebody" has taken my knife, "one will say;
"Somebody" has carried my pencil away;
"Somebody" has gone and thrown down all the blocks;
"Somebody" ate up all the cakes in the box."

It is "Somebody" breaks all the pitchers and
And hides the boys' sleds, and runs off with their skates,
And turns on the water, and tumbles the beds,
And steals all the pins, and melts all the dolls' heads.

One night a dull sound like the thud of a head Announced that one youngster was out of his bed;
And he said half asleep, when asked what it meant,
"Somebody" is pushing me out of the tent!"

Now, if these high crimes of "Somebody" don't coast,
We must summon in the detective police;
And they in their wisdom, at once will make known,
The culprit belongs to no house but our own.

Then should it turn out, after all, to be true,
That our young folks themselves are "Somebody" too,
How queer it would look if we saw them all go,
Marched off to the station-house, six in a row!

How WORDS ORIGINATE. It is curious to study the origin of words and see how new ones are coined from year to year and introduced into our language.
A new word is especially started in life, if it be only appropriate. When the first scholar ever built on the coast of Massachusetts slid from her stocks and floated gracefully upon the water, the chance exclamation of an admiring bystander, "O, how she swims!" drew from her contriver and builder the answer, "A swimmer let her be, then," and made a new English word.

ANTS. There is a kind of ant in Texas remarkable not only for keeping other ants in slavery, and employing them in public works for the benefit of the community at large, but also for sowing around their settlement the seeds of a small gra-minaceous plant, which they afterwards reap and store away in granaries constructed for the purpose.

Outward politeness cannot be learned in set forms at school, for, at the best, it will be hollow and deceptive; genuine politeness, like every thing else genuine, comes from the heart.

Tools rust out from neglect; wear out from use. Neglect is criminal; use is beneficial. So with man's capabilities; better wear out than rust out.

One of our artists has recently painted a picture of patience—a shopkeeper waiting upon ladies who don't know exactly what they want, but expect to before the season is over.

Fortune knocks once, at least, at every man's door. Some men must have been out when she knocked at theirs.

God gives every bird its food, but does not throw it into the nest.

Advertising for a wife, says a co-temporary, is just as absurd as it would be to get measured for an umbrella.

A man who is thoroughly in earnest, is honest, and having a moderate share of talent, can hardly fail of success.

When Jones was at college he was a most excellent fellow, and only had one enemy—soap. He was called Dirty Jones. One day the wag, Brown, went into his rooms, and remonstrating with him on the untidy, slovenly, and dirty state of everything, said, "Upon my word, Dirty, it's too bad, the only clean thing in your room is your towel!"

With a true wife the husband's faults should be secret. A woman forgives when she condescends to that refuge of weakness, a female confidant. A wife's bosom should be the tomb of her husband's failings, and his character far more valuable in her estimation, than life.

"Mrs Jenkins," said a little neighbor girl to that lady, "mother says you'll ollege her with a stick of fire-wood, fill this crust with vinegar, put a little dab of salt turkey in this pan, and not let your old turkey roost on our fence no more."

MRS. MURRAY'S LESSON.

BY REV. HORATIO ALGER, JR.

"Please, ma'am the seamstress is below, and wants to know if you can pay her,"
and Bridget handed Mrs. Murray a small piece of paper, setting forth her indebtedness to Caroline Marcy.

Mrs. Murray took the piece of paper, and glanced indolently at the amount,— three dollars and a quarter.

"No," she said, "it will not be convenient this afternoon."

Bridget carried back this answer to a pale, slender girl waiting in the hall below.

"Tell her that I need it very much," said the seamstress. Ask her if she cannot possibly let me have it."

"Mistress wouldn't like it, if I went up again," said Bridget.

There was something in the tone, perhaps that found its way to Bridget's sympathies. At any rate, she determined to brave the anger of her mistress, and went up stairs once more.

"Well, Bridget, what's wanted now?" asked Mrs. Murray, raising her eyes.

"The seamstress wants to know if you can't pay her now. She says she wants it very much, indeed."

"She seems in a great hurry," said Mrs. Murray, frowning. "Perhaps she is afraid I won't pay her at all."

"For a moment Mrs. Murray was disposed to pay, but she was going out shopping that afternoon, and thought she might need the money. Selfishness prevailed over the momentary good impulse, and she answered decidedly:

"Go back and tell her that I will pay her in a day or two. I said before that it was not convenient to pay now, and I thought it would be sufficient."

Bridget went back slowly. She was kind-hearted, and sorry to disappoint the pale girl, whose appearance contrasted so vividly with her own high color.

"It's sorry I am for ye," she said, apologetically, "I'm all out of money or I'd lend ye some myself. Come back tomorrow, and may be you'll have better luck."

"Thank you," said the poor girl sadly.
It was all she could say.

It was in deep depression that she descended the marble steps of her patroness.

"How cruel the rich are to the poor!"
she murmured. "How little they understand what harm they do by withholding the scanty pittance which is so much needed. Poor Hannah! how she will be disappointed when I come home empty-handed. I counted upon making something that would tempt her poor appetite."

It was a common case—too common, alas, in our large cities! Two sisters lived together in a small room in a crowded tenement house, depending for a livelihood upon the scanty sum which their needles could earn. It is needless to say through what train of circumstances such poverty had come upon them. Come it had, and they must bear it as they could.

They had just managed to ward off starvation, until Hannah, the elder sister, fell sick, and lost her ability to work, and then it was indeed hard. Caroline, besides being compelled to earn all the money they received, was compelled to wait upon her sister. She overworked herself, and became paler and thinner than ever. But with all this she failed to earn enough for their joint support.

First, the rent was in arrears, and the landlord, whose heart was indurated by selfishness, became pressing in his demands. With a part of the money which Mrs. Murray owed her, Caroline hoped to appease him, and in due time to wait a little longer. But the reader has seen how her application fared.

Three hours later Mr. Murray chanced to be passing through an obscure street on his return from a business engagement, when his attention was drawn to a sorrowful spectacle.

Two young girls, one pale and ghastly, were sitting on a door-step, the latter leaning against the other, seemingly unable to hold up her head. There was so much distress visible in the faces of both that he involuntarily paused and inquired:

"Are you not in distress?"

"Yes, sir," said Caroline Marcy, for it was she and her sister. "We have just been turned out of our lodging, because we could not pay our rent."

"What an inhuman wretch the landlord must be!" exclaimed Mr. Murray, indignantly.

"We were a whole month in arrears, and I had promised positively to pay him something to-day, and I should, if a lady who owed me money had not put me off," said Caroline.

"Did she understand that you were in pressing need of it?"

"Yes, sir. After the first refusal I sent the servant up to tell her I needed it very much."

"And she still refused to pay you?"

"Yes, sir. She directed me to call again in a day or two."

"How unfeeling!" exclaimed Mr.
Murray.

He was himself a man of strong feelings, and he felt thoroughly indignant at what he had heard.

"What is the name of this lady?" Is she rich?" he asked.

"O, yes, sir, she lives in an elegant house in B— street."

"In B— street! Why, that is where I live. Perhaps I know her. Let me know her name, and if she is any one with whom I am acquainted, she shall hear of it before she is a day older."

"Her name is Mrs. Murray," said Caroline Marcy, faintly.

Mr. Murray started as if he had been shot. It was the last name he expected to hear.

"Do you recollect the number of her house?" he asked, hurriedly.

"Yes, sir—it is 38."
No. 38 B— street."

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Murray's face turned white with anger. His determination was instantly formed. His wife should learn at once the result of her culpable selfishness.

"Go and get a cab," he said to a small boy who had just come up. "Do you know where to find one?"

"Yes, sir."

"Make haste, and I will pay you well."

Ten minutes later—they seemed an hour to the impatient man—a cab rattled up and stopped before the door.

"Help these ladies in," he said to the driver, "and be gentle about it."

"Where shall I drive, sir?"

"To No. 38 B— street."

"But that's where Mrs. Murray lives," said Caroline Marcy, bewildered.

"I know it," said Mr. Murray, briefly.
She asked no further questions, but supported the form of her sick sister.

In a few minutes they drew up before Mr. Murray's door.

Alighting, he assisted the sisters out and rang a loud peal at the door.

Bridget appeared, and with astonishment, recognized in Caroline Marcy the seamstress who had called in the morning.

"Where's Mrs. Murray?" he asked quickly.

"She is out, sir."

"Did she say where she was going?"

"No, sir."

"Tell the chambermaid at once to prepare a room for these young ladies, and be quick about it too."

"But, sir," said Caroline Marcy, who could hardly credit his intention, "we could not think of troubling you and Mrs.
Murray."

"We'll talk of that to-morrow," said Mr. Murray. "Meanwhile, you must follow my directions."

Bridget rolling her eyes in astonishment, carried the orders to the cham-bermaid, and the room was got ready at once.

Before Mrs. Murray returned the two sisters were comfortably installed in it, and a bright fire blazed in the open grate.

It seemed a paradise compared with the wretched room they had left, and, though their future was still uncertain, they felt grateful for this temporary respite from cold and discomfort.

Unconscious of all that had passed in her absence, Mrs. Murray reached home with a variety of purchases which she had made in her round of shopping.

As she entered the hall, she saw Bridget going up stairs with a bowl of gruel.

"Who is sick?" she asked hastily.

"Shure, ma'am, it's the seamstress sister."

"Who?" exclaimed Mrs. Murray in astonishment.

Bridget repeated her answer.

"But how came she here? Surely,
her sister had not the impudence to bring her to this house! What does it all mean?"

A door was thrown open, and Mr.
Murray confronted his wife. His face was stern, and his tone indignant, as he replied to her last words.

"If you wish to know how these unfortunate girls chance to be here, I can inform you."

"What is the matter? Why do you look at me so angrily?" asked Mrs. Murray, bewildered.

"I am endeavoring to repair the effects of your injustice," said her husband. "On what plea did you refuse to pay the small bill presented by the seamstress this morning?"

"I don't know why she need have been in such a hurry," pouted Mrs. Murray.

"Then you should be ashamed of your ignorance. You knew her gains were small, and must be barely sufficient for her support. Yet you selfishly withheld what was due, and the result was that she and her sick sister were turned out into the street, because they could not pay their rent."

"Is that true?"

"Fully so. Fortunately I chanced to learn their distress, and brought them here. You will oblige me by seeing that they receive proper attention until both are well."

Mrs. Murray submitted, though not with the best grace, heartily repenting, though I am afraid for selfish reasons, that she had not paid the bill when presented.

On her sister's recovery, Caroline Marcy was provided with a comfortable room by Mr. Murray (he paid three months' rent in advance,) and her labors were lightened by the gift of a sewing machine from the same source. So more prosperous days dawned upon her. But there are many others like her, who suffer to-day from the thoughtlessness, let me rather say wickedness, of such as Mrs. Murray.

BEAUTY.
What is beauty, after all? Each eye makes it for itself. You think Smith's lady-love, raw-boned and hard-featured.
He calls her a "magnificent woman," and wonders what you see in your little angel with her baby face and stature. So it is the world over; and yet, we would each give something to be beautiful after our own fashion. How the powders and lotions which are to bestow upon poor billions mortals skins of satin and snow, and the hair-dyes, and pomades, and cosmetics of all sorts, sell, we need not mention to prove the facts. In France, old ladies are even being made over, at the cost of half their fortunes. Heaven keep me from ever catching a glimpse of one of those enamelled, dyed and miserable old creatures after the

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1868.

TO PATRONS. We shall issue the Patriot on Wednesday afternoon next, in accordance with our usual custom of late years, on Thanksgiving week, so as to give our employees the full benefit of the occasion, and the chance to enjoy a good Thanksgiving dinner, without being necessitated to hurry back to their labors, with their desires half satisfied, and in an unthankful mood. We should be pleased, therefore, to have those of our friends having advertisements, notices, etc., to hand them in on Tuesday.

RURAL SPORTS. We learn that there is to be rustic sports on Thanksgiving forenoon, on the base ball grounds, front of the South Quincy depot, commencing at ten o'clock. "Grassed Pig," "Running in Sacks," "Blind-folded wheel-barrow race," &c., &c.

REUNION. We desire to call the attention of all graduates and former members of the High School of this town, to the notice of the reunion to be held on Wednesday evening, December 24, 1868. Many of our readers remember the pleasant meeting of last year and every thing promises for as successful a one this year. We hope all will take an active interest in the meeting, and certainly every graduate of the school will consider it his duty to join the Association, to keep alive the old memories and pleasures of their school-boy days, and meet friends long since separated.

ACCIDENT. Mr. Thomas Bates of this town, met with quite a severe accident on Saturday last. He was engaged with Messrs. Cook and Ripley in dressing hogs, at the slaughter-house of Mr. Josiah Baxter, and had stuck one of the animals, he then moved to one side of the building, still holding the sharp knife in his hand, when the hog ran against him and nearly knocked him over; he, to save himself, swung his arms behind him, and the sharp point of the knife in his right hand pierced the elbow and wrist, severing one or more muscles and cutting out a piece of flesh nearly as big as a walnut. He started for his residence, but the wound bled so freely that he became faint, and was obliged to be carried home. A surgeon was called, who dressed his arm and he is now as comfortable as could be expected.

FATAL ACCIDENT. Mr. John Keleher, a young man, only a few months from Ireland and who boarded with Matthew Kelcher, on Quincy Avenue, jumped from a passing train near the Quincy Adams depot, a few weeks since, and was so fatally injured that he died at the hospital in Boston, on Thursday last. This is a warning to all persons who attempt to jump from trains while in motion.

The Catholic Fair which was opened at the Town Hall, in this place, on Monday last, notwithstanding the unfavorable state of the weather, has been well attended, both day and evening, by an appreciating audience, who left unmistakable evidence of their interest and friendship. On Wednesday evening, Dr. Guilmette, with the wonderful powers of the Magnesium Light, afforded much amusement by revealing to a delighted audience the mysteries of the insect world. As the interest increases, and to give all an opportunity, the Managers have concluded to continue the exhibition through all of next week.

SALES OF REAL ESTATES. The following sales of real estates have recently occurred in this town:—

Estate of Mr. Jason Clapp, corner of Elm and Mechanic Street, to Francis Williams, for $2,200.

Estate of George Spear, on Washington Street, to Henry H. Faxon, for $7,800.

Estate corner of Greenleaf Street and Linden Place, owned by Henry H. Faxon, to William Sheen, for $4,000.

Estate on Washington Street, owned by Thomas J. Nightingale, to T. Frank Guy, for $5,500.

House and two lots of Land on Main Street, sold at auction to William S. Morton, and resold by him to Henry H. Faxon.

Lot of Land containing about a quarter of an acre, owned by the heirs of the late G. B. Nightingale, to Urbane Cadworth Jr., for $500.

Lot of Land on Spring Street, to Jeremiah Ford, for $95.00.

House Lot on Brackett Place, owned by B. C. Bailey, to Henry H. Faxon.

Lot of Land on Washington Street, owned by Gideon F. Denton, to Henry H. Faxon.

The following Lots of Land on Greenleaf Street sold by Dr. Ebenezer Woodward within a short time:

Henry Barker, three lots.

William Davenport, one lot.

Elbridge C. Corey, three lots.

Rev. John D. Wells, two lots.

C. W. Carter, one lot.

C. H. Whitney, three lots.

H. B. Brown, two lots.

TOWN MEETING. We would call the attention of voters to the warrant in another column, calling a meeting on Monday afternoon next, for the purpose of taking some action in regard to hiring money from the Commonwealth, at six per cent, and paying of the debts, which require an interest of 7 3/10ths per cent, thus saving several hundred dollars to the town each year.

Rev. George E. Freeman, late of Newport, Mass., has received a call from the Congregational church in Milford, (N. H.)

BOSTON CORRESPONDENCE.

BOSTON, NOV. 17, 1868.

For a long time your "Notes from the Hub to the Sub-hub" have been intermitted. Without presuming to fill the place of your old and well-known Boston Contributor, "a constant reader" is willing to stand in the gap as an occasional correspondent from this busy city.

Dull as business is, our streets are full and lively as ever. Nor do our places of amusement indicate "hard times."

The charming Siddons read to an appreciative audience last evening at the Music Hall.

Her readings from Tennyson and Whittier were hurried and lacking in sympathetic feeling, but her recitations from Shakespeare were admirable. Her great beauty and vivacious gesticulations adds to the power of her elocution. This young tragedienne has a brilliant future before her. The not less interesting thought more "manly," Anna Dickinson, speaks to-night from the same rostrum, on the social "Struggle for Life" which Woman has in this selfish age.

The "Pilgrim" at Tremont Temple is drawing forth great commendation from a discriminating public. Alonzo Chapel, W. Hart, Leutz and others of the first rank among modern painters have furnished fifty-four illustrations, with figures life-size and landscapes of surpassing loveliness, which, with music, transition scenes and a lecture, furnish a rare entertainment. Societies are chartering it for their profit or amusement, getting admission at reduced rates and then bringing trains in town loaded with old and young. It deserves a large success. The great "Sea Monster" which Professor Agassiz tried to buy, which was caught down East, and has so puzzled savans, is, with other natural curiosities shown on Hanover street, corner of Union.

Rev. Mr. Burroughs, the new Rector at the old North Church, and formerly of Quincy, is attracting hearers from all denominations. Excepting a Free Will Baptist and Sailors' Bethels, this is the only Protestant Church now in this part of Boston. The death of Rev. P. Stove occasioned a profound sensation throughout the community. We were unable to get into the church at the funeral obsequies, and so great was the crowd in the street that travel for a while was wholly impeded. He leaves a wife and child, and an innumerable company of mourning friends on sea and land.

Hon. Onslow Stearns is a gentleman well known as one of our foremost railroad men, being President of the O. C. and N. Railroad, of northern New Hampshire, and intimately connected with other business enterprises of New England. His personal urbanity and sterling worth has won him many friends, and we are glad to quote what the New Hampshire Statesman says:

"We now, with equal confidence and pleasure indicate Hon. Onslow Stearns of Concord as the best qualified man and competitor for the chair of the Board of New Hampshire as their next candidate for Governor."

We are sure that the nomination is equivalent to an election. DUO ALA.

FISHING BY TORCHLIGHT. The Lynn Reporter states that on Monday evening last fishermen tried the experiment of burning tar barrels on the "back side" of Nahant, for the purpose of luring with their reach schools of herring reported to be in the Bay. The effect was quite successful and large numbers were taken. The plan adopted was to hold the blazing torch over the water's edge, while another with a scoop net, or bucket, dipped out the fish and deposited them in safety on the shore. Some of the party thus secured as many as twenty buckets full, and others were more or less fortunate. This mode of fishing has not been tried to any great extent in this vicinity before, and was rather a matter of experiment. It is likely to be tried more extensively in future.REMARKABLE GROWTH. Jonathan French, Esq., of South Braintree killed one day the present week a pig only 7 1/2 months old, that weighed 376 pounds dressed. This is a gain of 1 2/3 pounds per day from the time of his birth. We doubt if any of the farmers in this County are "hogish" enough to think they can beat these figures. If so, please give us the facts.CLOTHING. Don't fail to read the advertisements of Messrs. Jackman & Merrill, in our columns, and when you go to the city to buy clothing, please give them a call. They have an immense stock and are selling at reasonable prices.THE MECHANIC MUTUAL RELIEF ASSOCIATION of West Quincy, are to celebrate Thanksgiving Eve, Wednesday, Nov. 25th, by a social ball, at the Willard House. The M. M. R. A.—as its name designates—is a charitable institution, and recommends itself to public favor. The arrangements for this occasion are in excellent taste, and the Managers, experienced in all the details of such matters, insures a good time and general satisfaction.MILITARY ELECTION. At an election of Captain of Co. H. 3d Regiment, on Monday, in this place, Capt. Wm. Boyd was unanimously re-elected. It will be recollected that he resigned on account of ill health. The company finding his health much improved insisted that he should again accept, which he finally did with much reluctance. Col. Bates presided, and Lieut. Talbot acted as Recording Secretary.

Deaths that occur from an unknown cause are generally ascribed to disease of the heart. A committee of physicians at Strasburg, Germany, lately made post mortem examinations of sixty-six persons who had died suddenly, and they found that but two of those deaths were caused by disease of the heart, while nine resulted from apoplexy and forty-six from congestion of the lungs. Cold feet, tight clothing, costiveness and sudden chill are mentioned as frequent causes of such congestion.

For the Patriot.

Desirous of improving what seemed to be the season called Indian Summer, by rambling 'mid rich foliage, with its autumnal tints, we rose before the sun, one fine October morning and began to travel "Away down south in Dixie."

Virginia sunsets are beautiful, proverbially, but there is something more elevating when the sun rises. Why will it not conform to the customs of fashion, able society, and rise later in the day, say along about noon? What is the use of its stirring before there is anybody about except the watchman to see what it is up to. Man is a curious animal, and will sometimes overreach himself. Milton mentions:—

"A man who had been matchless held in cunning, overreached where least he thought."

Possibly, Milton did not have his eye on our party when he wrote those lines.

Crossing Long Bridge, we rode along the sacred soil of Arlington Heights apparently unnoticed. Presently, however, old Sol peeped up, from behind the hills of Maryland, casting reflections on the river below, but smiling, seemingly as one exclaimed "All quiet along the Potomac." A member of the President's family was with us, yet no effort was made to veto the "Dunwester."

Certain it is, a sunrise is beautiful, if the sun and you happen to be in the right place. Try it reader, sometime, you will never realize what it is, until in propria persona you witness its splendor. Before we had recovered from the effects of this strange freak of nature, the train rushed along the streets of Alexandria. Not Alexandria Egypt, but Virginia, although it showed signs of having flourished at the same period. The only signs of life, as we entered the city, was a young African straddling a brevet swing-gate, and in a doleful manner, singing innumerable verses of the song:—"At the battle of the Nile,
I was there all the while,
I was there all the while,
At the battle of the Nile."

After waiting half an hour for breakfast, the train started out on the Orange and Alexandria Road. We soon passed the slave pen, like the city that harbored it, a relic of the past. Here the F. F. V's were accustomed to chop up families and sell the pieces to the highest bidder. Nature was robed in plaid and checked mantles, in colors varied as the rainbow. The day was perfect, the changing scenes delightful, the company ditto, until F.—a youth, who seldom travelled except up and down Pennsylvania Avenue, exclaimed in despair "What a country for Ganders!"

"Yes," replied another, "it's too early for geese to go South; you ought to have stayed at home."

F.—had been through the cars several times in search of the fair sex, but returned without discovering a solitary one. He had put on his best broad cloth, got an extra touch on his moustache, arranged stunnily his new and gorgeous red scarf, held by a diamond pin, carefully dented his broad brim tourist, and altogether equipped himself in a manner designed to captivate scores of Virginians. Therefore when he found none to admire, it is strange that he should be disconsolate. His companions adopted the principle, "When in Rome, do as Romans do," when in Turkey do as turkeys do, when in Buffalo do as buffaloes do, &c. Consequently they attired themselves in coarse clothes, or travelling suits, and were not greatly disappointed, when it appeared that they were deprived of the reigning influence of ladies society. Not all the beauties of the charming landscapes had any charms for Fred. Nature was doing her best, but he would not be comforted.

Accessions were made to the train at Springfield and Burke Station, but none of the proper gender. Fred, was about asleep when the conductor called out Fairfax. As the cars stopped, opening one eye, he caught a glimpse of dry goods. First, rejudging his dress, he jerked up the window, thrust out his upper deck with flying colors, and remained on the watch until he felt sure what craft was coming.

"Hang me, if she isn't going to sail along with us, here she comes right into our car." At this Fred, jumped up bowing and scraping at a terrible rate for the lady to take his seat. It being the only seat in the car, the lady after once declining, accepted it with a "thank you." Fred, then filled with chivalric emotions, politely requested that I resume my seat, as he had rather stand. Politely I accepted the offer, quite to the surprise of Fred, who stood silent, evidently enraged by the disappointment. His gallantry was all that saved my cranium from a smash-up.

The lady was genteelly dressed in black, with a heavy veil dropped over her face. Fred, suspending his anger for the time being, assumed a stately position at the front door of the car, and did his best to attract the attention of the new comer. We had not gone far before the silence was broken. "Excuse me sir, shall I trouble you to raise this window?"

"No trouble madam, it is very close in this car."

"Yes sir, indeed it is, and riding horse-back makes one right warm."

"A most excellent morning for a ride through the country."

"For a short ride, but I have rode a right smart way this morning, from the Seminary."

"Fairfax Seminary?"

"Yes sir, I reckon you've been there."

"Not since the war."

"Oh, I reckon you would scarcely know the place now, then, it is perfectly delightful."

"That may be, but it will always appear sad and dismal to me."

"How is that?"

"It was there that a comrade died, from improper amputation of his foot."

"What name sir?"

"Corporal B.—, a favorite of the 13th—"

"I fail to remember the name, but think I must have done something for your friend; as all my time was spent in doing what little I could for the wounded, who came in from Bull Run. I reckon the Surgeon's tried to do their best, but with so many amputations they felt hurried, and consequently many cases were fatally neglected."

"Were you moved by sympathy or patriotism?"

"Both."

"Then you was a loyal Virginian."

"Indeed and double was I. All that I possessed was sacrificed to the cause of freedom without a murmur. Our house was riddled by rebel shot and shell, and afterwards burnt by yankee soldiers, to keep them warm, and cook their rations. My husband was killed at Cedar Mountain. I am now going to Culpeper Court House, to see if his grave is marked. My friends there refuse to go near the "Yankee Cemetery." Loyalty costs something in Virginia. In my state they were considered loyal, who simply cheered, or waved their handkerchiefs, as others marched to the front. What is this we are crossing?"

"Bull Run to be sure, here is where the rebels burnt the bridge, the night we were on picket. We are riding to day over the old camp grounds. We lodged many a night on the ground floor of this Grand Hotel, kept on the Choctaw plan. Then we were knapsackers on foot, now being carpet-baggers we get rode on a rail."

"Our friend Fred, has not baggage enough to fill a ball box, yet he would not carry the obnoxious carpet bag," he said, and so brought along "a cottage by the sea."

"What place is this we're coming to?"

"There is the first new house we've seen in Virginia."

"This is a Yankee Colony. They settled here two years ago, bought farms at $15 an acre. On account of this settlement land about here will now bring $50 an acre. The only way for Northerners to have society in Virginia is to bring it with them." At Manassas Junction we saw three young hunters. Recognizing them as friends, we rushed out to meet them, and found that they were spending their vacation pleasant shooting on the Bull Run battle-field. We partly engaged to join them for a day on our return. Partridges were plenty, wild turkeys and rabbits not a few, and it would furnish a good opportunity to look over our old fighting grounds. I felt confident of finding the spot where so many of my comrades fell. I longed to mark the place, and perhaps plant a little evergreen where B.—and H.—of Quincy fought their last.

As soon as the Manassas Gap train was made up, we moved on the main road to Lynchburg. Strange to say, Fred, was the first to get aboard. This unusual haste was accounted for as we entered the car. He had found a seat, and was all engaged bawling the widow, with the air of an expert. As we passed by, he assumed Caesar's dignity, and chuckled with exultation, "Veni, Vidi, Vici." He forgot that "every picture has its dark side." However, I did not feel it my duty to reveal it to him. Before we had reached Manassas, a boy came through the cars with persimmons. A gentleman bought the entire stock of the boy for distribution among the passengers. As our lady passenger lifted her veil to put a persimmon to her mouth, I discovered she was black, not simply the effect of her mourning apparel, nor the effect of a Southern sun, but black as a chunk of midnight. Now Fred, was educated in Virginia, and no amount of reasoning had the least tendency to weaken his prejudices. He never will ride in the street car with a colored person. Like other Virginians, he often boasts of Indian blood, but at present does not boast of African affinity. "Ignorance is bliss." He is enraptured with her conversation and they agree on every subject. She keeps dark. At Culpeper she is helped out of the car, Fred, quoting Byron: "A more congenial parting is rarely seen outside of Virginia. Next Friday night he expects her to arrive by mail. Our whole party will be there to see the fun."

BALLOU'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE. The December number of this popular Magazine is received. We find it filled with that charming variety of illustration and interesting letter-press so well calculated to keep it at the head of the cheap magazines of the country. Shillaber treats us to one of his most musical illustrated poems, "The Edison clock." Her interesting serial, "A Woman's Error," William L. Williams gives the young folks an exciting story, while Jane G. Austin, James Franklin Fitts, Catharine Earnshaw, W. H. Macy, N. P. Darling, and several other writers of more or less note furnish each a capital story or poem. The humorous pictures are uncommonly good, embracing four different subjects, illustrated by six engravings, designed by Reed.

The publishers announce for 1869 a new serial by the charming Miss Camilla Williams, also an original story for boys and girls, to run through the year, by Horatio Alger, Jr., one of the most popular writers for the young. They also promise increased attractions in stories and illustrations, for the coming year, over those of any previous one. As their promises have been more than performed in the past, we have reason to believe they will continue to be in the future, though it is difficult to see how BALLOU can be much improved over its present excellence. It is sent to subscribers at $1.50 per year, or in clubs for $1.25. Elliott, Thomas & Talbot, publishers, Boston, (Mass.)

Indianapolis expects to slaughter 70,000 hogs this year.

The annual earnings of the American people are estimated at $7,500,000, and their domestic trade as nearly $6,000,000,000 a year.

PASSING AWAY. We record this week, under the usual obituary head, the deaths of two of our citizens, over four score years.—Mr. John Green and Mrs. Sarah Marsh. The former was born in Weymouth, but when quite young moved to this place, served an apprenticeship to the late Deacon Bass, father of Capt. Lewis Bass, and has since resided here. Mrs. Marsh was a native of Quincy, married here, and has always lived in this place. She has had an iron constitution, never, scarcely, has known a sick day; and having a desire for manual labor, has probably done more hard work than any two of our young ladies of the present day, could think it possible for them to perform.

The Weymouth Gazette says, that sickness among children at South Weymouth is so prevalent, that out of a school numbering sixty-six scholars, only six were present one day last week. This small attendance was partly owing to the fears of parents, who kept their children from school to avoid contact with other pupils who might communicate the infection to them. Sore throat and measles are the prevailing disorders. The mortality has been rather large, the bell tolling almost every morning.

THE KINGSTON MURDER. Eighty-three Jurors have been summoned to attend the trial of Samuel M. Andrews, for the murder of Cornelius Holmes, which will take place early in December, and is expected to continue a week, if not longer.

COLD WEATHER. We have had an unusual amount of cold and wet weather this month. Snow has fallen in nearly all the Northern and Western States the present week, and there was fine sleighing at Concord, N. H., on Wednesday last.

RAILROAD CHANGE. Onslow Stearns, Esq., President of the O. C. and Newport Railroad, has purchased the interest of J. Henry Perkins in the South Shore Railroad, and has been elected President of the latter road.

WE cheerfully call attention to the advertising agency of A. L. Bryant & Co., of Boston. We have had business relations with their house for some time, and have always found them faithful and prompt. We heartily commend them to publishers as well as to business men.

Summary Intelligence.

A Providence merchant, a few days since, purchased what he supposed to be a five pound ball of butter. On cutting it, it was found to be mashed potato, with a covering of butter. The seller had, without doubt, been working in some wooden nutmeg factory in Connecticut.

Weston the pedestrian is preparing to walk from Bangor, Me., to St. Paul, Minn. and from thence back to New York—a distance of five thousand miles. He is to commence on the 1st of December, and complete the journey within one hundred days.

The people of "Old Spain" are planning for a series of musical entertainments this winter.

A wrestling match between a young man 26 years of age and a young girl of 21, came off in New York on Monday evening. The female proved the victor in five minutes.

The inhabitants of San Francisco were regaled on Friday night with a most magnificent meteoric display.

A Western farmer has on his place twenty-six hundred apple trees imported from Russia.

Have you a severe wrench or sprain? Have you rheumatism in any form? Have you stiff neck, or burses caused by rheumatic pains? If so, "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment" is a specific remedy, and is, also, the best pain killer in the world.

We often see large stocks of cattle which do not seem to thrive, and come out "spring poor," all for want of something to start them in the right direction. One dollar's worth of "Sheridan's Calvary Condition Powders," given to such a stock occasionally during the winter, would be worth more than an extra half ton of hay.

Select Story.
ONLY A DOLLAR.
"She sews very nicely," said Mrs.
Wharton, "really, very nicely, indeed.
And if you have work you wish done well and cheaply, I would advise you to employ her."
Mrs. Wharton was sitting before the bright fire of anthracite coal, in her crimson silk morning wrapper, with her glossy hair smooth as satin, and her pretty hands loaded with rings, lying in her lap. She felt that she was doing a charitable deed in employing this poor, deserving soldier's widow, and a still greater one in recommending her to her friends.
It is so easy to be a good Christian under some circumstances!
"Well, I shall certainly send for her," said Mrs. Martin. "What did you tell me her name and address was?"
"Oh, she is called Mrs. Leggett, and she lives in one of those horrid musty tenement houses, No. — street, the back room in the third story." Mrs. Marvin entered the details in her little pearl-bound tablet, and took her leave, internally convinced that Mrs.
Wharton was a "Good Samaritan" of the very highest class.
Meanwhile the latter was gazing dreamily into the fire, wondering what toilet would be most appropriate for the morrow evening's soiree.
"There's my pea-green satin," mused Mrs. Wharton, checking off the various garments on the tips of her white fingers;
"but I've worn it there already. And there is my Marie Louise blue silk, it the skirt is only a good little more.
The lemon-colored brocade is not becoming to me. I am sorry I bought it. And the white grenadine not worn at Mrs.
Army's. My white colored silk, with the ruby set, would look well if the odious Fanny Palmer had not got one just like it. And purple velvet don't light up well at night. Oh, dear! I really think I must have something new. A rose-colored tissue or a white India muslin. My wardrobe is getting dreadfully behind hand. Dear me! who's that? How you startled me, Mrs. Leggett!"
"I beg your pardon, ma'am, I am sure," said the slender, meek-looking little seamstress, rustling softly forward in her garment of shabby, well-worn black;
"but I knocked twice and you did not answer."
"Then you should knock louder next time," said the irritable lady. "However, now that you are here, you may as well sit down. Good gracious! how wet you are—positively dripping!"
"Yes, ma'am, it rains very hard, and I have no umbrella."
"No umbrella? Dear me, how shocking! Well, did you bring home those things?"
"Yes, ma'am; here they are."
And the seamstress produced a neat package from beneath her shawl.
"I hope to goodness they are not wet!
No, they seem tolerably dry. What is the bill?"
"Six dollars, ma'am."
"Six dollars? Isn't that high, Mrs.
Leggett?" said Mrs. Wharton, opening her purse and slowly examining its compartments. "Dear me! I have only a five dollar bill. I suppose you could not change a twenty?"
Mrs. Leggett smiled bitterly. "No ma'am, I could not."
"Well, then, will you call it five dollars, won't you? A dollar isn't much either way, and the five is all I've got."
"A dollar is a great deal to me, Mrs.
Wharton."
The lady's smooth brow contracted.
"I have given you a great deal of work, Mrs. Leggett."
"I know it, ma'am, and I am very much obliged to you for your kindness."
"And I should be very sorry to have so trifling a thing as a dollar to part us now."
Mrs. Leggett was silent; she did not know what to say.
"Call it five dollars," said Mrs. Wharton, tossing the bill into the lap of the soldier's widow. "A dollar don't signify and then I recommended my friend Mrs.
Marvin to employ you this morning."
"Thank you, madam," said the poor woman, faintly, as she took the money, feeling inwardly that she had been defrauded, yet perfectly aware that she had no means of redress.
"Ma'am, if you please," said Mary, the waitress, "here is the newspaper boy—he says master told him you would pay him the bill this week."
"How much is it, Mary?"
"A dollar, ma'am."
"How provoking. I haven't a dollar in the house."
"He says he has orders not to leave the house until it is paid."
"He is very impudent," said the lady coloring up, and for the first time in her petted life, feeling the want of a dollar.
Mrs. Clarence Fitzgerald was the next person announced—a lady of the utmost style, whose acquaintance Mrs. Wharton had just succeeded in making.
"You will stare at my being out in the storm, my dear," floating gracefully into the apartment, "but I'm raising a dollar subscription for a poor musician who has just broken his arm. Of course I may depend on you." Mrs. Wharton colored. "I will send it round in the morning."

so apt to cause. The insured is assured of the Several new and attractive tables are now presented which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-
PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM
POLICY. In the former, the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death,
but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. 10 percent of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

don't want to live any longer. O, dear Lord, please send the angels for old Peter. Just send the angel Gabriel this minute down to take old Peter to Abraham's bosom! O, please Lord do!— Please, Lord, sit minute—I am ready to go."
Captain K., ever ready for fun, immediately seized a white counterpane, and enveloping himself in it, rapped three times at Peter's door.
"Whos dar?"
"The angel Gabriel, come to take old Peter to Abraham's bosom!" replied Captain K., in a sepulchral tone.
"De who, Massa?" fearfully asked the suppliant.
"The angel Gabriel come for old Peter," responded the voice.
"Well, I just tell you, Massa, dat nigger do not live here; I don't know him at all! Dat nigger ben dead dese tree

Captain K. rushed back to the company convulsed with laughter, and old Peter relates to this day the wonderful answer to his prayer.

THE TEETH.
A writer in Harper for June says:— Rousseau said that no woman with fine teeth could be ugly. Any female mouth almost, with a good set of ivorys, is kiss-able. The loss of the first teeth has an unfavorable influence upon the beauty and duration of the second. The youngest children should accordingly be made to brush their several times a day
with a little ordinary soap or magnesia
and water. Grown people should clean their teeth at least five times in the course of the twenty-four hours, on rising in the morning and going to bed at night, and after each meal. A brush as hard as can be borne without pain should be used,
and the best of all applications is pure
soap and water, always lukewarm.

After eating, the particles of food should
be carefully removed from the teeth by means of a tooth-pick of quill or wood,
but never of metal, and by a thread passed now and again between the teeth.
Tooth powders of all kinds are injurious
both to the enamel and the gums, and if
used, they should be used with care, and
be removed from the mouth by careful rinsing. The habit which some women have of using a bit of lemon, though it
may whiten the teeth, it gives temporary firmness and color to the gums, is fatal
to the enamel, as are all acids. No one, young or old, should turn their jaws into nut crackers; and it is dangerous even for women to bite off, as they often do, the ends of the thread in sewing. It is not safe to bring very hot food or drink, especially if immediately followed by anything cold, in contact with the teeth.

Wholesome gums are more essential
even than the teeth to the beauty of the mouth. They should be of a firm texture
and a lively red color, and well spread over the base of each tooth; but they are
often pale or livid, shrunken, fleshless,
and sometimes even ulcerated. The excessive use of sugar and candies does great mischief. It is not only the bad effect of the acids produced by their decomposition, but the grittiness of these substances which wears away the gum, bares the roots of the tooth, and spoils the mouth. This is the chief danger of the use of tooth powders. Livid gums will be benefited by occasional, but not too frequent, hard rubbing and pricking with a tooth-pick until they bleed slightly.

SAABBATH OBSERVANCE.
The nations of the earth which now most respect the Sabbath, and most discourage
labor, past-times, and mere amusements,
during its sacred hours, are the freest,
the happiest, the most prosperous, and the farthest advanced in progress of art, manufactures, and inventions. — and these
town, village, or community, of any Sabbath-keeping nation, which keeps the Sabbath as a day of rest for body and
mind, is the most noted for all that is orderly, law-abiding, and substantial; and
that family, of any Sabbath-keeping community, which best observes it by quiet,
by religious worship, and the performance
of Bible duties, is most substantial and respected and reliable in that community;
while any individual member of a Sabbath-keeping family who most spends the hours of that sacred day in meditation, in Scripture, and prayerful reading of the Scripture, will uniformly be found to follow a blameless life, to possess the respect and confidence of the whole community, and all men will know where to look for him, however evil may be the
times; to wit, on the side of justice and
right, and liberty and law and kind as principle. No man can not only do what is possible in himself to secure a religious observance of the Sabbath Day, will not only countenance and encourage others
to do the same, but will volunteer his pecuniary aid to further these things in the community around him.—Hull's Journal.

THE ANGEL GABRIEL.
My friend Major C., had an old darkey to whom he was much attached. One evening at a party, Peter, from imbibing
too freely of various mixtures, began dancing around with a waiter containing
some ices and cakes, and soon became uproarious. Observing his conduct, the Major publicly reprimanded him, and at once dismissed him from his post of waiter
for the evening, and appointed another in his place. This last stroke was too much for old Peter, and he retired to his bedroom in despair. That night, Captain K., a jolly young officer in the room adjoining Peter's, hearing sobs and groans in
the next room, rose to inquire what was the matter. He opened the door of Peter's room, and reentered. Peter was kneeling by a window and praying.—
Amid his loud cries the Captain over-
heard the following:
"O Lord, have pity on thy poor old servant. His Massa, whom he used to take upon his knees when he was a boy,
is vexed with his poor old darkey, and I don't want to live any longer. O, dear Lord, please send the angels for old Peter. Just send the angel Gabriel this minute down to take old Peter to Abraham's bosom! O, please Lord do!—

Please, Lord, sit minute—I am ready

almost, with a good set of ivorys, is kiss-
able. The loss of the first teeth has an unfavorable influence upon the beauty
and duration of the second. The
youngest children should accordingly be
made to brush their several times a day
with a little ordinary soap or magnesia
and water. Grown people should clean
their teeth at least five times in the course
of the twenty-four hours, on rising in the morning and going to bed at night, and
after each meal. A brush as hard as can
be borne without pain should be used,
and the best of all applications is pure
soap and water, always lukewarm.

After eating, the particles of food should
be carefully removed from the teeth by
means of a tooth-pick of quill or wood,
but never of metal, and by a thread passed now and again between the teeth.
Tooth powders of all kinds are injurious
both to the enamel and the gums, and if
used, they should be used with care, and
be removed from the mouth by careful
rinsing. The habit which some women
have of using a bit of lemon, though it
may whiten the teeth, it gives temporary
firmness and color to the gums, is fatal
to the enamel, as are all acids. No one,
young or old, should turn their jaws into
nut crackers; and it is dangerous even for
women to bite off, as they often do, the ends of the thread in sewing. It is not safe to bring very hot food or drink, especially if immediately followed by anything cold, in contact with the teeth.

Wholesome gums are more essential
even than the teeth to the beauty of the mouth. They should be of a firm texture
and a lively red color, and well spread
over the base of each tooth; but they are
often pale or livid, shrunken, fleshless,
and sometimes even ulcerated. The excessive use of sugar and candies does
great mischief. It is not only the bad effect of the acids produced by their decomposition, but the grittiness of these
substances which wears away the gum,
bares the roots of the tooth, and spoils the
mouth. This is the chief danger of the use of tooth powders. Livid gums will
be benefited by occasional, but not too
frequent, hard rubbing and pricking with
a tooth-pick until they bleed slightly.

SAABBATH OBSERVANCE.
The nations of the earth which now most
respect the Sabbath, and most discourage
labor, past-times, and mere amusements,
during its sacred hours, are the freest,
the happiest, the most prosperous, and the
farthest advanced in progress of art, manufactures, and inventions. — and these
town, village, or community, of any Sabbath-keeping nation, which keeps the Sabbath as a day of rest for body and
mind, is the most noted for all that is orderly, law-abiding, and substantial; and
that family, of any Sabbath-keeping community, which best observes it by quiet,
by religious worship, and the performance
of Bible duties, is most substantial and respected and reliable in that community;
while any individual member of a Sabbath-keeping family who most spends the
hours of that sacred day in meditation, in Scripture, and prayerful reading of the Scripture, will uniformly be found to follow a blameless life, to possess the respect and confidence of the whole community, and all men will know where to look for him, however evil may be the
times; to wit, on the side of justice and
right, and liberty and law and kind as
principle. No man can not only do what is possible in himself to secure a religious observance of the Sabbath Day, will not
only countenance and encourage others
to do the same, but will volunteer his pecuniary aid to further these things in the community around him.—Hull's Journal.

THE ANGEL GABRIEL.
My friend Major C., had an old dar-
key to whom he was much attached. One evening at a party, Peter, from imbibing
too freely of various mixtures, began
dancing around with a waiter containing
some ices and cakes, and soon became uproarious. Observing his conduct, the Major publicly reprimanded him, and at
once dismissed him from his post of waiter
for the evening, and appointed another in
his place. This last stroke was too much
for old Peter, and he retired to his bedroom in despair. That night, Captain K.,
a jolly young officer in the room adjoining Peter's, hearing sobs and groans in
the next room, rose to inquire what was
the matter. He opened the door of Peter's room, and reentered. Peter was kneeling by a window and praying.—
Amid his loud cries the Captain over-
heard the following:
"O Lord, have pity on thy poor old servant. His Massa, whom he used to take upon his knees when he was a boy,
is vexed with his poor old darkey, and I

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1868.

NUMBER 48.

—OF THE—
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
Chartered by Special Act of Congress,
APPROVED, JULY 25, 1865.

CASH CAPITAL $1,000,000
PAID IN FULL.
Branch Office:
FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING,
PHILADELPHIA.

Where the general business of the Company is transacted, and to which all general correspondence should be addressed.

OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COVELL, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice-President.
EMERSON W. FLETCHER, Secretary and Actuary.

This Company, National in its character, offers,
by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means
of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium, being largely reduced,
are made as favorable to the insured as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Non-Insured, Dividends and the mismanagement which the latter are so apt to cause the Policyholder.

Several new and attractive tables are now presented which need only to be understood to prove
acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-
PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM
POLICY. In the former, the policyholder not
only secures a life insurance, payable at death,
but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the insured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

The attention of persons contemplating insur-
ing their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

Circulars, Pamphlets and full particulars given on application to the Branch Office of the Company, or to the Poetry.

IF AND WHEN.
If demagogues are honest men,
If principles are only tools,
If artifice is wisdom—then Count reasoning men but simple fools.
If love is innocent,
If trickery is strength and power,
Then danger's safe and strength is weak.
If things are all just what they seem,
If guided wrong or error right is,
If promises are pay—then deem
That gold's no better than pyrites.
When snow is seething,—ice is hot,
When fire is used to freeze ice cream,
When wooden guns can throw hot shot,
And water learns to run up stream,—
When figs on thistles grow and thrive,
When light is darkness, darkness light,
The living dead, and dead alive,
Then bad is good, and good might make right.

Interesting Selections.
APPLE FRUITERS. Pare and core some fine large pippins, and cut them into round slices. Soak them in wine, sugar, and nutmeg, for two or three hours. Make a batter of four eggs; a tablespoonful of rosewater; a tablespoonful of wine; a tablespoonful of milk;
thicken with enough flour, stirred in by degrees, to make a batter; mix it two or three hours before it is wanted, that it may be light. Heat some butter in a frying-pan; dip each slice of apple separately in the batter, and fry them brown;
sift powdered sugar, and grate nutmeg over them.
17 Women are mistaken when they suppose a small foot an element of beauty.
A foot should bear a just proportion to the figure; if too large it argues coarseness, and gives a heaviness to the manner, forbidding ease and grace of movement. Dress has great effect upon the foot, and very long dresses are not adapted to exhibit it to advantage. A foot should be arched, fairly rounded, and its length proportioned to the height of the individual. It should have a delicate spring to it, and the ankle should be rounded and firm.
18 It is generally supposed among the ignorant and unsophisticated, that two and two make four. This is a mistake:
—two and two make 22.

Addition says: "Though we seem grieved at the shortness of life in general, we are wishing every period of it at an end. The minor longs to be of age; and then to be a man of business; then to take up an estate; to attain to honors;
and then finally to retire." 19 Actions are immortal; and our deeds now and their deservings hereafter will be the twin companions that shall walk in eternity hand in hand.

30 Old Roger was visiting a friend who had a remarkably fine little girl, about three years old, famous for smart sayings. As usual, she was shown off before her esteemed friend. "What is papa?" said a parent, in order to draw out the precious reply. "Papa's a humbler," said the juvenile. "I declare," said old Roger, "I never in my life saw so young a child with so mature a judgment."

not count on your assistance?"

Miscellany.
THE BABIES IN THE CLOUDS.

One pleasant Saturday afternoon during the comet's appearance, ten years ago, an account, after a prosperous voyage, descended upon a farm in the neighborhood of a large market town in one of the Western States. He was soon stir-rounded by a curious group of the farmer's family and laborers, all asking eager questions about the voyage and the management of the balloon. That, secured by an anchor and a rope in the hand of the aeronaut, its car but a foot or two above the ground, was swaying lazily backward and forward in the evening air.
It was a good deal out of wind, and was a sleepy and innocent monster in the eyes of the farmer, who, with the owner's permission led it up to his house, where he said, he could "hitch it" to the fence. But before this secured it, his three children, aged respectively, ten, eight and three, begged him to lift them "into that big balloon," that they might sit on "those pretty red cushions." While the attention of the aeronaut was diverted by more curious questions from a neighboring farm, this rash father lifted his darlings one by one into the car. Chubby little Johnny proved the "ounce too much" for the aerial camel, and brought him to the ground; and then,
unluckily, not the baby, but the eldest boy of the family, was lifted out. The relief was too great for the monster. The volatile creature's spirit rose at once, he jerked his halberd out of the farmer's hand, and with a bound mounted into the air!
Vain was the aeronaut's anchor. It caught for a moment in a fence, but it tore away, and was off, dangling uselessly after the runaway balloon, which so swiftly and steadily rose that in a few minutes those two little white faces peering over the edge of the car, grew indistinct, and those piteous cries of "Papa!" "Mamma!" grew faint and faded up in the air.

When distance and twilight mists had swallowed up voices and faces, and nothing could be seen but that dark, cruel sphere, sailing triumphantly away with its precious booty, like an aerial privateer, the poor father sank down helpless and speechless; but the mother, frantic with grief, still stretched her yearning arms toward the inexorable heavens, and called wildly up into the unanswering void.
The aeronaut strove to console the wretched parents with assurances that the balloon would descend within thirty miles of the town, and that all might be well with the children, provided it did not come down in water, or in deep woods.
In the event of its descending in a favorable spot, there was but one danger to be apprehended; he thought that the elder child might step out, leaving the younger in the balloon. "Then, it might again rise, and continue its voyage."

"Ah, no," replied the mother, "Jennie would never stir from the car, without Johnny in her arms!"
The balloon passed directly over the market town, and the children, seeing many people in the streets, stretched out their hands and cried loudly for help. But the villagers thought they saw their bright little heads heard no call.

Amazed at the strange apparition, they might almost have thought the translated little creatures small angel navigators on some voyage of discovery, some little cherubic adventure of their own, as, heading toward the rosy cloud-land and purple islands of sunset splendor, they sailed deeper and deeper into the west, and faded away.

Some company they had,—poor little sky-waifs! Something comforted them, and allayed their wild terrors—something whispered to them that below the night and clouds, was home; that above, was God; that wherever they might drift or dash, living or dead, they would still be in His domain, and under His care—that though borne away among the stars, they could not be lost, for His love would follow them.

When the sunlight all went away, and the great comet came blazing out, little Johnny was apprehensive that the comet might come too near the airy craft, and set it on fire with a whisk of its dreadful tail. But when his sister assured him that the fiery dragon was "as much as twenty miles away," and that God wouldn't let him hurt them, he was tranquilized, but soon afterwards said, "I wish he would come a little nearer, so I could warm myself—I'm so cold."

Then Jennie took off her apron, and wrapped it about the child, saying tenderly:
"This is all sister has to make you warm, darling, but she'll hug you close in her arms, and we will say our prayers and you shall go to sleep."

"Why, how can I say my prayers before I have my supper?" asked little Johnny.
"Sister hasn't any supper for you, or herself, but we must pray all the harder," solemnly responded Jennie.

So the two baby wanderers, alone in the wide heavens, unwed by darkness, immensity, and silence, by the presence of the great comet and the millions of unhappy stars, lifted their little clasped hands, and sobbed out their sorrowful
"Our Father," and then that quaint little supplementary prayer:
"Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my soul to keep;
If I should die before I wake, I pray the Lord my soul to take."

"There! God heard that, easy; for we are close to him up here," said innocent little Johnny.
Doubtless Divine Love stooped to the little ones, and folded them in perfect peace—for soon, the younger, sitting on the bottom of the car, with his head leaning against his sister's knee, slept as soundly as though he were lying in his own little bed, at home; while the elder watched quietly through the long, long hours, and the car floated gently on in the still night air, till it began to sway and rock on the fresh morning wind.
Who can divine that simple little child's thoughts, speculations, and wild imaginings, while watching through these hours?
She may have dreamed in collision with a meteor—for many were abroad that night, scents and heralds of the great comet—or perhaps being cast away on some desolate star island, or more dreary still, floating on, night and day, till they should both die of cold and hunger. Poor babies in the clouds!

At length, a happy chance, of Providence—we will say Providence—guided the little girl's wandering hand to a cord connected with the valve; something told her to pull it. At once the balloon began to sink slowly and gently, as though led down by tender hands,—or, as though some celestial pilot guided it through the wild currents of air, not letting it drop into lake, or river, leafy wood or imper-meable swamp, where this strange, un-childlike experience, might have been closed by a death of unspeakable horror;
but causing it to descend as softly as a bird alights, on a spot where human care and pity awaited it.

The sun had not yet risen, but the morning twilight had come, when the little girl, looking over the edge of the car, saw the dear old earth coming nearer—"rising towards them," she said. But when the car stopped, to her great disappointment, it was not on the ground, but caught fast in the topmost branches of a tree. Yet she saw they were near a house whence help might soon come, so she awakened her brother and told him the good news, and together they watched and waited for deliverance, hugging each other for joy and for warmth,—for they were very cold.

Farmer Buxton, who lived in a lonely house on the edge of his own private prairie, was a famous sleeper in general, but on this particular morning he awoke before the dawn, and, though he turned and turned again, he could sleep no more.
So, at last he said to his good wife, whom he had kindly awakened to inform her of his unaccountable insomnia, "It is no use; I'll just get up, and dress, and have a look at the comet."

Agents.—This is to certify that I have found Allen's Lung Balm one of the best remedies in the world for diseased lungs. I have used it in my family for breaking up a troublesome cough with the happiest effect. I recommend it to a young lady who had a harrowing cough and was threatened with consumption, and it cured her in a few days. I would recommend it to all those predisposed to Consumption.
Respectfully yours,

A FEW important questions to those about purchasing SEWING MACHINES, which should be answered satisfactorily before a purchase is made:
Why can this Machine be used successfully by everybody?
Why is it the most desirable?
Why is it the most rapid Machine?
Why can it do the largest range of work?
Why is it a silent Machine?
Why are its Hemmers and Felters the best in use?
Why cannot it run backwards?
Why cannot its needle be set wrong?
Why is its extra foot so useful to rip, in use or wear, than the "Lockstitch," while it can be more easily taken out if desired?
Why has it obtained in the highest Sewing Machine Court yet held, the "Grand Trial" at Island Park, a certificate of honor, ranking it seventeenth time as valuable as the competing "double thread" one?
Why has there been made and sold FIFTY PER CENT. more of the Wilcox & Gibbs Machines than of any of the double thread Machines in the same time of its earlier years?
If such results are half, with little advertisement, is it not because the Machine has more merit than any other?

Poetry.
THE ORIGIN OF IRELAND.
Wild all condescension,
I'll turn your attention
To what I would mince in Erin so green,
And without hesitating,
I'd show how that nayshin
Became ivy creasins the gim and the queen.

It happened one mornin',
I'll turn your attention
To what I would mince in Erin so green,
And without hesitating,
I'd show how that nayshin
Became ivy creasins the gim and the queen.

So Nipture who knew her,
Began to pursue her,
In order to woo her, the wicked old Jew!
An' he very high caught her Atop ivy wather—
Great Jupiter's daughter, who cried "Poo-ta-too."

But Jove, the great Janyons, Look'd down an' saw Vanus,
And Nipture so hansom purshing her wild,
So he roared out in thund'ring,
He'd tare him asunder,
An' shure 'twas no wonder, for tazing his child.

So a shiar that was flyin',
Around him espyn',
He sawd without sight, and buried it below,
Where it tumbled like a winkin',
On Nipture while sinkin',
And gave him, I'm thinking, a broth in a blow.

An' that shiar was dhy land,
Both low land and high land,
An' formed a swate island, the land ivy my birth!
Thus plain is the shary,
'Kase sint down from glory,
That Erin so hoary 's a heaven on earth!

This Vanus jammed natly
On Erin so shately,
But faynted, 'kase lately so bothered an' press'd,
Which much did bewilder!
But ere it had kill'd her,
Her father distilled her a drop of the best!

An' that glass so victorious,
It made her feel glorious,
A little aprouns I fear it might prove;
Hence how can you blame us
That Erin's so famous
For beauty, and blackthorns and whiskey and love.

Interesting Selections.
APPLE MERINGUE. Prepare six large tart apples for sauce. While hot, put in a piece of butter the size of an egg.
When cold, add a cup of fine cracker crumbs, the yolks of three eggs well beaten, a cup of sweet milk or cream, a little salt, nutmeg and sugar to taste. Bake in a large plate, with an undercoat of rich paste and a rim of puff paste. When done, take the whites of the eggs, half a large teaspoon of white sugar, and a few drops of essence of lemon; beat to a stiff froth, pour over, and put back in the oven to brown lightly.

BRIGHAM CAKE. Four cups of sugar, one cup of molasses, one cup of milk, one cup of Indian meal, eight cups of flour, two cups of butter, five eggs, one teaspoon of soda, spice to taste. This makes two large loaves.

POETRY. All poetry is but the reaching out of the soul,—all painting, whether in words or colors,—for something better, brighter, fairer than it has yet seen, but which imagination prophesies is yet to come. It sees brighter tints, more indestructible loveliness than this world contains, but which even its disappointments and defeats foreshadow; and which will certainly come, or hope, and faith, and love would not be.

HAPPY PERSONS. There are persons who may be called fortunate, if not elect, namely, those who, from the felicity of their natural constitution, desire only what is good, who act for love, and show pure morality in their actions. In these happy beings the superior feelings predominate much over those common to men and animals.

Women have a much nicer sense of the beautiful than men. They are, by far, the safer umpires in the matters of propriety and grace. A mere school girl will be thinking and writing about the beauty of birds and flowers, while her brother is robbing the nests and destroying the flowers.

A blacksmith brought up his son, to whom he was very severe, to his trade.
One day the old man was trying to harden a cold chisel, which he had made of foreign steel—but he could not succeed.
"Horsewhip it, father!" exclaimed the young one; "if that will not harden it, I don't know what will."

Whatever may be the end of man, there can be no doubt, when we see those trains gracefully sweeping the floors and streets, that the end of woman is—"Dust."

Oliver Logan thinks that any woman who can protect herself in a horse car is qualified to vote, and exclaims,
"Now girls, be men!" Rather a difficult command to obey.

Because a man who attends a flock of sheep is a shepherd, makes no reason that a man who keeps cows should be a cow-ard.

Humility is the low but broad and deep foundation of every virtue.

Miscellany.
For the Patriot.
NATURAL BRIDGE, VIRGINIA.
OCTOBER 22d, 1868.
Readers halt. Advance and promise that you will not make fun of a boy's way of thinking and acting, or refrain from reading what may follow. Remember, O, thou critic, threescore years ago, more or less, you indulged in puerile follies.— Shake not thy hoary hairs at me, but in the soothing strains of music, gently murmur the words of one Lemon:
"O would I were a boy again,
When life seemed formed of sunny years."

I have just cut my name in the solid rock, one niche above that of the immortal Washington. Now be generous, reader, and do not criticise hastily, or severely. My intentions were simply to see this far-famed natural curiosity. Perhaps, if feasible, I might for a little way, follow in the footsteps of the "Father of his Country," and place my name beneath where he carved his in the solid rock one hundred years ago. According to report, corroborated by the people in the neighborhood, the work was done with his own hand,— the hand that afterwards launched the Ship of State, fitted her for the long voyage, and finally piloted her out from the dangerous shoals and rocks, into the open sea of safety, peace and prosperity. Even he, was boyish enough to hazard that life, that belonged more to America than to himself, by attempting to place a name
"that was not born to die," above that of hundreds long since forgotten. Of course he succeeded, as success crowned all his efforts. With these thoughts, I entered this mighty arch. Such grandeur, such sublimity, such beauty, charmed away my discretion—"the better part of valor." Up, perpendicular, fifty feet, on the solid rock, the letters G. W. were visible. But there is another name above it. Whose is it? Stonewall Jackson's!! My Yankee blood began to circulate double quick.
The idea: the rebel above the patriot.
The "Father of his Country" beneath that of the unrepenting prodigal son.— Without further consideration, I crawled and pulled myself up the side of the bridge, unmindful of the precipice below.
At last it is reached. My feet are on the little crag, where Washington must have stood. My fingers trace the name, his fingers made. One look below, causes my head to swim, and limbs to tremble.
Placing my face flat against the rock a few moments, nerve and courage came back once more. Frenziedly I grasped another hold, and reached a foot higher.
With knife in one hand, I began to scratch the flinty rock. My first impression was to scratch out the name of that deluded soldier, Jackson; but finally let it alone, and cut my own above it. This work finished, I began to think of getting down.
It seemed an hour before I could get even a start. Not amid the fierce cannonading of Cedar Mountain; not in the midst of the shower of bullets at Bull Run, nor at the charge of Antietam, did destruction seem so inevitable. First, with the right foot, then with the left, I failed to gain a foothold. In ascending, I could see to select the largest cavities in the rock,—but now, the only places where the fingers and toes could possibly go, could not be recognized. A childhood spent among the Quincy ledges, made me an expert in climbing. Last summer I had no difficulty in ascending four or five high mountains,—but here the odds were against me; this side of the bridge being perpendicular from top to bottom.
For fear of exaggeration, I will refer to the narrative so often read at the Stone and Centre schools. Most every retired school boy, will remember in the Fourth Reader, the "Terrific Scene at the great Natural Bridge, Virginia." (Perhaps
the printer will remember it, and be so kind as to quote a little of it as a reminder. Unfortunately, I am a carpet bagger, and have no library with me.)

The piece referred to, can be found in the "National 4th Reader," "Fowler's 4th Reader," "Leavitt's 4th," and other school Readers. We quote only a portion of it as follows:
"The sun is darkened, and the boys have unconsciously uncovered their heads, as if standing in the presence-chamber of the Majesty of the whole earth. At last, this feeling begins to wear away; they begin to look around them;
they find that others have been there before them. They see the names of hundreds cut in the limestone buttments. A new feeling comes over their young hearts, and their knives are in their hands in an instant. 'What man has done man can do,' is their watchword, while they draw themselves up, and carve their names a

This youth was trying to place his name above that of Washington's. If he succeeded, his name is no longer visible.
There are hundreds below, but none can be discerned above the three names already mentioned. The height and dimensions of the bridge, are exaggerated.
It is but 225 feet from the lowest to the highest point. The county road passes over the top. One would not know they were passing over it, unless some one acquainted pointed it out to them, the foliage on the rock side is so thick. Pass to the right or left a few feet, and look over the precipice and you see Cedar Creek running in the cavern two hundred feet directly below. There seems to be no other way by which this stream could get out of the mountains, and no other place in the vicinity where a road could be constructed across the ravine. The top is one massive limestone rock, 40 or 50 feet thick and about the same distance from one side wall to the other. Here as at Niagara one is apt to be disappointed at first sight, but it afterwards seems to grow, and surpass all expectations.
A Virginia hotel is kept near the bridge.
It will take too long to narrate all the difficulties of my getting down, suffice it to say, I reached "terra firma," just as a party arrived, who had seen my condition from the top of the bridge. We all breathed free once again, and I learnt a lesson that will keep me out of dangerous places hereafter. One gentleman asked me if "I was a student of the Virginia University." I answered in the negative, but told him I was a Yankee.
"Give me your hand!" he exclaimed, and for some time a stranger might have thought we belonged to the society of Shakers.

After other conversation, I asked him if he was not on some General's staff, as I thought I had seen him at that capacity?
"No," says he, "I had a staff of my own."
He then made himself known as Gen.
W. G. Thomas, from Maine, now Brig.
Gen. in the regular army. He was a Major General, and I a "low private," in the same army, yet our interview was pleasant and social. He spoke of acquaintances at Quincy, and of a pleasant visit there.

I am now left alone beneath this great structure, seated on a natural bench of stone, with paper and pencil, communing with friends, both near and distant.
What an ancient cathedral! What a magnificent dome! What a spacious rotunda! What charming music fills the place! All the parts are distinctly heard, who can be the singers? There are the birds singing in the air; falling autumn leaves make up the alto; with the wind the tenor, needs no support; and the stream falling over the rocks makes base enough. Can modern quartette choirs make better harmony? And there is preaching within these walls. Who is there here can tell when this great temple was built, and who the architect? How strange that such a temple should not tell the world its age and founder! Let us search the walls, perhaps we may yet find His stamp. Look up, you don't look high enough. Ah! Yes! I see it now.
"His He, who built the mountains, made the seas, rivers, brooks, and rivulets;
made birds and me to look so insignificant beneath this dome. Yes, he made us all,
and made us all to speak his praise.
And there is the corner stone. It was laid "when the morning stars sang together."

foot above those of a hundred full-grown men, who have been there before them.
"They are all satisfied with this feat of physical exertion, except one, whose example illustrates perfectly the forgotten truth, that there is no royal road to intellectual eminence. This ambitious youth sees a name just above his reach,— a name that will be given in the memory of the world, when those of Alexander, Caesar and Bonaparte shall not be in oblivion. It was the name of Washington. Before he marched with Braddock to that fatal field, he had been there, and left his name a foot above all his predecessors.
"It was a glorious thought of the boy, to write his name side by side with that of the great "Father of his Country." He grasps his knife with a firmer hand; and, clinging to a little jutting crag, he cuts a niche into the limestone, about a foot above where he stands; he then reaches up and cuts another for his hands. "This a dangerous adventure; but as he puts his feet and hands into those niches, and draws himself up carefully to his full length, he finds himself a foot above every name chronicled in that mighty wall."

INNOCENCE. The pet lamb that strayed away off, years ago, from the rest of the flock, and hasn't been heard from since.

The more polished the society is,
the less formality there is in it.

She Saw The Doxology.
A little girl, ten years old, went up Mount Washington on horseback. She was ten then, but she lives till next summer she will be twenty. The ladies and gentlemen of our party dismounted upon the rugged summit, where the only vegetation that dared make an attempt to grow was a little stunted, pale green moss, and gazed at those lifted up from the world into limitless space. Below, stretching outwards in all directions, lay a deep silver sea of clouds, amid which lightnings were seen to dart and writhe like gilded serpents, and from which the thunder came up to the ear, peal after peal. We knew that down there rain was descending in a torrent; while on us who were above the clouds shone the sun in unobstructed and awful splendor. The eye wandered away like the dove from Noah's ark that found no place to rest her foot.

"Well, Lucy," said her father, breaking the silence, "there is nothing to be seen, is there?"
The child caught her breath, lifted her clasped hands, and responded reverently:
"O, papa, I see the doxology!"
"Yes, every where nature speaks to us and says—
"Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

WHERE IS YOUR BOY AT NIGHT?
The practice of allowing boys to spend their evenings in the streets is one of the most ruinous, dangerous and mischievous things possible. Nothing so speedily and surely marks their course downward.
They acquire, under the care of night, an unhealthy state of mind, vulgar and profane language, obscene practices, criminal sentiments, and a lawless, riotous bearing. Indeed it is in the streets, after nightfall, that boys generally acquire the education and the capacity for becoming rowdy, dissolute men. Parents, do you believe it? Will you keep your children home of nights, and see that their home is made pleasant and profitable?

CONCERNING LOVE.
True love—we mean now, true love in its bachelor state, not the Darby-and-Joan jog-trot—seldom survives in a man after thirty. The truest, faithfullest, hottest and most blissfully uncomfortable love of all is call-love, which seldom lasts after seventeen. All subsequent passions are a mere imitation of this—not half so absorbing, not a third so blind, not a tenth so pure.
The call outlives its caldium, gets the better of spooniness, laughs at it, and a few years later tries to produce it over again. But he never succeeds. The taurine passions are a mere stage play.
He may persuade himself that he is desperately in love with the dear girl, that she is an angel, that if she jilted him he would do something desperate,—go mad, emigrate, blow out his brains, perhaps;
but in his inner soul he knows that this is all a mere pretense; that his heart is not on a raging furnace, but tepid as mildest shaving-water; that his pulse would not bear her and beat him for a century dead—indeed, it does not even quicken now when she enters the room.
He sees her faults—none clearer; and he intends to correct them one day. There is nothing in his love like the wild ador-ing passion of the schoolboy; that comes but once in life, and the love which is bold enough to propose and callous enough to treat of settlements is a mere earthly imitation of it.—London Leader.

MY GRECIAN BEND.
A newly inducted policeman in New Orleans recently had a singular adventure with a fashionably dressed lady whom he met coming out of a dry goods store.
He had heard of shoplifters who carried off the most costly goods in a sack about their person. He was ambitious of distinction, and here was a chance for the coveted fame. The lady was evidently carrying a heavy load. She must be a shoplifter. There could be no doubt of it—he would arrest her!

"You are my prisoner!" he said laying his hand on her shoulder.
"What do you mean?" demanded the insulted lady.
"What's that you've got on your back—stolen goods?"
"Heaven! I never was so insulted.
No, sir, it's not stolen goods."
"I mean no offence, madam, but my duty compels me to examine it."
"Sir—villain—that's my—Grecian bend!"

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We"

THE REUNION. The second annual reunion of the graduates of the High School in this town, was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening last. The exercises of the evening were opened by a music by Gilmore's Band followed by a few remarks by Mr. Charles H. Porter, President of the Association, who introduced Melvin C. Light, the orator of the evening.

Mr. Light delivered a very able address which we intend to publish next week. It occupied about half an hour in the delivery and was attentively listened to by a large audience. A poem entitled "Memories of the Past," written by Mr. W. D. Kelly, a graduate, who is now a college student at Montreal, was read in his absence by Mr. George Randall.

The following officers, for the ensuing year, were then chosen:

President, Henry Lunt.
Vice President, James H. Mundy.
Treasurer, Henry F. Barker.
Recording Secretary, Helen M. Porter.
Corresponding Secretary, Henry C. Rodgers.

Directors, Miss Mary E. Dinigan, Mrs. Henry C. Rodgers, Miss S. Addie Southern, Miss Dora A. French, Miss H. A. French, Mr. Edward Wheeler, Mr. C. H. Porter, Mr. George Randall.

Refreshment tables were laid in the lower hall where the wants of the inner man were abundantly supplied, and the entertainments of the evening closed with dancing to the music of Gilmore's Band, six pieces, in which all participated who wished. The festivities of the evening concluded about one o'clock with Auld Lang Syne, all joining. Great credit is due the officers of the Association particularly to the President for the good taste with which every thing was arranged and the agreeable and pleasant manner in which it was carried to its close.

THE CATHOLIC FAIR. The Fair held by the Catholics of this place, closed very successfully on Tuesday evening last, after a continuance of fourteen afternoons and evenings. It has been very largely attended, and has met with a good pecuniary success.

SELLING CHEAP. We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Mr. Lombard, in another column. Owing to the pressure of rent, which has been raised three or more times over his head the present year, he has leased the store next to the Orthodox Church, where he intends to move in a few weeks. Until that time he will sell his entire stock at cost.

JURORS. Messrs. Albion Dearborn and Otis Rogers have been drawn to serve as Jurors at the December term of the Superior Court, Criminal Session, for Norfolk County.

RELIGIOUS. Rev. Herman Bisbee, of the Universalist Church of this town, will preach next Sunday afternoon, at 2 1/2 o'clock on, "Why I believe in future punishment."

General U. S. Grant arrived in Boston on Wednesday morning last, with two members of his staff, and is sojourning at the St. James Hotel. He had previously declined any public demonstration of welcome from the city authorities. He will remain four or five days.

BANK CONSOLIDATION. The capital and business of the First National Bank of Dorchester has been merged in that of the Continental Bank of Boston. The reasons leading to this change on the part of the Dorchester bank, are the lack of any considerable amount of local business, and the fact that the larger proportion of their discounts were of Boston notes. The capital stock of the Continental Bank is now $1,000,000, an increase of $500,000 which includes the amount of $150,000 the capital stock of the Dorchester bank.

ELECTORS. The Presidential electors in thirty-four States met and organized on Tuesday, in their respective State capitols. In Massachusetts, Hon. Joshua Sears declining, Hon. John A. Clifford was elected to preside, and Hon. William Whiting was chosen secretary. In Maine, Dr. Amos Nourse was chosen president, and Mr. S. Dodge secretary. All the colleges adjourned to Wednesday when they met and cast their votes, and elected messengers to carry them to Washington. In this State Capt. John G. B. Adams of Lynn was chosen messenger. After completing their official duties, the electors dined at the house of Hon. David Sears, General U. S. Grant also being a guest.

THRILLING SIGHT. In Belfast (Me.) a painter lately climbed by means of spurs to the top of a church spire, 160 feet high, and stood erect upon the cup until aphorograph was taken. It was a most daring and thrilling feat.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE PORTS IN BOSTON HARBOR. The following appropriations were recommended to Congress: Fort Warren, $100,000; Winthrop, $75,000; Independence $50,000.

JEFF DAVIS. Robert Ould, counsel for Jeff Davis, has made a motion in the United States Circuit Court at Richmond, to quash the indictment against Davis on the ground that the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution prescribes a mode for punishing participation in the rebellion, which is disfranchisement, and no other punishment is prescribed. The prosecuting attorney moved to postpone the motion until the latter part of the term.

THE FORTIETH CONGRESS.

The last session of the Fortieth Congress meets on Monday next, with the prospect of an active winter's work. The number and variety of important subjects which must be considered and ought to be acted upon is unusually large. The Republicans in this Congress have nearly absolute power; and can have no excuse for shifting their burdens upon the new administration.

Measures looking to the replacing of the public debt at a lower rate of interest, and to the resumption of specie payments, were proposed at the last session. Since the adjournment of Congress in the summer, the subject in all its bearings has been discussed among the people, and the country is as well prepared as it ever can be for a definite and settled policy. For this the capital and the labor of the country are waiting. Until this is secured, there can be neither confidence, stability, nor permanency; and all the business interests of the nation must rest on shifting sands.

Mr. Lynch's bill to provide for the gradual resumption of specie payments is assigned for consideration in the House on the second Tuesday in December; and bills of a similar purport are prepared to be laid before the Senate during the first week of the session.

With a view to the improvement of the public credit, and to removing some of the difficulties in the way of resumption, the National Manufacturers' Association have taken steps to bring the influence of public opinion to bear in favor of the immediate passage of certain collateral measures and the radical reform of the official service. Under the first head comes the Tax Bill. Under the second head is Mr. Jenckes's Civil-Service Bill, which, out of Congress, is the most popular measure which members have had the privilege of acting upon during the last twenty years. They also call for a still greater reduction in the government expenses; adapting the military and naval establishments to our present condition of peace and the indispensable needs of the service; the sweeping reform of the Indian Bureau; and the better disposition of the public lands; and the regulation of all the departments of the service with a view to the public advantage first and last.

FINANCIAL. Under a recent circular from the Treasury Department requiring financial agents to send in for redemption certain descriptions of legal tender notes a very large amount has been received. The Secretary of the Treasury's financial report will show an expenditure on account of the public debt of about $800,000,000, which includes redemptions, conversions, interest on the public debt, etc.

THE FASTEST 100 MILE PEDESTRIAN FEAT. The pedestrian Payne last week walked one hundred miles in nineteen hours, fifty-eight minutes and three seconds at the Skating Rink in Buffalo, New York. The track was about three feet in width, covered with tan bark, and the foothold was not the best. The feat was completed in twenty-three hours and a half. The stoppages amounted to three hours, thirty-one minutes and fifty seconds, making the actual walking time nineteen hours, fifty-eight minutes and three seconds—the fastest time in which the feat of walking one hundred miles has ever been performed.

MASSACHUSETTS CONSUMES nearly twenty-eight million dollars' worth of liquor a year.

THE STATE FUNDS. A committee of the Executive Council who have made the annual examination of the notes and securities held by the Commonwealth report that all sale securities. The sums invested in them by the State amount to $11,914,986, but they have largely increased in value, and are now worth $13,655,262. There is on hand over a million of dollars which the Treasurer has been unable to lend in a satisfactory manner. Four-fifths of this sum accumulated the past year.

THE HOWLAND WILL CASE. A decision has finally been reached in the famous Howland Will Case. The plaintiff, formerly Miss Hetty Robinson, of New Bedford, is already the richest woman in the United States, owning property of the value of six millions of dollars. She claims in this suit the estate of her Aunt, valued at two and a half millions of dollars, on the ground that there was an agreement that the first to die should leave her property to the other. A document to this effect was produced in Court by the plaintiff. The defense took the ground that the agreement produced was a forgery, and the Court came to the conclusion that there was no proof of any such agreement as that alleged by the plaintiff. The case will probably go to the Supreme Court at Washington.

DITCHING is something of a feature in farming operations in the West, especially in Ohio. The work is often performed under supervision of the county authorities. The Commissioners of Paulding County, Ohio, have established a ditch eleven miles long, and one has been completed in Wood County, twelve miles long, at a cost of $75,000.

THE LAWS OF LIFE. A monthly, published by Austin, Jackson & Co., Danville, New York.

We are always glad to notice this Journal as one which will prove of real value in families. The December number is on our table, containing interesting and instructive articles on the Formation of Character, Marriage, Why do we Breathe? How to Treat Consumptives, Home Prescriptions and Suggestions, and many very instructive communications besides.

The publishers advertise to send sample numbers free to any who will send stamp to pay postage.

BOSTON CORRESPONDENCE.

BOSTON, DEC. 1, 1868.

The year is waning fast. The last of its twelve books opens to-day. Soon we shall write 1869. The figures look strangely as we see them now on the illustrated Almanacs and the new publications in the bookstores. November went as she came, in clouds and storm. Thanksgiving week, however, will have to pass for our good cheer. Poultry was high, but there seemed to be an abundance. Twenty-eight thousand attended the theatres of this city on that day—larger audiences we fear than the churches saw—leaving $15,000 behind them. This don't look much like "hard times." It is a great mistake to suppose that the large amounts thus squandered come from the wealthy. Our own observation is quite different. Horace Greeley in his "Recollections," speaking of the theatre confirms this same view.

Gough last night gave his lecture on "Circumstances," a fragmentary, mirth-provoking, and yet instructive exercise. The few notes we took only recalled Dr. Storrs' remark, "Phonography pants to parallel." Mr. Gough's utterance is very rapid, and his mimic powers keep one's attention riveted. The references he made to his own history were very thrilling, and his occasional appeals in behalf of Total Abstinence very effective. The New England Convention of Temperance men this week promises to be a rousing affair. Much good may it do.

One of the loci classica here in this Modern Athens is "the old corner" bookstore. Here, on the second floor, H. A. Brown & Co. have opened a stock of $300,000 worth of elegant holiday presentation books, varying from fifty cents to $300 each. Mr. B. is a Farm School graduate, and is a bright example of what industry and perseverance can do for a man. He has crossed the Atlantic thirty times, and lately made himself at home in the Art Galleries of Europe, so that he is well fitted to minister to the tastes of the art loving public.

The Municipal election awakens but little interest. A third party is rising, called the Workingmen's party, which may lessen the strength of the regular candidates, if it does not defeat an election.

DUO ALA.

DEATH FROM THE EXHALATIONS OF QUINCES. One of the papers of Lyons, France, records the occurrence of death by apoplexy, suffered by a lady who slept in a room in which were also kept a quantity of quinces. The effect of the odor emitted seems to be analogous to those produced by the odors of some flowers. In this case, according to scientific evidence, the air of the room was largely vitiated with a peculiarly suffocating perfume, and a very considerable amount of both carbonic acid and carbonic oxide gas. The room in question was always used as a bedroom; no fire had been lighted in it, nor was there any other discernible cause for the death of this lady found but the exhalations of the fruit.

The Pottsville (Pa.) Standard, in speaking of the large amount of coal in and ready for the market, predicts that in a short time the price there will be down to five dollars per ton. Speculators alone are responsible for the high prices now demanded.

A gentleman has recently bought a whole square in a central location in Philadelphia, and is about to build 186 handsome dwelling-houses, with large yards. The entire cost will be more than $900,000.

THE BOSTON JOURNAL. Reader, your attention is called to this excellent and popular newspaper,—the favorite of New England. Few fresher can be better blest through the long winter evenings, than by a copy of this able and reliable Journal. Read the advertisement on the next page carefully, and then go and leave your order at Follett's Periodical Store, and you will be surely on the road to intelligence, if not to bliss.

MR. EZRA CORNELL, the celebrated founder of the Cornell University, at Ithaca, (N. Y.) announces publicly that young men desirous of paying their own way in obtaining an education, will be given employment upon the large farm connected with the Institution, or in its machine shop, where they will be engaged in making tools, machinery, models, and patterns. Better exercise than rowing or football, more remunerative, and conducive to good habits and morals.

PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL. The December number contains a great variety of interesting matter, illustrated and otherwise, of which the following is a sample:—Henri Rochefort, editor of the Paris Lanterne; Dr. Francis Williamson; Frau Marie Simon and her work on the battlefield; Archbishop Manning; the English Roman Primates; Rev. Dr. Stockton; Phrenology in the School-Room. A new Volume, the 49th, commences with the next number. Subscribe now. Terms, $3 a year, or 30 cents a number. Address S. R. Wells, 389 Broadway, New York.

A SKILFUL PICKPOCKET. Mr. E. L. Paine, of East Randolph, had his pocket picked in the Fitchburg Depot Saturday evening last, in a very adroit manner. Awaiting from the train which had just entered the depot, he was attempting to put on his overcoat, when a well-dressed young man offered to assist him. The offer was accepted, and Mr. Paine proceeded to leave the depot. On going out he found that the lining of his undercoat had been disturbed, and an investigation showed that his friend had cut through his undercoat and abstracted a memorandum book containing $800, with which he was about to pay off workmen in his employ.

For the Patriot.

Passing out of Culpepper, our attention was called to the little cemetery, where rest a thousand Federal dead. The Government are still improving these grounds, and showing much taste in its care over all the national cemetery. The white head boards appearing above the green mounds, arranged in strict military order, all surrounded by a white fence, with black trimmings, makes a picture of neatness, rarely seen by a Southern traveller. Twenty-seven miles more brought us to another Court House, Gordonsville. Here we waited twenty minutes for the Richmond train. We were somewhat amused, by a "right smart heap of colored individuals" who darkened the windows, bearing on their heads large platters, and exercising their lungs, making sundry proclamations, to wit, "Tali's Johny will de hoeake right from the pan." "Dis way Boss for yer coffee, red hot and still a heating." "Nice fried chicks just out ov de griddle." "Here yer tater pies, and matatoes." Ham and eggs, chestnuts and chine spins nice and fine for de gentlemen." "Pies and cakes only a levy."

The strange accent and enthusiasm of these hucksters needs to be seen and heard once in a lifetime. This sort of traffic is the principal business of the town, which like most of the places marked C. H. on the map of Virginia, reminds one of the post office at the confederate cross roads. We passed on through many large plantations, and tobacco fields drained by the Rappahannock, Rapidan and their tributaries. These streams gave life, the foliage beauty, and the distant mountains of the Blue Ridge grandeur to the landscape spread out before us.

A dozen miles more found us in the woods. Considering that for a hundred miles we had not seen any, the change was quite acceptable. The Fed's and Confeds when they were not fighting each other, made war on the woods and fences. Annihilation was the consequence.

At Keswick four trains met, one from Tennessee, one from Washington, one from W. Virginia and another from Richmond. Here too we left the coal country and entered a mountainous region. On the very top of one of the highest hills, we saw an ancient appearing house, which proved to be Monticello the home of Thomas Jefferson. Just the place to get large views, either physical or mental. Just the spot to hatch the grand idea "all men are created free and equal." Here on the Fourth of July, 1826, the fiftieth Anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, Jefferson breathed his last. The same day John Adams expired at Quincy. A plain monument with an inscription made according to his request marks his resting place. Relic robbers have broken and carried away a part of it. Enough remains to enable the visitor to read.

Thomas Jefferson, Author of the Declaration of Independence, and Founder of the Virginia University. This university still exists at Charlottesville, three miles farther south. Before the war it had five hundred students, but most of them entered the rebel army and few have returned. Charlottesville is called a city in Virginia, but it does not have as many inhabitants as Quincy.

At five o'clock in the evening we reached Lynchburg the great Southern depot for tobacco, and the largest city but two in the State. Gen. Lee was trying to get to this place, when his retreat was cut off by Sheridan's Cavalry and forced to surrender at Appomattox Court House, twenty miles out on the "south side road." We climbed up through the city at an angle of forty-five degrees, for a third of a mile or so, until we reached the Court House. The city covers a hill much like "President's Hill," only much larger every way, with the James river and canal at its base. The following day we strolled about the city and found most every body very busy chewing tobacco.

At five we started in a canal packed up river. Although a slow, we found it a very pleasant way to travel. Sometimes in the James river, and then in the canal, the scene was constantly shifting. When it became too dark and cold to sit out on deck, we gathered around the stove in the cabin. A young enthusiast just from the West, occupied the first half hour in describing Western life, then a returned Californian took a hand at it. One of Stonewall Jackson's Generals had many rebel stories to relate, concerning the "lost cause."

"Music in the air" brought us all out on deck again to listen to melodious strains. We discovered that it came from a "colored cabin." The colored men remained until nearly midnight, unmindful of the cold, or the odor. All the colored deck hands and passengers were gathered together, and made a choir that would do credit to our city churches. They had all parts and among them some remarkable voices. They seemed to be a family of Blind Toms, and made more harmony and less noise than Morris Bros. or Buckleys. They did not repeat as much as negro singers do generally. The interest that all on board had in the singing, went to show that it was no useless gathering. They selected religious hymns mostly, using their own appropriate tunes. The singing over we retired to our bunks, and rode on into the mountains.

At four o'clock in the morning we stepped off at Wilson's mills. We asked the gentleman who came for the mail bag, if he would let us remain in his store until daylight, when we could see where to go. The hospitable Virginian replied "no, as he was keeping old bachelor's hall and had no room." We thanked him and asked him to show us the road, which he did, but failed to direct us how to cross the stream. Failing to find any crossing he forced it, and thus took a slight but before daylight. Losing our way several times we were about giving up in despair. The crowing of a rooster was the means of leading us out of the wilderness. The singing of that noble bird never sounded so sweet before. By its aid we found our way to the tavern. In about a half an hour we were able by ringing all the bells in and around the house to awake Sambo, get admittance, and dry our feet at the grate in the parlor. After breakfast we walked out a few steps from the house to see the Great Natural Bridge of Virginia.

SNOW IN MAINE. In the upper portions of Piscataqua county, Me., the snow is said to be very deep and badly drifted. Between Monson and Moosehead Lake, it piled up even with the fences, and it is with difficulty that stage teams can force their way through the drifts.

THE KINGSTON MURDER. The trial of Deacon Samuel M. Andrews, of Kingston, for the murder of Cornelius Holmes, of the same town, on the 27th of May last, began on Tuesday forenoon, 1st inst., at Plymouth. Attorney-General Allen and District Attorney Pierce appeared for the government. Messrs. G. A. Somers of Boston, and Charles G. Davis of Plymouth, are the prisoner's counsel. It is understood that the defence will rest on the plea of insanity. The evidence thus far taken has merely put before the jury the facts in regard to the murder which were known to the public at the time.

Rev. Petroleum V. Nasby delivered his world renowned lecture, entitled "Cussed be Canaan," at the Town Hall, last evening, to a small audience.

General Grant held a public reception at the St. James Hotel, in Boston, yesterday afternoon. Crowds of ladies and gentlemen gathered to shake the General by the hand.

CHOWDER. Mr. Joseph T. French wishes us to inform our readers that he will serve this afternoon, an excellent chowder for the supply of individuals and families.

—OF THE—
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Chartered by Special Act of Congress,
APPROVED, JULY 25, 1868.

CASH CAPITAL $1,000,000
PAID IN FULL.
Branch Office!

FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING,
PHILADELPHIA.

Where the general business of the Company is transacted, and to which all general correspondence should be addressed.

OFFICERS:
CLARENCE H. CLARK, President.
JAY COOK, Chairman Finance and Executive Committee.
HENRY D. COOKE, Vice-President.
EMERSON W. PLET, Secretary and Actuary.

This Company, National in its character, offers,
by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means
of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium, being largely reduced,
are made as favorable to the insured as those of
the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Natives, Dwellers and the misadventures which the latter are
so apt to cause the Policyholder.

Several new and attractive tables are now presented which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the "INCORPOR-ATED POLICY" and the "PREMIUM POLICY." In the former, the policyholder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death,
but will receive, if living after a period of a few years, an annuity equal to ten per cent (10 per cent) of the par of his policy. In the latter,
the Company agrees to return to the insured the
total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

The attention of persons contemplating insur-
ing their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the several advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

Circulars, Pamphlets and full particulars given on application to the Branch Office of the Company, or to the
NEW ENGLAND GENERAL AGENCY, UNDER THE DIRECTION OF
E. A. ROLLENS,
Of the Board of Directors.

Miscellany.

MY HUSBAND'S SECOND WIFE.

My husband came tenderly to my side.
"Are you going out this evening love?"
"Of course I am."

I looked down complacently at my dress of pink crape, dew-dropped over with crystal and the trails of pink azaleas that caught up its folds here and there. A diamond bracelet encircled one round white arm, and a little cross emblazoned fidelity at my throat. I had never looked better, and I felt a sort of girlish pride as my eyes met the fairy reflection in the mirror.

"Come, Gerald, make haste! Why, you haven't begun to dress yet!"
Where were my wifely instincts, that I did not see the laggard, down look in his features—the fabled light in his eyes?
"I can't go to-night, Madeline—I am not well enough."

"You are never 'well enough' to oblige me, Gerald. I am tired of being put off with such excuses."

He made no answer, but dropped his head in his hands, on the table before him.
"Oh, come, Gerald," I urged petulantly,
"it is so awkward for me to go alone always."

He shook his head listlessly.
"I thought, perhaps, you would be willing to remain at home with me, Madeline."

"Men are selfish!" I said, plaintively;
"and I am all dressed. Claudia took half an hour for my hair. I dare say you'll be a great deal quieter without me than if, it is you are determined not to go."

No answer again.
"Well, if you choose to be sullen, I can't help it, I said lightly, as I turned and went out of the room, adjusting my boquet-holder, the tube-roses and heliotropes seeming to distill incense at every motion.

Was I heartless and cruel? Had I ceased to love my husband? From the bottom of my heart I believed that I loved him as truly and tenderly as ever wife did; but I had been so spoiled and petted all my brief, selfish life, that the better instincts were, so to speak, entombed alive.

I went to the party, and had my fill of adulation and homage, as usual. The hours seemed to glide away, shod with roses, and winged with music and perfume; and it was not until wearied with dancing, I sought a momentary refuge in the half-lighted tea-room, that I heard words wakening me, as it were from a dream.

"Gerald Glen!"
I could not well be mistaken in the name—it was scarcely common place enough for that. They were talking—two or three business-like looking gentlemen, in the hall without—and I could catch now and then a fugitive word or phrase.

"Fine enterprising young fellow!"—
"Great pity!" "Totally ruined," "Bees & McMoran say!" "Reckless extravagance of his wife!"

All these vague fragments I heard;
and then some one said: "And what is he going to do now?" "Poor fellow! I am sorry; but he should have calculated his income and expenses better."

"Or his wife should. Oh, these women! they are at the bottom of all a man's troubles!"

I rose hurriedly up, with my heart beating tumultuously beneath the azaleas, and went back to the lighted saloon. Mr.
Albany Moore was waiting to claim my hand for the next dance.

"Are you ill Mrs. Glen? How pale you look!"
"I am not very well. I wish you would have my carriage called, Mr.
Moore."

For I now felt that home was the proper place for me.
Hurried by some unaccountable impulse, I sprang out the moment the carriage wheels touched the curbstone, and rushed up to my husband's room. The door was locked, but I could see a light shining under the threshold. I knocked wildly and persistently.

"Gerald, dear Gerald! for heaven's sake let me in!"
Something fell on the marble hearthstone within, making a metallic click, and my husband opened the door a little way. I had never seen him look so pale before, or so rigid, yet so determined.

"Who are you?" he demanded, wildly.
"Why cannot you leave me in peace?"
"It is I, Gerald—your Madeline—your own little wife."

"And I caught from his hand the pistol he was trying to conceal in his breast—its mate lay on the marble hearth, under the mantel—and flung it out of the window."

"Gerald, would you have left me?"
"I would have escaped! he cried, still half-delirious to all appearances.—"Debt —disgrace—misery—her reproaches! I would have escaped them all."

His head fell, like that of a weary child, on my shoulder. I drew him gently to a sofa, and soothed him with a thousand murmured words—a thousand mute caresses! For had it not been all my fault?

And through all the long weeks of fear that followed, I nursed him with unwavering care and devotion. I had but one thought—one desire—to redeem myself in his estimation; to prove to him that I was something more and higher than the mere butterfly of fashion I had hitherto shown myself!

Well, the March winds had howled themselves away into their mountain fastnesses; the brilliant April rain drops were dried on bough and spray; and now the apple blossoms were tossing their fragrant billows of pinky bloom in the deep blue air of latter May.

Where are we now?
It was a picturesque little villa, not far out of Pittsburg, furnished very like a magnificent baby-house. Gerald sat in a cushioned easy chair in the garden, just where he could glance through the window at me, working busily with my needle.

"What an industrious fairy it is!" he said, smiling sadly.

"Well, you see I like it! It's a great deal better than those sonatas on the piano!"

"Who would ever have thought you would make so notable a housekeeper?" I laughed gleefully—I had all a child's delight in being praised.

"Are you not going to Miss Delancey's croquet party?" he pursued.

"No; what do I care for croquet parties? I'm going to finish your shirts and you'll read aloud to me."

"Madeline, I want you to answer me one question?"
"What is it?"
"What have you done with your diamonds?"

"I sold them long ago; they paid several heavy bills, besides settling half a year's rent here."

"But, Madeline, you were so proud of your diamonds."

"I was once; now they would be the bitterest reproach my eyes could meet.
Oh, Gerald, had I been less vain, and thoughtless and extravagant—"

I checked myself, and a robin, singing in the perfumed depths of apple blossoms, took up the dropped current of sound.

"That's right, little redbreast," said my husband, half-jokingly, "talk Lerdown! She has forgotten that our past is dead and gone, and that we have turned over a new page in the book of existence!"

Madeline, do you know how I feel sometimes, when I sit and look at you?
"No!"

"Well, I feel like a widower who has married again!"
My heart gave a little superstitious jump.

"Like a widower who has married again, Gerald!"
"Yes; I can remember my first wife—a brilliant, thoughtless child, without any idea beyond the gratification of present whims—a spoiled plaything! Well, that little Madeline has vanished away into the past somewhere; she has gone away to return to me no more, and in her stead,
I behold my second wife, a thoughtful, tender woman, whose watchful love surrounds me like an atmosphere; whose character grows more noble and develops itself into new depth and beauty every day!"

I was kneeling at his side now, with my cheek upon his arm, and my eyes looking into his.

"And which do you love best, Gerald,
the first or second wife?"
"I think the trials and vicissitudes through which we have passed are welcome indeed, since they have brought me, as their harvest fruits, the priceless treasure of my second wife!"

That was what Gerald answered me—the sweetest words that ever fell upon my ear.

EYESIGHT.

At the age of seventy years a name honored and revered on both continents wrote—"I am now writing this with my eyes closed, by the aid of a machine, and

SELF-GOVERNMENT.

There is little gained and much lost by losing one's temper. Anger unbalances us, and makes us the prey of the sport of the less irritable. We say and do things under the influence of anger which we afterwards regret. Anger lessens our power and lowers our dignity. When the sacred writer says, "He that governeth himself is fit to sit with the king," he means the government of temper. The power to quell our raising passion, to say to the provoked spirit, "Peace! be still!" this is a mighty and noble power. This brings man sovereignly to the judgment-seat of his highest reason and conscience.

The Proverbs have it, that "a soft answer turneth away wrath"—that "a contentious man destroyeth the peace of a household." A Christian temper—peaceful, charitable, kindly, considerate and forgiving—what else can give so great a charm to character, or such lustre to the soul? The atmosphere of such a temper is fruitful of blessedness. There all is sunshine and blossom of spirit. There are no social frosts, nor clouds, nor storms. Childhood is softened by its example, and old age under its influence reveals the freshness and mellowness of youth.

O, that the Angel of Peace might visit every home of man, and sweeten the contentious tempers that make so much daily life a wearying, withering curse.

SOMETHING OF A CLIMATE.

Dan Marble was once strolling along the wharves in Boston, when he met a tall gaunt looking figure, a "digger" from California, and got into conversation with him.

"Healthy climate, I suppose?"

"Healthy! it ain't anything else. Why, stranger, there you can choose any climate you like, hot or cold, and that without 'travelling' more than fifteen minutes. Jest think of that! the next cold morning when you get out of bed, there's a mountain there, the Sary Nevada they call it, with a variety on each side of it, one hot and one cold. Well, get on the top of that mountain with a double barreled gun and you can without moving, kill either summer or winter game, jest as you wish!"

"What! have you ever tried it?"

"Tried it! I often, and should have done pretty well, but for one thing."

"Well, what was that?"

"I wanted a dog that would stand both climates. The last dog I had froze his tail off while pointing on the summer side. He didn't get entirely out of the winter side, you see—true as you live."

Marble sloped.

FANCY BREADS.

Persons who are accustomed to breakfast at restaurants will be at no loss to account for the dyspepsia that has so long been the scourge of the American people. Hot bread, as everybody ought to know, is highly indigestible, and never should be eaten under any circumstances, unless as an alternative with death by starvation. Observe the feeders at restaurant tables of a morning, and you will see that eight out of every ten, or thereabouts, prefer hot bread to cold. A majority of them order two or three kinds of fancy bread, all hot, and all these are soaked thoroughly with butter by the bolters of them, so as to render them, if possible, more indigestible than they were as served. In England dyspepsia is absolutely unknown among the agricultural classes, who live much upon bacon and well-laked cakes, or bread eaten cold. In some parts of the Western States nearly every farmer and farm-laborer is a victim to it, and there is good reason to believe that this is mainly owing to the universal hot dough-cakes which form the staple of country fare in those districts, and to the collateral abomination in the way of fancy hot-cakes gorged by the farmers on festive occasions.

Every day is a little life, and our whole life is but a day repeated.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1868.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We"

ACCIDENT. We are sorry to learn that Mr. Hiram Nourse, an industrious young man engaged in carting coal for Mr. Adams, on Friday of last week, was thrown from his wagon, and the seat fell upon him, breaking his right leg, near the hip. From late accounts he is quite comfortable.

THE NEW DEPOTS. These handsome ornaments to our village are fast drawing to completion. It is now thought that they will be ready for use in a few weeks—about New Year's. That portion of the old depot now used as a ticket office has been sold, and is to be removed to the Dingman lot, on Sea Street, nearly opposite the residence of Mr. Rufus Foster.

DISCHARGED. Eugene Crathelle, who was arrested on the fifth of October last, for killing Alexander Garvin, while in a drunken row, on Liberty street, and bound over in the sum of $3000 for trial at the November term of the Superior Court has been acquitted, as no bill was found against him, as he did the deed in self-defense.

ACCIDENT. George Keith, son of H. A. Keith, principal of the Quincy High School, narrowly escaped from a severe accident on Saturday last. It appears that he was getting into a stone wagon, in front of his residence on Hancock street, when he slipped and his legs became caught between the spokes of the wheel. It was first thought that he had broken both legs but we are happy to say that no bones were broken. He was badly bruised, but is now doing well.

SATISFACTION. We would call the attention of all lovers of good sausages to the advertisement of Messrs. Newcomb & Co. in our columns. Mr. Newcomb is a citizen of this place, well known to many of our readers—formerly having charge of the National Sailors' Home—and worthy the confidence of our people. He is furnishing some of the first houses in Boston, and we are happy to say that his sausages are excellent, as we have had an opportunity of testing them. All orders left at Messrs. Whitney & Nash's will receive prompt attention.

CONGRESS. The Third Session of the Fortieth Congress opened with a rather dull day.

The number of members present in the House was 164, all leading men of both parties being in their seats. Several members of the Diplomatic Corps were in attendance. A large number of prominent persons from the North were on the floor, and Mrs. Colfax was among the spectators. The colored member elect from Louisiana—a young and intelligent-looking man—occupied a seat on a lounge in the House, and was literally the "observed of all observers." He expects his credentials in a day or two, and will then present his claims to the House, though he really has no chance of getting a seat, as the giving of it to him would recognize the validity of the recent election in Louisiana.

The Senate had forty-eight members present. Mr. Sumner introduced a bill for the resumption of specie payment on the 4th of July next; a resolution in favor of cheap ocean postage; and a resolution expressing sympathy with the revolution in Spain, and exhorting the people of that country to take advantage of the opportunity to abolish slavery.

THE KINGSTON MURDER CASE. The trial of Andrews, the Kingston murderer, has been concluded by a verdict of guilty of manslaughter, and a sentence of twenty years imprisonment. The evidence for the prosecution aimed to show that the killing was deliberate and mercenary; that in the pocket of Holmes were traces of Andrews' bloody fingers, and that a pocket book was missing therefrom which contained the will in favor of Andrews offered for probate by him next day. The theory of the defense has been that Andrews inherits insanity from several ancestors, and that he killed Mr. Holmes in self-defense against an indecent assault. Abundant testimony was given as to the insanity of Andrews' mother, at the time of his birth and afterwards; and the insanity of many other of his relatives in the last two generations. The prisoner himself testified very minutely as to the killing, averring the entire absence of premeditation. The arguments were made on Tuesday, and the jury returned a verdict as above stated after an absence of four hours.

INSTALLATION. A special communication of Rural Lodge, for the Installation of Officers, was held at Masonic Hall, on Thursday evening last. Each member was entitled to one ticket, which admitted one lady, making quite a large gathering. After the Installation the assembly partook of a bountiful supper provided by the Lodge.

BETTER TRADING IN THE WHOLESALE MARKET. At the St. Albans butter market on Tuesday, on account of the storm, but little butter was brought in. Prices ranged from 35 to 43 cents, according to quality.

NOW IS THE TIME TO REPLENISH YOUR WARDROBE. Bennett & Co., 14 and 15 Dock Square, Boston, previous to their removal to 456 Washington street, offer their entire stock of men's and boys' clothing at greatly reduced prices. Their assortment of goods is reputed to be one of the largest, most perfect and complete in the market, and offers rare inducements to purchasers. They tender—through their advertisement, which appears in another column of our paper to-day—the congratulations of the season to a discriminating public, and invite a call.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

President Johnson's last annual message was sent into Congress on Wednesday last. In the Senate it was only partly read when Senator Conness moved that the further reading of the document be dispensed with, owing to the severe language of the President upon the reconstruction policy of Congress. The motion created a sharp debate which was only ended by an adjournment.

The message is too lengthy for our columns and we shall only be able to give a small abstract. The President says, the reconstruction acts have substantially failed, and proved pernicious in their results, and there seems no reason why they should remain on the statute books. He says that experience has demanded the repeal of the Civil Tenure bill. He recommends also that the act of March 2, 1867, depriving the President of power to issue military orders except through army headquarters, be repealed, and all other obnoxious laws restricting executive powers.

He gives much attention to the financial question, and his statistics and observations are worthy of general consideration. The survey made of the several departments and of our foreign relations will be read with interest, and will show that the condition of the country is generally favorable.

In concluding his message the President recommends the following amendments to the Constitution of the United States. First—For the election of President and Vice President by the direct vote of the people, and making them ineligible for re-election. Second—For a distinct designation of the office of President in case of the death of the President and Vice President. Third—For election of Senators by the people. Fourth—For limitations of the term of years of officers of Federal judges.

How People Kill themselves by Inches.

Sudden sickness we cannot always ward off; but there are several ways in which people kill themselves by inches. And one way is, by eating unwholesome food. When I think of the indigestible stuff that goes down folks' throats every day, I wonder that a single one of us is able to stand upon his feet, or go about his work. Why, just consider the monstrous lead pies that are made and eaten daily! Consider the moist and flabby dough that we wickily cram into our stomachs to clog and worry them! Consider the sweets that we suck to our ruin! Consider the soggy cheese that we bolt—I had almost said by the square foot! Consider the green tea with which we torture our nerves! Consider the vile liquids with which we poison our blood! There are such things as good beer, and light wholesome wines—but the alcoholic compounds which are sold and drunk,—aye, very drunk!—all about, under the name of whiskey, and rum, and brandy, and gin, are nasty, maddening, and altogether damnable; and he who sells them, knowing them to be poisonous adulterations, is little better than a murderer.

Above all, consider the bad bread!—There is no excuse for having bad bread; and yet how little really good home-made bread there is! There is plenty of abominable saleratus bread. There is plenty of dyspeptic short-bread. But how little nice, light, "riz" bread do women know how to make!

Now you, Sam—listen! Before you ever say to Sally—"Sally, will you marry me?" Do you be sure and ask her this: "Sally, can you make good bread?"

PLANCHETTE.

For the Patriot.

CLEAR THE TRACK.

Why won't folks please to clear off the snow on the sidewalks in front of their houses? And where they are too poor, or too indifferently to do this, and where there are no houses, why won't the Selectmen, who have done so many good things for us during the last year, run a snow-plough along the sidewalks, as is done in a great many towns?

It is a little too bad to compel us poor folks, who haven't any horses, to walk in the middle of the street all winter long.

Last Sunday, mother and I wanted to go to church, but we couldn't, because there was no path, and we neither of us had any rubber boots.

Won't Mr. Eaton and Mr. Taylor and Mr. Underwood just please to see that the sidewalks are made passable for the rest of the winter? BELINDA.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS. Messrs. Macy & Butler, 90 and 92 Tremont street, Boston, are opening a rich and large assortment of goods suitable for Holiday presents—to which they invite public attention—consisting of ladies' and gentlemen's jewelry—embracing almost every description, French and German Goods, etc. Also, a large addition to their former supply of fancy articles, adapted to juvenile tastes and wants: the whole comprising a choice and rare collection of articles from which to select a Holiday gift or present. See card in another column.

POLITICAL. The rolls of the House at the present session will bear the names of 223 Representatives, including the delegations from Georgia and Alabama. Four members of the present House have died, two from Pennsylvania, one from Louisiana, and one from Arkansas. The Senate rolls will contain the names of 66 members, including the delegation from Georgia and Alabama. The House agreed on Thursday by a vote of 91 to 75 to take a recess from the 21st of this month to the 5th of January. The Senate will probably try to shorten this by three or four days, but are likely in the end to agree with the House.

Blue satin bills of fare, with gold fringe are new aids to digestion.

For the Patriot.

OUR SIDEWALKS.

The condition of our sidewalks after a snow-storm like that of last Saturday, is almost without a parallel. The inconvenience to lady pedestrians often amounts to well nigh a blockade. This was apparent in the sparsity of ladies at the morning service at our churches last Sabbath. Now, why can't we have what other large villages have—a snow-plough or triage, passed along the principal sidewalks by horse power, after every considerable snow storm? A few dollars thus expended would pay most liberal profits of comfort and convenience.

Again, we would suggest the imperative necessity of better facilities for crossing our streets.

Bridging the gutters opposite Town Hall, and providing stone crossings at a few important points on Hancock street, would make our streets fordable at all times and relieve us from the odium which attaches to certain Dutch villages described in Irving's history of New York. Who'll move in the matter? Will our Highway Surveyors, or shall the hat be passed? Let's do something.

PEDESTRIAN.

THE INCOME TAX. The Report of the Secretary of the Treasury will show that in the fiscal year of 1868 there were 1107 persons who paid an income tax in the first Massachusetts District; 1684 in the Second District; 4916 in the Third District; 3425 in the Fourth District; 1744 in the Fifth District; 2503 in the Sixth District; 2240 in the Seventh District; 1754 in the Eighth District; 919 in the Ninth District; 1395 in the Tenth District; and an aggregate in the State of 21,687; the aggregate last year was 23,572. The returns from each of the other New England States are rather smaller than those of last year, which is due in part at least to the fact that some of the incomes on monthly returns are not included.

THE LONDON TIMES of the 10th inst. has a long editorial on the message of President Johnson. Alluding to the Alabama negotiations it says: "The English Government show every desire to make an arrangement, and it is difficult to believe that the President's cabinet, or a hostile majority in Congress will throw over a settlement arrived at after long and laborious negotiations."

THE NAVIGATION on the lakes, rivers and canals in New York and Canada has closed for the season.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD. The merchants of the Western cities are preparing with their accustomed promptness and enterprise, to take advantage of the new avenues of commerce which the speedy opening of the Pacific Railroad will afford. The shortest time from Liverpool or London to China at present is sixty days. By the Union Pacific Railroad via Boston or New York and San Francisco it is claimed that the time will be reduced to thirty-five days.

A PRESENT TO GEN. GRANT. The celebrated Sanitary Fair, Oe, weighing upwards of 4000 lbs., and now on exhibition in Boston was tendered to General Grant, on Thursday, and is to be served at the inauguration dinner in March next at Washington, under the supervision of the Republican Central Committee.

A SUIT OF SABLES. As winter approaches the question of procuring a "Set of Furs" becomes an important one in the minds of multitudes of the fair sex. Furs, whether considered as articles of luxury or comfort, are always fashionable, taking rank with diamonds and silks as objects of desire. Those whose means cannot command the most costly kinds are compelled to content themselves with cheaper materials or imitations, but furs of some sort almost every one will have. The omnipotent laws of fashion require it, and accordingly the earth is ransacked from pole to pole to supply the demand; every sort of fur-bearing animal is hunted, and the warm covering which Nature gave to protect him from the cold, is converted into garments for the dames and damsels of our northern climes. No where is this fact more vividly realized than on a visit to the store of Messrs. E. R. CLEVELAND & Co., No. 12, Tremont Row, and an examination of their exceedingly rich and extensive stock of Fur Goods. Their assortment embraces every variety. Sables of the most costly kinds; Ermines whiter than snow; the Fur Seal, very beautiful and stylish; Astrachan and Caracul; with the more common Fitch and Squirrel, and many other kinds which would require a column to specify and describe. All these are made up with care and skill, and in the most fashionable and approved styles. There are garments suited to all ages, from the toddling infant to the portly matron; and to all degrees of wealth or poverty, from the millionaire to the servant girl. Look over the list in our columns, and you will be sure to find something to suit your means or taste. Moreover, in trading with Messrs. Cleveland & Co., you may depend upon receiving precisely what you pay for; you will neither be deceived in the quality nor cheated in the price.

It is scarcely necessary to remind gentlemen that Christmas and New Year's Holidays are near at hand, and that handsome furs are always an acceptable gift to their female relatives and friends.

Rufus Chapman of Liberty, Maine, had a stiff leg bent at the knee, limbered and straightened by the use of "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment."

The proprietors of "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment" "Parson's Purgative Pills," and Sheridan's Cavalry Conditions Powders," have published a readable and instructive pamphlet, which may be had free at the stores.

WHAT MAKES YOUR HAIR SO BEAUTIFUL? Mrs. S. A. ALLEN'S IMPROVED (new style) HAIR RESTORER OR DRESSING, (in one bottle.) Price ONE DOLLAR. Every Drugist sells it.

Summary Intelligence.

One of the ten thousand schemes for the resumption of a specie currency proposes to substitute nickel coins for the small floating currency from five to twenty-five cents, (imagine a twenty-five cent copper) pay $1 bills in coin after July 4, 1869, and $2 and $5 bills severally thereafter on January 1, 1870, and July 4 of the same year.

San Francisco is overrun with fleas, and elegant "back scratchers" of ivory are largely sold, in the stores.

The time of travel between New York and San Francisco is now only eleven days. Only about three hundred and sixty miles of the whole distance is performed with coaches, all the rest by rail; and the distance in coaches is lessening three to four miles a day, so fast is the Pacific Railroad being constructed.

A man in Burlington, Vermont, who has been favored with triplets—all females—has named them Faith, Hope and Charity. It is not stated whether the latter is the greatest.

The postal service in Utah costs $423, 778, and the revenue is $16,060.

The Winthrop (Me.) Bulletin tells a story of a cat fifty-two years old. The animal is in the family of Nelson Norcross, of Windham, Mass., and during her early life she went three trips to the West Indies before the mast. She has been the mother of 255 kittens.

A New York church proposes to have a full band of string and brass instruments, in place of the organ.

New York has twelve clergymen who are each paid over $100,000 a year, and a hundred others who don't get $1000 each.

There are twelve hundred different styles of postage stamps in use in the world.

Introducing the daily papers as readers in the public schools is thought of in Philadelphia.

Mr. Jacob Barker, the once famous millionaire, has just received his discharge in bankruptcy in the New Orleans Courts.

Chicago is discussing the question of supplanting "readers" in the public schools with daily newspapers.

A Connecticut minister lately married two couples and was married himself, the same day.

The new suspension bridge at Niagara Falls, with a single span of 1264 feet, will be completed in a few weeks.

On Saturday last the different flour dealers of Portland had a stock on hand amounting to 300,000 barrels, the gross value of which was about $3,000,000.

Geologists say that distinct traces of an ancient sea beach 1240 feet above the ocean, are found in North Harwick and Greensborough Vt., dating back to the period when this northern country was wholly submerged.

It is proposed to gather all the flags, banners, torches, &c., used in Boston during the late campaign, and dispose of them for the benefit of the poor. The election liberty poles and flagstaffs in Cincinnati are to be cut up into firewood for the poor.

Home studies have been cut off from the Philadelphia school system. They should be abrogated in every part of the world.

Here is a bunch of statistics in a small compass. Two hundred and fifty million passengers traveled seventy million miles in three and a half million trains on the English railroads last year, and paid fifteen million pounds sterling for their tickets.

A farmer in Columbia county, Ohio, has raised this season 2000 barrels of apples, from an orchard of about eight acres in extent. One thousand barrels he has sold for $3 a barrel, and has a thousand barrels on hand for a rise.

A tomato plant in the town of Middleton, Vt., last season, yielded a bushel of fruit.

The territory of the United States extend over 4,000,000,000 square miles.

Marathon County, Wisconsin, will produce a hundred and fifty million feet of lumber this winter.

Our country furnished fifty-five per cent. of the whole amount of cotton imported into Great Britain during the first nine months of the current year.

Whalen, the murderer of D'Arcy Mc Gee, at Ottawa, Canada, is not to be hung on the 10th of January, as sentenced. A writ of error having been obtained, and a new trial be refused he will be released.

Colorado has sent East a silver button weighing 165 pounds and worth $3800.

Fifty thousand dollars in counterfeit currency was lately found by a Philadelphia garbage picker.

CARE OF THE HORSE. In cold weather it is recommended that the iron bit be placed in water before it is put in the horse's mouth. Many in haste forget this precaution and the horse suffers severely. Alfred Hale & Co. of Boston, have recently got up an admirable contrivance by which a substantial rubber cover is placed over the bit, firm and durable. It gives comfort to the horse, and is an excellent thing for balky animals which try the patience of a driver. The attention of all horse owners are invited to this excellent invention.

A Repository of Fashion, Pleasure, and Instruction.

HARPER'S BAZAR. A supplement containing numerous full-sized patterns of useful articles accompanies the paper every fortnight, and occasionally an elegant Colored Fashion Plate.

HARPER'S BAZAR contains 16 full pages of the size of HARPER'S WEEKLY, printed on superfine colored paper, and is published weekly.

Critical Notices of the Press.

HARPER'S BAZAR contains, besides pictures, patterns, etc., a variety of matter of especial use and interest to the family; articles on health, dress, and housekeeping in all its branches; its editorial matter is specially adapted to the circle it is intended to interest and instruct; and it has besides, good stories and literary matter of merit. It is not surprising that in a short time an immense success; for something of its kind was desired in thousands of families, and its publishers have filled the demand.—New York Tribune Post.

Whether we consider its claims as based upon the elegance and superiority of the paper, its typographical appearance, the taste and judgment displayed in the engravings, or the literary contributions contained in its pages, we unhesitatingly pronounce it to be superior in each and every particular to any other similar publication here or abroad.—Pitt's Legal Intelligencer.

We know of no other English or American journal of the merit that can pretend to approach it in completeness and variety.—New York Times. It has the merit of being sensible, of conveying instruction, of giving excellent patterns in every department, and of being well stocked with good reading matter.—Watchman and Reflector.

To dress according to HARPER'S BAZAR will be the aim and ambition of the woman of America.—Boston Transcript.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1868.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We"

ADVERTISERS. As Christmas comes on Friday, the day we usually put the Patriot to press, we shall be under the necessity of issuing it on Thursday afternoon. Let those having notices, or advertisements, please hand them in one day earlier, and oblige the printer.

ROBBERY. The new depot building in this place was entered on Wednesday night, by opening the upper sash of one of the windows, and a lot of carpenter's tools, valued at thirty dollars, belonging to Mr. Charles Riley, was carried off. A suspicious looking person was suspected, and a search warrant was issued, but the articles appeared to be among the missing.

CHRISTMAS EVE. At the Universalist Church on Christmas Eve there will be an illumination, addresses, reading, singing, speaking by the children, and a Christmas Tree. Santa Claus has promised to be present and take part in the exercises.

CHRIST CHURCH. The celebrations at Christ Church, Christmas-tide, will be of unusual interest.

On Thursday—Christmas Eve, at 7 o'clock, there will be full service, with antiphonal choirs, adult baptism and a sermon.

On Friday morning, at break of day—7 o'clock, the children of the Sunday School will assemble to welcome with their carols the joyous festival; children especially are invited.

The regular Christmas Service, with the Holy Communion, will commence at 10 A. M.

CHRISTMAS EVE. Services will be held in First Church on Thursday evening next, at the usual hour of Vespers, the bell ringing at half past six.

GUNNING EXCURSION. Messrs. Thos. and Noah Curtis, of this place, left yesterday on an excursion to North Carolina in pursuit of game. They expect to find birds in abundance and will probably be absent several weeks.

A FAMILIAR FACE. Mr. C. W. Perry, of Wendell, Mass., called at our office yesterday. He appears in excellent health and spirits. There was sleighing in his village, on Wednesday morning last, when he left home.

BANKRUPTCY SALE. The beautiful estate on Presidents Hill, which was sold at auction, on Tuesday last, was purchased by Mrs. Morse, for about $7,400, or one hundred dollars above the incumbrances.

SANTA CLAUS. Mr. J. A. McLellan has a fine collection of Christmas and New Year's gifts. Great attractions can be found at his store; and those desiring to make their children presents, will find there a large assortment to select from; many of them very pretty.

CHRISTMAS. Those of our readers desiring to make their friends desirable and useful presents, should drop in at Holden's. He has an unusually large assortment of gold and silver articles, warranted equal to anything in the market, and which will last a life time. Few presents are more acceptable, or would give more pleasure, than those found in his show cases. They make our pen glitter only writing about them; and if you would draw a sweet smile from your friend's face, carry something that has the good solid ring about it.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC. The familiar face of this desirable periodical, for the year 1869, is before us. It is filled as usual with that which is useful, and we do not see how any one can keep house without it. M. Joseph W. Lombard has a good supply and will endeavor to accommodate all who will give him a call.

Jonathan French, Esq., will sell fourteen acres of hard wood on Pine Hill, on Monday next, commencing at nine o'clock. A good chance for those living at the west part of the town, to buy wood that is handy and easy of access.

Samuel M. Andrews, the Kingston murderer, was carried to the State Prison at Charlestown, on Saturday last. He manifests the same calmness and tractability of demeanor which has usually characterized his conduct. As he had some experience of the machinery of a cotton mill he has been set to work in machine shop. He seems to work with good humor, and with a fair amount of diligence.

FALSE HAIR. Those who have occasion to use any of this very fashionable article are invited to call, on our townsman, T. G. Emerson, who is now prepared to furnish new, or dress old, in the latest and most approved styles, having secured the services of an experienced workman from the city.

THE LAST SENSATION. Washburn's Exhibition at the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening next, promises to be productive of a very pleasing and interesting sensation. Besides other novelties of interest, six of the natives from our Western Wilds (including both sexes) will be on exhibition, in full Indian costume, and will illustrate, in their performances, many of the habits, manners, customs, and peculiar traits of character of these unlettered children of the forest in their uncivilized state. This feature alone in the exhibition, is well worth the price of admission. See advertisement in another column.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE WELLS.

CLIFF ROGERS, et al. v. THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL SOCIETY OF QUINCY.

Actions brought by the Plaintiffs to test the question whether the Respondents have any legal right to tax the pews in their Church for the support and maintenance of public worship.

The complainants are the owners of certain pews, but are not members of the Church Parish. On or about A. D. 1860, the Parish without securing the consent of all the pew owners, voted to tax the pews, excepting certain pews that belonged to the estate of Hon. J. Q. Adams, and some pews that parties had offered to give up to the Parish, rather than pay the tax. These exceptions amounted to about one-fourth of all the pews in the house. The Plaintiffs claim that the taxation of the pews should have been made, if at all, upon all the pews in the Church, and that Parishes have no right to increase the burden of taxation, by excepting any pews in their Church,—and that if they have put themselves into the situation of non-ability to tax all the pews in the Church by reason of their action, they cannot proceed to lay a tax on the pews in the Church until all these encumbrances are taken off, so that a tax on all the pews may be levied.

The Respondents contend that the J. Q. Adams pews were decided to him by the Parish to pay of a large debt due from them to him, with the agreement that they should not be taxed so long as they remained unoccupied,—and that so soon as any of these pews are occupied, they are taxed; that a portion of these pews remained unoccupied, and are therefore, by the terms of the bargain betwixt the Parish and him, exempted from any taxation. That the pews offered to be given up by the owners rather than pay the tax, by the provisions of law, become the Parish property; sufficiently so, that the Parish need not tax them.

Decision reserved and cases will be heard by a full bench.

Edward Avery and Everett C. Bumpus for Plaintiffs, Waldo Colburn and John Q. Adams for Respondents.

THE STREET LAMPS AGAIN.

The system of lighting and burning these lamps is becoming vastly entertaining.

Sometimes the lamps are lighted an hour before dark.

Sometimes—as on two dark nights recently—they are not lighted at all.

Sometimes they are put out a little after ten.

Sometimes—as on this very day, (Dec. 16,) they are not put out till eight o'clock in the morning.

We understand that the Selectmen have two propositions under consideration, viz:

1. To hire an Assistant Lamplighter to look out for the Lamplighter. But here a difficulty arises,—who will look after the Assistant Lamplighter?

2. The second proposition is to light the lamps on the 1st of January, 1869, and never to let them go out?

This plan looks unreasonable at first; but it really has several advantages.

First. It will save lots of trouble.

Second. The Gas Company will probably be induced to lower the price of gas,—having so much more to furnish.

Third. The Lamplighter won't have to sit up late any longer. And Fourth. There will be no more complaints about dark streets.

This plan will undoubtedly be adopted.

FIRE IN MILTON. A dwelling house on Washington street in Milton, owned by John T. Eldridge, and occupied by a family named Heard, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday night. The house was valued at $12,000 and insured for $7,500. The loss by the occupants was also covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

In Charlestown, (S. C.) last Saturday morning, every liquid was frozen, and housekeepers were in despair at the impossibility of procuring water from their pumps. It is said that this has been the coldest spell since 1832.

A handsome iron fence, embracing a great variety of military and naval designs and emblems, has just been erected around the Soldiers' Monument in Dorchester. It is one of the most elaborate pieces of iron work ever manufactured in the country.

The flag adopted by insurgents in Cuba is composed of the three colors, red, white and blue. A blue band at the bottom runs the whole length of the flag from the staff and is half the flag's width. The upper half is divided between red and white, the former next the staff. In the center of the red is a five angled white star.

About $27,000,000 in gold will be paid out of the Treasury next month to meet the first instalment of interest. This will leave $70,000,000 in the Treasury, and some $23,000,000 more in gold certificates.

The heaviest man in Maryland, if not in the United States, died in Queen Anne's county, recently. A few years ago he weighed nearly five hundred pounds, and at the time of his death nearly four hundred. He was five feet ten inches high and two feet across from shoulder to shoulder.

Dr. Nathaniel B. Shurtleff, the Democratic candidate, was re-elected Mayor of Boston on Monday. His plurality being 1839 over Moses Kimball, the Republican candidate. Last year Dr. Shurtleff's plurality was 516.

Copy of the Will of Cornelius Holmes.

I, CORNELIUS HOLMES, of Kingston, of the State of Massachusetts, being for the present of sound mind, but premising the uncertainty for the future, of my own free will,

1st. I give to the Baptist Church one thousand dollars, to which I am a member, and my pew.

2d. I give to Frank H. Holmes my marble clock.

3d. I give to Mary W. Leonard of St. Joseph, wife of James A. Leonard, one hundred dollars.

4th. I give to Lucy E. Adams, my easy chair that was my mother's.

5th. I give to Joseph A. Holmes, my silver spoons, that were my mother's.

6th. I give to Samuel M. Andrews and his heirs the rest of my silver plate, also my gold watch and chain, also my clothing.

7th. I hereby appoint Samuel M. Andrews and Joseph H. Holmes, both of Kingston, the first Executors of this my last Will and Testament, and also bequeath to Joseph H. Holmes and Samuel M. Andrews, the remaining property, to be divided equally after these legacies are paid.

A MODEST QUESTION. "When the moon sets at eight o'clock, as it does to-night, is it necessary for us to go about in darkness until eleven, as we shall have to do to-night?"

Quincy, Dec. 17, 1868.

JURORS. Messrs. John Chamberlin and Simon Farrell have been drawn to serve at the December, Civil Term of the Superior Court, Norfolk County.

THE PROPOSED NEW NICKEL COIN. Specimens of the new nickel coin to be composed of one-fourth nickel and three-fourths copper,—one, three and five cent pieces, were received at the Treasury Department on Tuesday. The one cent coin, weighing a grain and a half, is about the size of the old silver five cent coin; the three and five cent pieces, about the size of the coins that are in use, are to weigh three and five grains, respectively.

HORACE GREELY purposes to write, during the year 1869, an elementary work on Political Economy, wherein the policy of Protection to Home Industry will be explained and vindicated. This work will first be given to the public through successive issues of THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE, and will appear in all its editions—DAILY, $10; SEMI-WEEKLY, $4; WEEKLY, $2 per annum.

HOLIDAY GOODS. Those who desire to purchase useful and elegant holiday gifts, at the lowest prices, are referred to the advertisement of S. S. Houghton & Co., Boston, in this paper. Their stock is immense, filling to repletion, their commodious stores, and their system of dealing with the public has given them a wide-spread popularity.

A young New Yorker recently gave $40,000 toward the erection of a church. He owned a fine country seat on the Hudson; an elegant establishment in New York; had his fast team on the road; made seldom less than $25,000 a day. Thirty days ago his name was good for any amount at the banks. His country house has gone, he has given up his city establishment, and he has not now money enough to buy a bag of oats for his fast team. Erie and the Pacific Mail carried them under.

A thousand persons of both sexes could be seen skating on the river at Bangor on Sunday last.

The legacy duty on the estate of the late Baron Rothschild is upwards of twenty million francs.

The artesian well at St. Louis is now 3,375 feet deep, and no water.

A man in Holyoke, Mass., who owned a fine fat hog was unfortunately indebted to another man five dollars. The creditor bought a two dollar pig, presented it to the debtor, and then lawfully attached the hog—realizing thirteen dollars by his sharp practice.

A fellow in Decatur, Illinois, the other day thought he had found a long piece of green goods upon the pavements. He picked up one end of it, and commenced wrapping it around his arm, when on looking around the corner he discovered a lady at the other end quietly talking to a friend. He suddenly dropped his prize and started off.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, while recently making some purchases in Sauer's fancy goods store at Frankfort-on-the-Main suddenly fainted away. She was removed to her apartments in the Hotel d'Angleterre, where, at last accounts, she was lying in a condition which gave rise to great apprehension.

CHRISTMAS.

QUINCY, DEC. 15, 1868.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

Again the merry season of Christmas with its Holidays comes round,—the season above all others, that fills us with the spirit of love and good will towards all mankind. Our people are not behind hand in providing suitable entertainments for their children, to whom Christmas is the day of days most dear.

I see, also, by the notices posted about town, that Mr. S. P. Curtis has kindly provided for a Dramatic Entertainment, at the Town Hall, on the evening of the 25th. Mr. Curtis is too well known in our village to need any praise from me,—and I am confident that he will, with his able Company of very respectable ladies and gentlemen, give us an entertainment, that will amply repay us for a visit to the Hall on these cold nights. One of the pieces, "The Phantom Breakfast," I have seen, and know that it is full of merriment, and the whole will be well adapted to close the happy festivities of Merry, Merry Christmas.

Truly yours,

W.

"Carleton," who has amused and instructed thousands with his interesting letters in the Boston Journal, the past year will continue his articles during 1869. He has visited Salt Lake City, and will give some astounding facts connected with Mormonism, worth the price of one year's subscription to the Journal. See notice in to-day's paper.

BUTTER HAS ANOTHER TUMBLE. At St. Albans on Tuesday, butter ranged from 35 to 41 cents per pound, extra lots two or three cents higher. Prime Butter is now announced for sale, in the neighborhood of Washington Market, New York, at twenty cents per pound.

Mormonism and its Results.

BY "CARLETON."

We have made arrangements by which "Carleton" will continue his contributions to the Boston Journal, during the year 1869. We have on hand a dozen or more letters, which will conclude his "Tide Across the World." On his homeward trip "Carleton" visited Salt Lake City and made a thorough investigation of Mormonism and its intrigues, and he will give the public some astounding facts connected with it. These papers, in view of the conflict which seems inevitably soon to arise between Brigham Young and his deluded followers and the United States Government, will be not only interesting, but of great importance.

From the abundant materials in his "Note Books," "Carleton" will give our readers during the year, many very interesting and instructive incidents and sketches which have not heretofore been included in his letters. The club prices of the JOURNAL are as follows:

One copy, by mail $2.00

Five copies, to one address 10.00

And one copy to the editor of a club of ten. Now is the time to get up clubs. All orders must be accompanied by the money and be addressed to

IMPORTANT TO RAILROAD TRAVELERS.—The following "rules of the road" are based upon legal decisions:—The courts have decided that applicants for tickets on railroad cars can be ejected if they do not offer the exact amount of their fares. Conductors are not bound to make change. All railroad tickets are good until used, conditions "good for this day only," or otherwise limiting time of genuineness, are of no account. Standing on the platform or otherwise violating the rules of the company renders a person liable to be put off the train. No one has a right to monopolize more seats than he pays for; any article left in a seat while the owner is temporarily absent entitles him to his seat on his return.

BALLOON'S MAGAZINE.—The January number of this excellent monthly is received. The table of contents is unusually interesting, embracing several fully-illustrated articles, including "A Happy New Year," by Mr. Shillaber, and six cuts illustrative of the "Humors of a Political Campaign," together with choice stories and fine poems by such writers as Camilla Whelan, August Bell, Jane G. Austin, James Franklin Pitts, Mrs. M. A. Denison, Mrs. R. B. Edson, Geo. H. Coomer, and a new serial for young folks by the popular Horatio Alger, Jr. The wonder is that so much excellent matter can be furnished for $1.50. OUR NEW FAMILY
SEWING MACHINE.
The superior merits of the "Singer" Machines over all others, for either Family use or Manufacturing purposes, are so well established, and so generally admitted, that an enumeration of their relative excellencies is no longer considered necessary.
Our New Family Machine. which has been brought to perfection regardless of time, labor, or expense, is now confidently presented to the public as incomparably the Best Sewing Machine in existence.
The machine in question is Simple, Compact, Durable and Beautiful.
It is quiet, light running, and Capable of Performing a Range and Variety of WORK
never before attempted upon a single Machine—
using either SILK, TWIST, LINES or COTTON THREAD, sewing with equal facility the very finest and coarsest materials, and anything between the two extremes, in the most beautiful and substantial manner. Its attachments for HEMMING, BRAIDING, CORDING, TUCKING, QUILTING, FELLING, TRIMMING, BINDING, ETC., are NOVEL and PRACTICAL, and have been invented and adjusted especially for this Machine.
A faint idea, however can at best be conveyed through the medium of a (necessarily) limited advertisement; and we therefore urge every person in quest of a Sewing Machine by all means to examine and test, if they can possibly do so, all the leading rival Machines before making a purchase. A selection can then be made understandingly. Branches or agencies for supplying the "Singer" Machines will be found in nearly every city and town throughout the civilized world, where Machines will be cheerfully exhibited, and any information promptly furnished.
Or communications may be addressed to The Singer Manufacturing Co.

Miscellany.

THE UNEXPECTED SON.

One summer afternoon, Mr. Malcolm Anderson arrived with his family at his native town. Putting himself up at the little inn, he proceeded to dress himself in a suit of sailors-clothes, and then walked out alone. By a by-path he well knew and then through a shady lane, dear to his young, hazel-nutting days, all strangely unchanged, he approached his mother's cottage. He stopped for a few moments on the lawn outside, to curb down the heart that was leaping to meet that mother, and to clear his eyes of a sudden mist of happy tears. Through the open window he caught a glimpse of her, sitting alone at her spinning-wheel, as in the old time.
But alas, how changed! Bowed was the dark form once so erect, and silvered the locks once so brown, and dimmed the eyes once so full of tender brightness, like dew-stained violets. But the voice, with which she was crooning softly to herself, was still sweet, and there was on her cheek the same lovely peach-bloom of twenty years ago.

At length he knocked, and the dear remembered voice called to him in the simple, old-fashioned way—"Coom Ben!" (come in.) The widow rose at sight of a stranger, and courteously offered him a chair. Thanking her in an assumed voice somewhat gruff, he sank down, as though weary, saying that he was a wayfarer, stranger to the country, and asked the way to the next town. The twilight favored him in his little ruse; he saw that she did not recognize him, even as one she had ever seen. But after giving him the information he desired, she asked him if he was a Scotchman by birth.

"Yes, madam," he replied; "but I have been away in foreign parts many years.
I doubt if my own mother would know me now, though she was very fond of me before I went to sea."

"Ah, mon! it's little ye ken about mither, gin ye think sae. I can tell ye there is na mortal memory like theirs," the widow somewhat warmly replied;
then added—"And where hae ye been for sae lang a time, that ye hae lost a Scotch from your speech?"

"In India—Calcutta, Madam."

"Ah, then it's likely ye ken something o' my son, Mr. Malcolm Anderson."

"Anderson?" repeated the visitor, as though striving to remember. "There be many of that name in Calcutta; but is your son a rich merchant, and a man about my age and size, with somewhat such a figure-head?"

"My son is a rich merchant," replied the widow, proudly, "but he is younger than you by mony a long year, and, begging your pardon, sir, far bonnier. He is tall and straight, wi' hands and feet like a lassie's; he had brown, curling hair, sae thick and glossy! and cheeks like the rose, and a brow like the snaw, and the blue een wi' a glint in them, like the light of the evening star! Na, na, ye are no like my Malcolm, though ye are a good enough body, I dinna doubt, and a decent woman's son."

Here the masquerading merchant, considerably taken down, made a movement as though to leave, but the hospitable dame stayed him, saying—
"Gin ye hae travelled a' the way fra
India, ye maun be tired and hungry.
Bide a bit, and eat and drink wi' us, Margery! coom down, and let us set, on the supper."

The two women soon provided quite a tempting repast, and they all three sat down to it—Mrs. Anderson reverently asking a blessing. But the merchant could not eat. He was only hungry for his mother's kisses—only thirsty for her joyful recognition; yet he could not bring himself to say to her—"I am your son."

He asked himself, half grieved, half amused—"Where are the unerring, natural instincts I have read about in poetry and novels?"

His hostess, seeing he did not eat, kindly asked if he could suggest anything he would be likely to relish.
"I thank you, madam," he answered;
"it does seem to me that I should like some oat-meal porridge, such as my mother used to make, if so be you have any."

ning to stir the porridge with the spoon.
As he did so, Mrs. Anderson gave a slight start, and bent eagerly towards him.
Then she sank back in her chair with a sigh, saying, in answer to his questioning look—
"Ye minded me o' my Malcolm, then—just in the way he used to stir his porridge—giving it a whirl and a flirt. Ah!
gin ye were my Malcolm, my poor laddie!"

"Weel, then, gin I were your Malcolm," said the merchant, speaking for the first time in the Scottish dialect, and in his own voice; "or gin your braw young Malcolm were as brown, and bald, and gray, and bent, and old, as I am, could ye welcome him to your arms, and love him as in the dear auld lang syne? Could you, mither?"

All through this touching little speech, the widow's eyes had been glistening, and her breath came fast; but at that word
"mither," she sprang up with a glad cry, and, tottering to her son, fell almost fainting on his breast. He kissed her again and again—kissed her brow, and her lips, and her hands, while the big tears slid down his bronzed cheeks; while she clung about his neck and called him by all the dear old pet names, and tried to see in him all the dear old young looks.
By and by they came back—or the ghost of them came back. The form in her embrace grew comelier; love and joy gave to it a second youth, stately and gracious; the first, she then and there buried deep in her heart—a sweet, beautiful, peculiar memory; it was a moment of solemn re-union, in which she gave up the fond maternal illusion she had cherished so long. Then looking up steadily into the face of the middle-aged man, who had taken its place, she asked—
"Where hae ye left the wife and bairns?"

"At the inn, mither. Have you room for us all at the cottage?"

"Indeed, I have—two good spare rooms, wi' large closets, weel stocked wi' linen I have been spinning or weaving a' these lang years for ye baith, and the baith, and the weans."

"Well, mither, dear, now you must rest," rejoined the merchant, tenderly.

"Na, na, I dinna care to rest till ye lay me down to t'c' my lang rest. There'll be time enough between that day and the resurrection to fauld my hands in idleness. Now 't would be unco irksome.
But go, my son and bring me the wife—
I hope I shall like her; and the bairns—
I hope they will like me."

I have only to say that both the good woman's hopes were realized. A very happy family knelt down in prayer that night, and many nights after, in this widow's cottage, whose climbing roses and woodlilies were but outward signs and types of the sweetness and blessedness of love and peace within.

THE STOLEN DOUBLOONS.

The Quakers were once, more than at present, a power in the commercial world of N. Y. They were an honest, industrious, and extremely shrewd race of merchants, not devoid of humor and sarcasm,—and though religious non-combatants, not in the least disposed to allow themselves to be victims of roguery.

One of this fraternity, a dealer in specific and exchange, and a large purchaser of gold coin, one day left his counting house in haste and crossed the street to accompany a friend. He had just purchased a quantity of doubloons, which he had omitted to lock up in his safe. The office was empty. When the old Quaker returned the room was in the same condition—no one was in it—but one of the bags of doubloons was missing. The Quaker now looked up the others and opened not his mouth on the subject of the loss. Days past, and weeks, but no reward was offered, no policemen were set on the track of the thief—the old Quaker stood his loss like a statue. Two or three months afterward his neighbor, a small mercantile man, happened to be in his counting room, conversing on the topics of the day. Suddenly turning to the Quaker, he inquired:

"By the way, Mr. —, did you ever hear anything of the bag of doubloons you lost?"

Up started the old Quaker in an instant.
"There's the thief, John! there's the thief—I never told any one I lost the bag!"

Needless to say, the doubloons were restored and the clumsy rogue paroled, with a caution to go and sin no more.

THE CHIN FEVER.

This infection is usually prevalent among boys from fifteen to eighteen years old.
You don't know what the chin fever is,
perhaps. The first symptoms are a frequent inclination to pass the hand over the chin, sometimes over the upper lip.
The sufferer has an expression as though impatiently expecting something, which delayed in coming. He will frequently gaze carefully into the looking-glass, as though it were the mirror of fortune. As the trouble increases the afflicted boy may be seen stealing away to some retired place and striving to get a little ease by applying strong soapuds to his face; so anxious is he sometimes to get rid of his trouble that he has been seen to threaten to cut his throat with his father's razor. As usual, the quick medicine dealers take advantage of persons in such trouble, and advertise compounds warranted to cure
the worst cases in from three to six weeks;
but their applications only aggravate the symptoms, and cause more frequent turnings to the glass and more manipulations of the face. It is a relief to know that this trouble is not fatal, and disappears gradually as the beard grows, though we have known cases where some of the symptoms, especially passing the hand affectionately over the face, have remained through life. The best treatment for the patient, perhaps, is to let him alone, as advice in such cases usually aggravates the complaint. If any, however, should really wish to know, what to do with the beard when it first appears, we answer, let it alone until it becomes unsightly, then trim it. Too early and frequent shaving will make it troublesome in after years; if not abused by continuous cutting it will be more likely to remain soft and silky.—Agriculturist.

SOMETHING ABOUT MEALS.

We all find it very necessary to eat.
Three times a day the average of the world halts in the great march of life, longer or shorter, and attends to its ration.
Do you, great broad-chested, sinewy humanity, coming in from the fields, with heavy boots, and weary limbs—you light-shod merchant, mechanic, tradesman, with riled patience—you student, clerk, loafer, or employee of whatsoever calling, whoever and wherever you are, cheerfully partake of what Providence has provided, and kind hands prepared for your sustenance? O, you who have stood at the altar, and promised to "love, honor, and protect" the chosen one of all woman-kind are you doing it?

Are you certain that, at your family board, you don't sit like a thunder-cloud, charged with lightning, soaring the mother's and children's temper, and turning the sauce into gall? You haven't considered that she lays the cloth, prepares the food, and "does" the dishes ten hundred and ninety-five times a year, and this exercise following with only a few hours' interval. You would be discouraged and surrender the whole thing.
True, it is a woman's ordination. Did you ever hear the good and kind mother murmur at it? No. When you can show sufficient reason why your maddy boys should soil her carpets, her tables, her mantles, or your old clothes lie precisely where you doffed them, or a thousand other leasit things—then she will accept this nuisance—and you can grumble to your heart's content. Many a noble woman's life is embittered with a curse. These are homely truths; but wide and blessed fields of happiness are appertaining thereto. Remember it, man! Take care of the golden bowl at your side. Once broken, Heaven never mends. Lighten her cares; and don't grumble over your meals.
—Meriden Recorder.

An amorous swain was nearly killed on Friday night in New York, from absorbing some poison used as a cosmetic on the crimson cheeks of, to him, the "dearest girl in the world." Ladies who owe so much beauty to art, ought always to carry an antidote—unless they want the reputation of "killing creatures."

When one link in the chain of love is broken, all its strength and security are lost.

tiously she pulls aside the paper and peeps in, then a sudden beam of intelligence and delight shoots over her countenance.

"You dear, good old fellow! Just what I wanted! But to think of leaving them out there all night!"

At length he finds a chance to say, "Why you see, deary, you wouldn't let me take that baby in. While you were awake, and you were so comfortably long getting asleep, I hadn't a chance till morning."

Then they fell to examining their respective gifts again. Mrs. Dobson setting the pretty china tea-set all out on the table, and wiping each piece with affectionate care, while Mr. Dobson is actually trying on all the articles given him, and pronouncing each and every one an exact fit. At length with a pang of remorse, he remembers the damage he unwittingly had done; but on searching no hole can be seen, and finally they find the baby safely lodged in the fire place.

"Well, you wouldn't have killed him if it had been a robber after all," said Mrs. D. He admitted that; but said, "and it was the first time he ever fired at a man, and he was so afraid that he might kill him, it made his hand a little shaky—and, besides, he took aim in a hurry."

They were both thankful it was no worse, and hearing Betty's movements, they recollected that they were "not fit to be seen," and retired to bed again, until summoned to breakfast, calling out on the way a "Merry Christmas."

Thus it was Mr. and Mrs. Dobson exchanged their gifts; and now, having told my story, to my kind readers I say, "Merry Christmas to all, and to all a Good Night!"

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1868.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We!"

"A MERRY CHRISTMAS" to our friends and patrons. A "MERRY CHRISTMAS" to all who don't care for us, or who wish us ill! "A Merry Christmas" to all who don't take our paper, who read it only by stealth, and who, when they do read it, growl at it! "A Merry Christmas" to all our fellow-citizens alike, to those whose hearts are full of good-will towards us, and to those who never gave us a word of cheer in all their lives!

It is the season for forgiving and forgiving, good friends. It is the season in which to nourish love, and generous joy, and all the kindlier affections of our nature. It is a season in which to banish gloom and let in all the light there is. It is a season in which to cut down into the crust of hardness that is over our hearts, and keep them open for a little while to the better influences that are all about us.

It isn't for us to preach to you, kind readers; the ministers do that. Yet forgive us if we counsel you to do three things on Christmas Day. Three things unlike, yet not incongruous.

1st. Take your Bibles and read over very carefully and thoughtfully the story that you know so well: The birth of our Blessed Lord into this lower world.

2d. Afterward read that very beautiful and wonderful story of the "Christmas Carol," by Charles Dickens. If you're any ugliness in you, and that don't help you to clean it out, we are very much mistaken.

3d. Make somebody happy! Once more, a "MERRY CHRISTMAS" to you all!

CHRISTMAS EVE. To the service in the First Church on Christmas Eve—as to all the Sunday services, and especially the regular Yearly services—all persons, whether belonging to the Parish or not, are cordially invited. It is only for the Children's Festival in the Hall that tickets are required, and such tickets will be furnished free to all members of the Society upon application at the Insurance Office.

THE PATRIOT. With this number we close the thirty-second volume of the Patriot. We think the present year has been one of the most successful it has ever seen. The subscription list has been constantly on the increase; and the advertising patrons have truly bestowed their favors liberally, never has there been such a rush, as during the last three months. We thank you, kind patrons for your favors in the past, and we hope to conduct the Patriot the coming year, so that it will meet the wants of our citizens, and maintain its present reputation.

A watchman in the boot manufactory of Holbrook, Hobart & Porter, in Braintree, Mass., last Friday night fired at a thief who was trying to force open a window in the factory, but unfortunately did not hit the rascal, who made good his escape.

LADIES! GENTLEMEN! Do you suffer with cold or sweaty feet? If so, we would candidly invite you to try the patent Elastic Ventilating Inner Socks. They are an excellent invention, and give good satisfaction to those who have used them. We speak from personal knowledge; and hope others may enjoy the many benefits they bestow.

"HARPER'S MONTHLY." This is one of our monthly serials which should find a place in every well-regulated library. No family can commence the year right without it. Each issue is a volume in itself of the choicest reading matter to be found in the English language, upon all subjects—history, poetry, travel, romance, fiction, etc., etc.—many of which are finely illustrated. All classes of readers may glean from its well-filled pages, much that is useful, entertaining and instructive. It may be had by the year or single number of the agent, A. A. Williams, New England News Co., 100 Washington street, Boston, or of Mr. Chas. A. Follett, at his literary depot, in this place.

For the Patriot. A DREAM.

I had a dream the other night. I thought I stood in the Square. It was five o'clock in the afternoon. The Square was filled with people. Their faces were directed towards the Flag-Staff, around which were planted in a circle forty stout poles—ten feet in height.

All at once a procession appeared. First came a band, consisting of twenty-one trombones; ninety-two bass-drums, and a big fiddle carried in an ox-cart, and played upon by sixteen boys.

Then followed forty respectable citizens, dressed in an amazing costume of scarlet tights, with green and yellow handkerchiefs bound about their heads.

The procession wound around the church thirteen times, the band playing, "Kitty was a Barber"—"Dead March from Saul," and other national airs.

Then the forty citizens took up their positions in front of the forty poles, while the band occupied the church belfry.

Then there was an awful silence for the space of three minutes.

Then came a thunder crash from the band, and the forty citizens shinned up the forty poles with a cheerfulness and agility surprising to witness. This they did one hundred and seventy-two times without taking breath.

Then the band came down, and the procession departed as it came.

Recovering from my first shock of amazement at this marvellous exhibition, I turned to seek for information. And seeing near me, on the steps of the Town Hall, three men—a large man, a middle sized man, and a small man—all clothed in blue, with gilt crowns on their heads, with the inscription, "El Cito An," flashing therefrom in diamonds, evidently dignitaries of the place, I made inquiries of them, bowing low.

Taking off their crowns together, they made simultaneous answer:

"Stranger: that which you beheld was the Drill of the Lamplighters. The forty citizens are they who live nearest the street lamps. Every night, an hour after sunset, a cannon is fired from the top of the hill, whereat the forty rush from their houses, mount their poles and light their lamps. We find it a great improvement on the old one-horse system of the single lamplighter; and in order to perfect themselves in climbing, the forty have their nightly drill, as you have seen."

"But how are they paid? It must be rather hard on those nice clothes of theirs," said I, bowing lowly.

Taking off their crowns together, they made simultaneous answer:

"Stranger: it must be confessed they do wear out their pants very fast; but the town pays them a cent a night; and besides this they give monthly exhibitions to which seven cents admission is charged. Stranger, it would be worth your while to see some of these exhibitions. At the last one, not only did four of the lamplighters ascend to the very top of the Flag-Staff in forty-three seconds and a half; but one, who is, alas! was the prize-climber of the whole, mounted a chain of lightning that was let down from above, vanished slowly from our sight, and disappeared forever."

And the three took out their silver handkerchiefs, and broke into a wail that shook the building to its foundations.

Frightened at the noise, I awoke, and found our baby on the floor, snoozing like mad.

People are very sorry to see the charming little Episcopal Church injured by the wooden appendage which is growing on to it. The Church is one of the very few edifices in town that make any pretensions to architectural beauty; it seems a great pity to mar its effect. Couldn't the Parsonage have been set a few feet farther off?

In various ways it has been hinted that President Johnson intends, before leaving the White House, to signalize his retirement by another proclamation of amnesty—this time intended to cover all persons previously exempted. Under it Jefferson Davis, John C. Breckinridge, Mason, Sidel, Benjamin, Sanders, Thompson and others will be enabled to return home if they desire to do so.

PROMISES OF THE VICE PRESIDENT ELECT. Coffax made the following promises as to the course of the new Administration in his speech at Philadelphia, Saturday night. He said there will be the most searching retrenchment; honesty, efficiency and a higher character in all connected with the public service; a rigid guardianship of the Treasury against unwise and extravagant schemes; a financial policy which shall maintain our credit unimpaired, appreciate our currency and place us on the firm rock of specie payments.

HOW TO BUY FURS. The ladies will be interested to know that in purchasing furs a sure test of what dealers call a "prime fur" is the length and density of the down next the skin; this can be readily determined by blowing a brisk current of air from the mouth against the set of the fur; if the fibres open readily, exposing the skin to the view, reject the article, but if the down is so dense that the breath cannot penetrate it, or at most show but a small portion of the skin, the article may be accepted—so says an exchange.

THE POTATO FEVER. They have got a new potato in Vermont which exceeds everything heretofore known among the solanum tribe. The following are represented as the latest transactions in that potato market: Sixteen specimens sold for $23; twelve for $21.5; one for a cow; one for a silver mounted harness; and the ordinary quotation is $50 apiece. As a proof of its productiveness, it is stated that a man who paid last year $20 for one eye, raised from it the past season potatoes for which he has realized $750 cash, and has three potatoes left.

STREET LIGHTS.

"LET THERE BE LIGHT, AND THERE WAS LIGHT."

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

How glad the citizens of Quincy would be if the Fathers of the Town would take the above as a text some Sunday, and study it, and see how it compared with what they call their duty for the past week. We know that you worked hard for the town some four hundred days last year by the Report, and all we ask is, that you take a day or two and regulate the lighting of the street lights. We will vote for you, blow for you, only for the Lord's sake "Light the Lights."

For the last eight days they have not been lighted only three times. Now why not have some sort of rules? For instance: Let them burn until 11 o'clock sure—Have them lighted every night except three nights before and three nights after the full moon. Have them lighted before two hours after dark. If the Selectmen will not do their duty, we must ourselves; for our streets shall be lighted as long as the vote stands on the book.

MURDER IN MALDEN. Mr. Daniel S. Faulkner, a town watchman of Malden, was murdered near the depot in that place, on Tuesday morning. In the course of his patrol towards the depot, he saw two men near the shed opposite the depot building, and he at once accosted them; instead of replying, one of them immediately drew a pistol and shot Mr. Faulkner through the heart, killing him instantly. They ran off towards Medford, and were pursued by another policeman, who was quite near at the time. He fired two shots from his revolver at the hindmost man, but failed to hit him, and the two succeeded in making their escape.

Mr. Faulkner was an excellent officer, about forty-seven years of age, and a wife and three children are left to mourn his loss.

AN ECCENTRIC CAT. Some marvellous stories in regard to a cat recently owned by Mr. Charles Edgerly of Meriden, (N. H.) are told by the Concord Patriot, which vouches for their reliability. The cat was a regular hunter, often going after rabbits and catching them. If any of the family went into the woods Tommy would go too and seek for game, and if separated from the party would climb a tree to find the direction in which to go. He was very expert in catching squirrels, and the boys would put him on a stone wall while they started the game. One afternoon Tommy caught fifteen squirrels in this manner. He would wait any length of time when put down in a place and told to stay there. One day he caught a rat to Mr. E., who skinned it, and seemed to please pussy very much, and he was told to catch more. Henceforth Tommy made it his sole occupation to catch rodents and see them skinned. The hides were fastened on the barn at the distance of a few feet from the ground, and thirty-seven trophies were in the display there. One day Mr. E. being laid up, would not skin a rat which Tommy laid at his feet, and drove him away rather roughly. The cat went off in high dudgeon, with his back and tail up, and never after would catch a rat, though other game continued to suffer. Furthermore, he tore down all the rat skins fastened on the barn to show his resentment! This remarkable cat was killed a few months ago by being caught in a fox trap. The Patriot does well to record his extraordinary achievements.

THE PROPOSED BRIDGE OVER THE EAST RIVER, NEW YORK. The bridge for which the Brooklyn Council voted an appropriation is to be a suspension one. It is to start from the corner of Sands and Washington streets, in Brooklyn, and from the City Hall Park, (N. Y.) opposite the Register's office. It will be eighty feet wide, or as wide as Broadway, and a little over a mile in length. Its span over the water will be one thousand feet, and it will have two carways, two carriageways and a footway, and its estimated capacity is 200,000 persons daily.

STAR KING'S MONUMENT. A San Francisco correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial describes the cemeteries on Lone Mountain, and the monuments erected in them, as follows: "The tall shaft erected by the citizens to the memory of Senator Broderick and the large obelisk over the grave of Thomas Starr King are of a native marble, quarried on the Stanislaus River in the interior. The stone is of fine texture and easily worked, but costs more for one hundred miles of wagon transportation to Stockton than the best marble imported as ballast in Italian hulks. As yet, therefore, it is not in general demand. The most of the monuments are cut from European marble, but there are some chiseled from Scotch and Quincy granite, from New York brownstone, and from Eastern freestone. One elaborate iron monument is going up. One of the vaults most recently erected is a tribute from a banker to his deceased wife, and cost about $25,000 in gold. It is of freestone, with a pencilling of black slate tracing its exterior lines after the manner of a mourning handkerchief."

A CHALLENGE.—We have received the December number of "Merry's Museum," for young people, and old people, too, who have not forgotten that they were once young.

The Publisher, HORACE B. FULLER, Boston, claims that "Merry's" is the best magazine of its kind issued in this country, and challenges comparison. Our readers can decide this point for themselves by sending to him two three-cent stamps for a specimen.

The January number begins a New volume, which will be further enlarged and improved. Terms $1.50 a year in advance.

NOTICE. If the person who borrowed clothes from our line on Wednesday night, will favor us with a call, we will furnish cloth enough to make articles to fit, and have the measures taken at Mr. Lombard's.

Have the readers of the Quincy Patriot ever used any of "Parson's Purgative Pills?" if not, why not? they are the best family physic, besides being the greatest anti-bilious remedy there is in this country.

THE CLOSE OF THE YEAR.

We have about swung round the circle of the seasons. It would be well to take a retrospective glance. Have we improved our opportunities? Have we attained to better desires? Have we been as faithful in all things as we should?

True remissness may chuckle at its success. Sloth may say "a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep" have proved seductive words to many; yet Remembrance speaks cheerfully of kind words and good deeds.

A varied scene is presented. Sunshine and shadow, laughter and tears, mirth and grief, follow each other in quick succession. Change has come to all, Friends have become alienated, prospects have been blighted.

"The angel with the amarantine wreath," "Whispered a word that had a sound like Death."

Sombre and gloomy for some, but not for all. Have not the fallen been reclaimed? Have not childhood and youth passed joyous hours? Have we not as a people, as a country been blessed with prosperity?

"All is of God! If he but wave his hand, The mist that clings, the rain that falls thick and loud, Till, with a smile of light on sea and land, Lo! the looks back from the departing cloud."

Let us trust in Him and say "Old year, What is it we can do for you?"

HAPPY THOUGHTS.—in town and country—on a variety of subjects—natural and unnatural philosophy—dogs, cats, ghosts, rats, geese, country and city life—theatricals, love-making, marriage, etc. The ideas are rich and fertile in humor and originality, and are strung together in a volume of three hundred pages or more, making a very readable book, well worth the perusal. Published by Roberts Brothers, 143 Washington street, Boston, and for sale at Follett's Periodical Store.

ONE OF THE TRICKS OF TRADE. One of the swindlers perpetrated by some of the flour dealers in New York is to open the bottom of a barrel of fine flour and substitute an article of inferior quality. As the top of the barrel only is opened by the buyer, of course he never discovers the fraud until he begins to get half way down, when for some reason unaccountable to him, the flour turns dark. The increased profit to the grocer by the change is from one to two dollars.

Summary Intelligence.

Out of something more than 1500 life sentenced prisoners discharged from the State prison in sixty-three years, nearly a hundred—or about sixty-five per cent, have been pardoned; while the average length of sentence of the whole has been less than eight years, and only one in five has died in prison.

The total sum of the appropriations made during the second session of the Fourteenth Congress is in round numbers $160,552,000.

A New York bride received last week among other presents a Bible and a piece of linen.

California is to furnish a car, finished in California laurel, for the first through trip to New York over the Pacific Road.

The bear on Boston Common got clear of his fastenings recently, and breakfasted on a deer, one of his neighbors.

The people of Texas are packing beef instead of pork, as the latter is six cents a pound more.

In Brewer, Me., on Friday last, a little boy about three years of age, was so injured by a door being suddenly opened against him that he died the next morning.

A house is building in Savannah where the mortar is mixed with blood. The owner wishes to put to a practical test the proverb that "blood will tell."

It takes $200,000 a day to pay for the pork packed in Cincinnati.

The oldest woman in Hingham has just departed this life at the age of 94. Her name was Mrs. Jane M. Wilder.

The Mississippi Valley contains 768,000,000 acres of the finest land in the world, or space for 150 States of the size of Massachusetts.

Dr. E. Harris, in his health letter thus writes about scurvy: "This deadly foe of child-life killed 870 children in New York in the twelve months that ended Oct. 1st, and in Brooklyn it destroyed 402."

The Florida papers have been boasting of potatoes weighing 18 pounds each, and three to the bushel.

It is estimated that the Grant reception in New York cost $20,000. One of its features was an apple tree and two camp stools, which served as a reminder of an important event in the life of the General.

There are thirteen prisoners in the Tombs at New York charged with murder, of whom four are women.

THE BOSTON

DAILY ADVERTISER,

For 1869.

The BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER, established in 1815, is now the oldest daily newspaper in this metropolis. From the first its position as a leading journal, and its high character and enterprise of its founders. The present proprietors have aimed to maintain the character it has long enjoyed, and to make it a more complete and useful paper. By giving more attention to general news, and making the paper the medium of prompt, full and accurate intelligence, they have largely extended its circulation and increased its usefulness. Last year the establishment was removed to a new and commodious building, finished and furnished throughout with a view to prompt and efficient work, the paper itself was enlarged, and no pains were spared to make it worthy in all respects of the place it was designed to fill. These changes have also been followed by liberal additions to its subscription list, and an increase of business in all its departments.

In its editorial management the BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER aims to discuss all questions of public interest with intelligence and candor. While in politics distinctly republican, and in substantial accord with the policy which has wrought so great results for the nation and for humanity during the last decade, it is the organ of no party, is independent in its judgments, and expresses them with the same freedom and candor. For the general welfare requires. To the discussion of national topics, and the settlement of old controversies on the basis of equal rights; the return to specie payments; the development of domestic industry; whatever seems best for the credit of the nation and the prosperity of the people; as well as to the varied topics of the hour, it will bring a candid inquiry and an earnest and liberal spirit.

Our system of correspondence, already widely extended, and embracing the services of many experienced writers, will be still further improved. The Washington correspondent whose despatches have for several years given value to this department, has the cooperation of capable assistants. In New York, in addition to regular miscellaneous letters, our business correspondence from Wall Street will give the chief points of interest in the transactions there. Correspondents at the leading cities in the United States; at London, Paris, and Florence; at all places of exceptional interest; at home, or abroad, will be kept constantly and faithfully representing the affairs of this country in life and action.

News of the Day. This department includes a minute and careful record of all local events; reports of societies, of the courts, and of public meetings by competent and faithful hands; a daily summary of New England news; a concise and original summary of "News" in General; together with brief notices and comments on passing affairs. Art, music, and the drama also receive special attention, and the same careful supervision is exercised here as in the other departments of the paper, and no pains are spared to make it as full, accurate, and trustworthy as the limitations of human nature will admit.

The Business Department. The Financial, Commercial and Marine departments, which have long been a specialty with this paper, are still recognized as an important feature; and to continue to furnish a comprehensive and true business record, prepared by special and expert reporters. In the Financial Record are given a full list of the sales at the Stock Exchange, and the sales of stocks by private parties; the money market, the gold market, and the government bond market, with the latest quotations; full telegraphic reports from New York with the stock quotations, and such other financial matters as interest or value. In the Commercial Record we give full reports of the merchandise market, domestic and foreign, including a daily list of the sales at the auction departments we avail ourselves largely of the telegraph for market reports from distant points, and a daily summary of the movements of the merchant marine. This prominent character, which has heretofore been widely recognized, will be fully sustained.

The subscription price of the Daily Advertiser is $12 per annum in advance. To clubs of five and $22 for ten, in advance. To clubs of five and $22 for ten, in advance. To clubs of five and $22 for ten, in advance. To clubs of five and $22 for ten, in advance.
